A CLAUSE UNACCEPTABLE ASSOCIATION AND HORTICULTURISTS CANNOT AGREE

Townships Will Likely Have Their Own Shows This Year—What The Horticulturists Asker—Appointed a Committee.

At a meeting last night of the Kingston fair association, these members attended: Mayor Shaw, D. E. Starr, alderman McLeod, J. McParland, J. Reiden, alderman Kent, R. H. Fair, W. H. Macne, H. J. Wilkinson, J. Daly, R. J. Bushell and E. C. Dean.

The terms on which the horticultural society would agree to affiliate for show purposes came up for consideration. The horticultural society asked for the same terms as were enjoyed in past years, and to avoid misunderstanding these terms were put in writing.

The directors, before adjourning, appointed a committee, consisting of mayor Shaw, Allan Chadwick and James McParland, to wait upon the directors of the horticultural society with a view to an amicable settlement of the point at issue.

The fair association have in view a scheme to raise money. It is intended to engage a man to go through the city and country and sell general admission tickets, paying him a percentage for the work.

Married Last Evening. An interesting and pleasant event took place last evening when Miss Ruth Pollett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pollett, Fine street, was united in marriage to Philip H. Burke, foreman of the Daily News composing room.

Wolfe Island Hay. Considerable hay has been coming into the city during the past few days, but the quantity is not as large as it has been in previous years. This is not because of a shortage in the supply, but because its sale has been divided into two channels.

Dr. Herald's Clear Statement. In the interesting combat in private bills committee of the legislature, Dr. Herald presented a clear and convincing defence of the vested right of Queen's university and other teaching colleges to representation on the medical council, and that it was in the public interest to have the colleges in touch with all examining boards that the standard may be steadily advanced and the board be brought up-to-date intellectually.

Waterworks' Cautious. The water works committee had a caucus in alderman King's office yesterday afternoon. These in attendance were in session for two hours. This afternoon, a regular meeting was called to take action on the matter under consideration.

Want An Investigation. Some weeks ago a protest was sent to the department of marine and fisheries at Ottawa, regarding alleged lack of qualification of a captain to command a vessel sailing on the lakes.

OBJECT TO THE BILL. Engineering Students Are Making A Strong Protest.

J. D. McLennan, a student of the Kingston school of mines, writes to the Port Hope Guide regarding a bill to be brought before the Ontario legislature this week, which would strongly oppose to it as it is only in the interests of the older members of the Canadian society of civil engineers.

The writer declares that should such a bill become law, it would not be long before the school of mining here would be forced to close down, because no young man would want to spend the four years necessary to get a good technical education and then, before being allowed to practice his profession, have to serve an apprenticeship of five or more years, to an old engineer, for which apprenticeship he might have to pay a large premium.

The junior members of the engineering profession, the writer continues, are by no means the only ones who have a kick over such a bill, for the public is also largely concerned. Under its provisions no work of construction will be done unless a civil engineer is in charge of the work.

COULDN'T DO IT. Milk Diet Failed.

Food that will actually lift one out of a sick bed is worth knowing of. A Chicago lady writes, "I want to tell of a positive cure Grape-Nuts Food has made in a case that was considered almost hopeless."

I know you do not look upon Grape-Nuts as a medicine but, inasmuch as the food certainly does build up worn out systems, it seems to me it is closely allied to a tonic. Now about the cure, a dear girl friend fell ill and was taken to one of the hospitals, but weeks before entering the hospital she had been able to take nothing but milk to nourish her, all other foods distressed the stomach so much that she tried to live on the milk alone.

The doctor in the hospital endeavored to keep her alive with broth and other food, but her stomach refused to retain anything but milk, and very little of that she tried to eat. I worked away at the resident physician until he consented to my taking her home to see what the change would do for her. The poor child was so very weak and nervous and so frail that I felt quite dubious about the outcome. Nevertheless I knew enough about Grape-Nuts Food, which I intended to give her, to feel that it would bring her out. After she had rested a little while I warmed some milk and butter, it over a table spoonful of Grape-Nuts and persuaded her to take it. She did so with fear and trembling, for she did not expect to keep the food down. After giving her the food I started to read her a story, and although it was an interesting one, she fell asleep. When she finally awoke her first words were, "Did I really keep the Grape-Nuts?"

