RESORT FOR OUTLAWS.

Wyoming's Famed Hole-in-the-Wall To Be Destroyed.

Casper, Wyo., Feb. 19.—The notorious "Hole-in-the-Wall," in former years a rendezvous for cattle rustlers, murderers and train and bank robbers, is now a thing of the past. The county commissioners have called for bids for blasting out a section of the high wall of red sandstone, through which a small stream now flows, and along which there is a narrow trail leading through the wall of rock to the fertile valleys within. It is proposed to widen this trail, which was used by outlaws for many years, and which, guarded by a few men, made the "Hole" a veritable fortress, so that freight teams and ordinary vehicles can pass in and out of the Hole-in-the-Wall country.

Several hundred pounds of dynamite and giant powder will be used in the work. In many places hundreds of tons of rock will have to be blasted away from the walls, while at other spots barely a few feet of rock will be removed.

The Rocky mountain Bell telephone company is now constructing a line into the Hole-in-the-Wall country, and soon the several branches there will be placed in communication with the outside world. This line passes through a narrow defile in the wall and follows the route of the proposed county road.

An old, tumble-down log house was for many years the headquarters of the outlaw band. It was only a mile from the entrance to the "Hole," and here, with a guard at the entrance, the thieves lived in perfect safety. It was here that the stolen cattle and horses were corralled and their brands changed.

Back of this ranch, and extending for a distance of forty or fifty miles, is a fertile valley broken here and there by small rolling hills. Springs of sparkling water, located at numerous spots in the valley, feed a small stream in which there are millions of trout. Along the valley of this stream and its tributaries there are beautiful meadows, furnishing an abundance of grass for thousands of cattle and horses, and it is no wonder that the outlaws chose this romantic and virgin spot for their hiding place.

In early days the Hole-in-the-Wall country was settled by ranchmen, but the depredations of the outlaws soon drove the ranchers out. With the passing of the central Wyoming outlaws, however, the rich country is again being settled by peaceable and law-abiding citizens, and evil-doers will never again find a safe hiding-place there.

Killed In Wisconsin.

Steele, Feb. 18.—The Rathburn cordwood camp, under charge of Thomas Haley, is about suspending operations for the season, mostly owing to the great depth of snow on the roads. John McDonald has returned from the back shanties. Michael Lally, license inspector, was in our village last week on business. A large number from this vicinity attended the sale of Mrs. Joseph Woodcock, in Tweed, on Saturday. News has just reached here of the accidental death of Peter Keilty in the lumber woods of Wisconsin. He left here about four years ago for the west, and as he was a steady and industrious young man, was more than usually successful in his new home.

His uncle, A. Keilty and friends in this vicinity have the sympathy of the entire community. Medicines have come thick and fast on us lately. Among the most recent are: Lawrence Haley, of this place, and Miss Way, Tanworth, were married at Erinsville, on Monday, 10th inst. Arthur Smith and Miss Minnie Smith, united in matrimony, at the Roman Catholic church here by Rev. Father Twomey, on Tuesday, 11th inst. Eleasim Trudeau has been disposing of large quantities of furs this season. The genial Adolph Burgoyne, of Belleville, spent a few days in our midst recently. Mr. Orr is teaching the Parks school this year.

Tweed Topics.

Tweed, Feb. 18.—The sale of Mrs. Joseph Woodcock's household effects, Saturday was well attended. The team of Robert McGuire succeeded in getting away from him at the C. P. R. track, and at length collided with a telegraph post.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Will Not Be a Nominee Of Democracy In 1904.

New York, Feb. 20.—William C. Whitney left New York for his Southern home in Aiken, S.C., where he means to take a good long rest. Before he left he was handed a copy of a Detroit newspaper in which he was boomed for the presidency in 1904. It was thought that the article was inspired by Don M. Dickinson, who was, with Mr. Whitney, a member of President Cleveland's cabinet.

