While it is well known that the other provinces show increases in agricultural populations, the progress of such portions of our country is rather set off by adverse conditions where one would expect advance rather than retrogression. This is a country that for the fancied interests of a few parties, is represented as shortly able to entirely feed the people of the united kingdom with supplies, bread stuffs, etc., and supposing such an idea was either politic, or even just, the result would be the rapid destruction of British shipping, which desends on world-wide traffic, including that with foreign nations. The navy of the empire (to which Canada contributes not one cent) would then lack for sailors trained in merchant ships. Next and not less important. is the solio fact that in the United States and in Argentina, not less than a thousand millions of pounds sterling are invested by the British, and a preferential tariff in the united kingdom for Canadian product would alienate foreign nations more than now, and certainly not improve those investment dividends. The dominion has been known (such was so in 1900 A.D.), to have a haryest only sufficient for its own people, and it is notorious that Australia. owing to drought, can only ship surplus crops two years out of five, and has had to import bread stuffs not long since.-D.