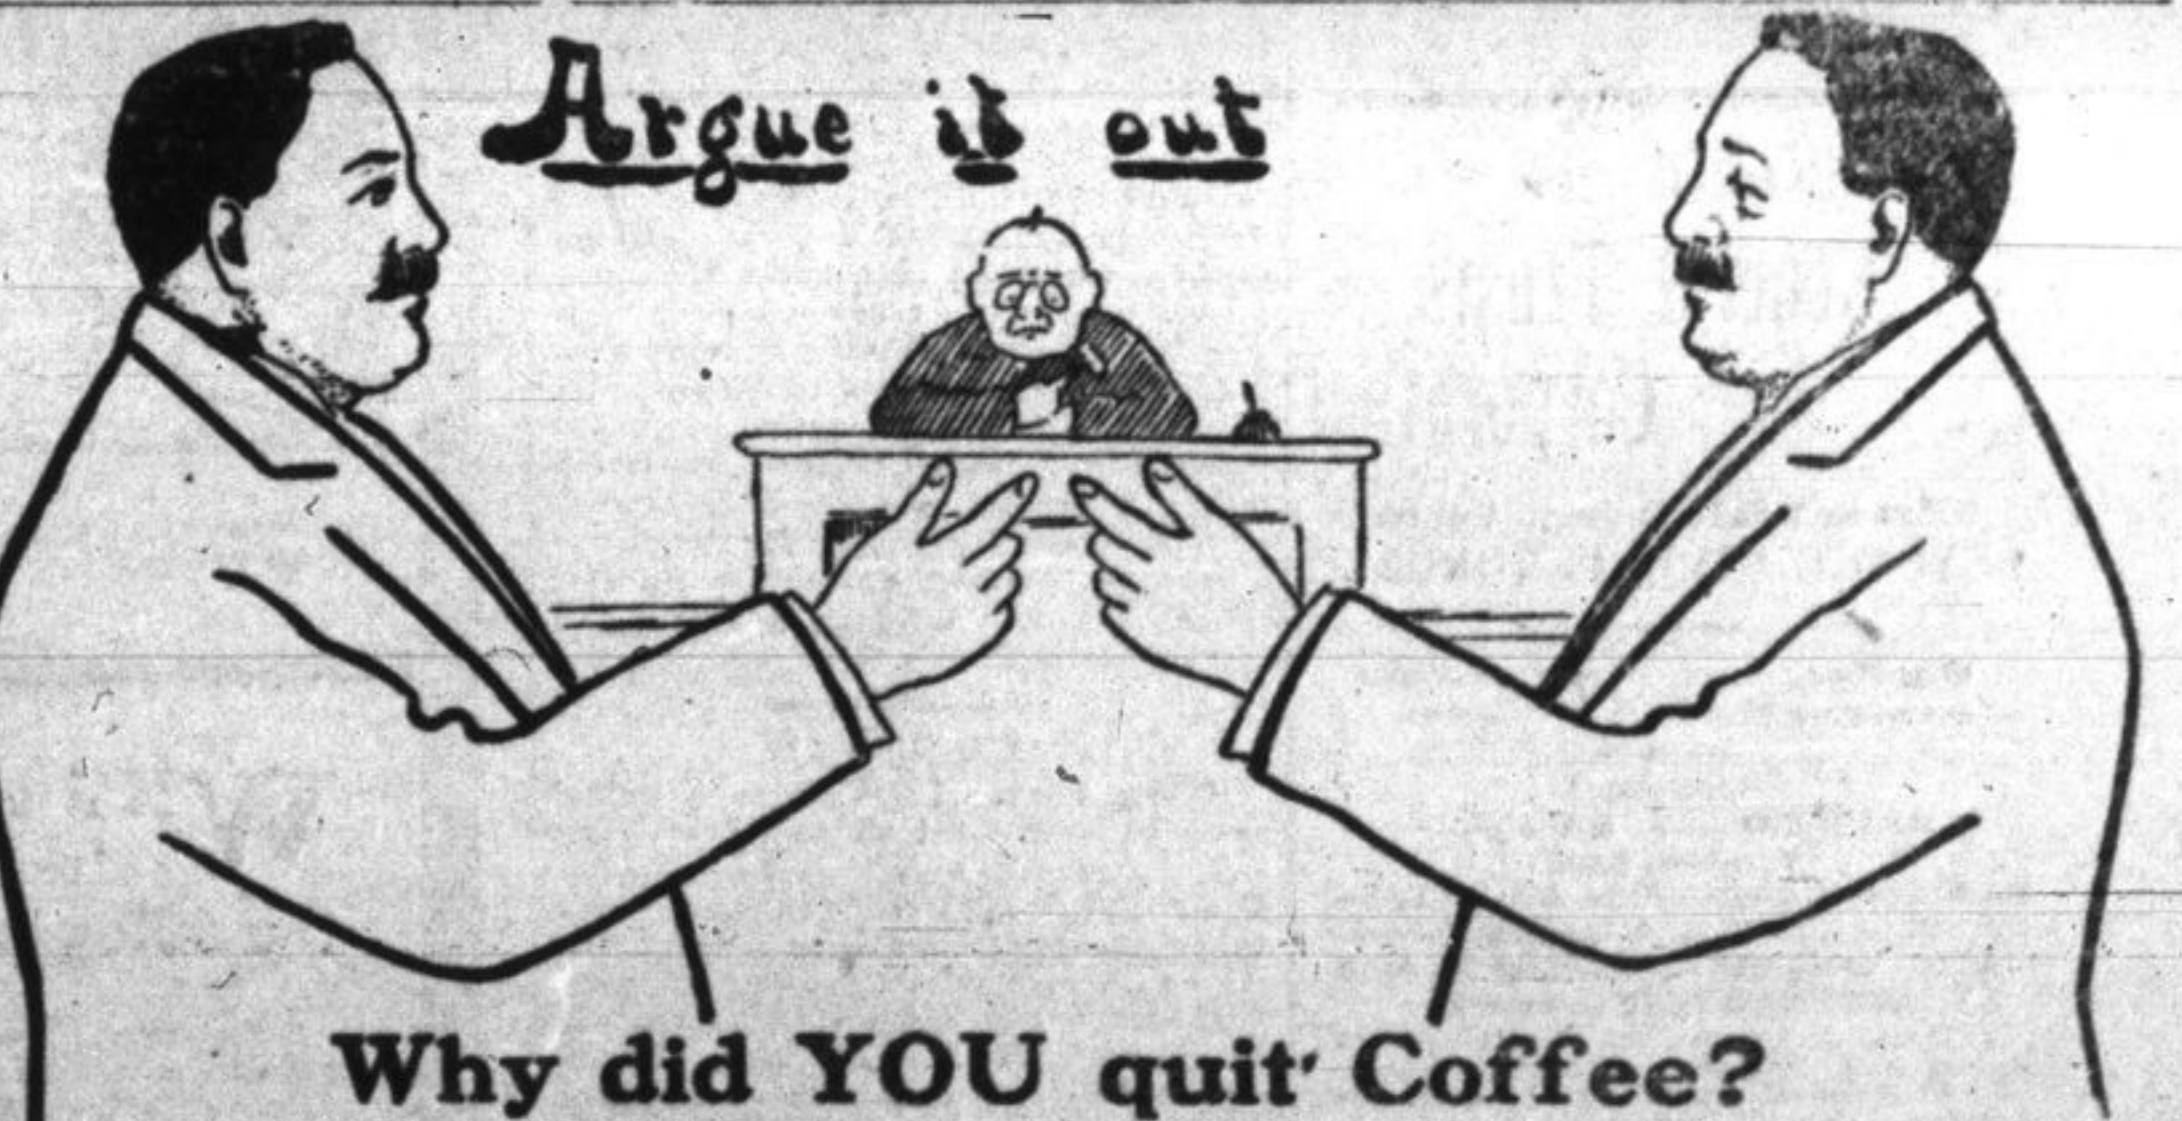

"While I appreciate Mr. Dickinson's suggestion," said Mr. Whitney, "I must be permitted to say that it is almost absurd. I am sixty years old. That is not very old as the world goes, but I cannot imagine how anybody who regards me highly, could seek to induce me to enter the political arena again, either for myself or any other man. Please tell my kind friends in the democratic party that I believe I have earned a good old-fashioned rest."

It is learned, on diplomatic authority, that active negotiations are going on to induce Italy to join the Anglo-Japanese alliance in regard to the far west. Italy, it is said, is holding back, as she is unwilling to displease France and Russia.

The Italian cabinet having determined to include a divorce bill in the enumeration of pending measures in the speech from the throne, Signor Giusto, minister of public works, has resigned.

It probably comes to every thoughtful person at times that there are plenty of common, mediocre people, and that if one determines to, he or she can press to the front, pass the crowd and win position, fame and gold. It is largely a matter of determination and health. Many a determined character with brilliant possibilities, is held back by ill health. Some find that bright, keen thoughts refuse to come to their brains, and wonder why. The kind of brain work that makes successful professional men makes heavy draughts on the filling of the minute nerve cells of the body, said filling being composed of a greyish sort of material which must be replaced day by day, or the brain and other parts of the body will not act properly. Coffee is a hidden but powerful enemy to one's progress in life. Its subtle, narcotic poison weakens heart, interferes with digestion and has a definite and destructive effect on the nervous system. People who are content to load themselves with impediments to progress, who refuse to supply body with food and drink of the kind needed to make up for the daily disintegration of nerve and tissue, must stand aside in the race for pre-eminence. The ones who are properly fed, will surely win the laurels. Postum Food Coffee furnishes the gluten and phosphates of grain needed by nature to nourish brain and nerves with food. It does not narcotize and tear down. It is frequently misjudged on first trial, because of improper preparation, but it will be found to be a most delicious beverage if, after boiling commences, it be allowed to continue boiling for fifteen minutes. This is necessary to extract the food value and flavor. There are those who are entirely careless as to what goes into the stomach, but the one who would make all his movements tend towards health and possible greatness, cannot afford to risk adulterated food or drink or even coffee.