"She had kept them but could scarcely believe it. After two or three days I gave her a little more with the same good result. Gradually and cautiously I increased the amount until after a few days she was able to eat a saucer full with no bad effects. She lived on Grape-Nuts entirely and gained strength so rapidly that she soon recovered, and now recommends Grape-Nuts to all her friends. She says she would be glad to have anyone who is suffering from stomach trouble write her, and she will tell what Grape-Nuts Food has done for her, and how grateful she is to the man who had the foresight to manufacture a food already digested so that weak stomachs can take it. Her name is Lillie W. Gestab, 4416 Washburn avenue, Chicago.

"A clergyman of our acquaintance eats a dish of Grape-Nuts before pre-paring his sermon. I asked him once if he got inspiration from the food. He said, 'Not only that, but it seems to clear my mind and make my 'thirdly' and 'fourthly' come much more quickly. Just think about one's stomach not having to think about digesting Grape-Nuts. They have done so to do it, to tickle the palate by swallowing them.' This same gentleman assured me that he would rather die than give up any article of food on the table than Grape-Nuts.

We eat the food regularly with some tea or a little fresh or canned fruit added. We call it our 'tonic.' My husband joins in thanking you heartily for its manufacture." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

NEGLECT OF LENTEN TIME. REV. G. L. STARR TALKS PLAINLY TO ANGLICANS.

Doing Things Opposed To The Worship of God—A Neglect That is Really a Misfortune.

In St. George's cathedral last evening, Rev. G. L. Starr, continued his Lenten course sermons on the seven cardinal sins, his theme being St. John's revelation to the seven churches of Asia. Last evening he preached upon the sin of the church of Pergamon, which was its trying to harmonize the worship of Baalam with that of Almighty God—or to do things opposed to the worship of God.

That sin, declared the preacher, was the sin of the Church of England to-day. The cry "Peace, Peace!" was raised when there was no peace—when Christ had declared war. The denying of self could not be harmonized with the worship of God.

Mr. Starr referred to the fact of this having created the divisions in the church to-day. He deprecated as a low ideal of religion and worship the circumstance of people joining another church because dancing and card-playing were not discontinued.

Referring to Lent, he pointed out that it was a time for the uplifting of the soul. Members of the Church of England were required to observe it by the tenets of their faith, and their neglect of it was a misfortune. They would not be held in high regard by other Protestant bodies who did not believe in the season of Lent and were not required to observe it. If they neglected the Lenten sermons and duties, it was putting self before God.

A Local Sherlock Holmes. "And so you were at the post-office this afternoon and mailed a parcel," remarked a citizen last night to a friend.

"Great goodness, yes, but how do you know?" exclaimed the latter, thinking that he had run across a second Sherlock Holmes. He had been there to be sure, but he knew his friend had not been out of the office all the afternoon, and that no one would ever think to tell him such a thing.

"That's easy," replied the citizen calmly. "Just put two and two together and it makes four every time, unless they're round packages, like a grocery store. Now they're white-washing the ceiling of the post-office, and it's the only ceiling in the city that is being whitewashed. Take off your hat and look at the big white drops on it. Some of your shoulder, where else could you have gotten it but at the post-office?"

"True, very true," declared his friend, as he wiped the white off on his coat sleeve. "But how do you know I mailed a parcel? It might have been a letter."

"It was a parcel. You would not have gotten so much whitewash spilled on you had you not gone and stood before the general delivery counter. The decorators were working all afternoon directly over that place. Easy, isn't it?"

A Kingstonian As An Editor. Herbert J. Newman, son of William Newman, of the Grove Inn cottages and a former compositor in the Kingston News office, is now located at Gladstone, Man., where he is editor and manager of the Gladstone Age, a neatly printed and bright title weekly sheet. Mr. Newman writes that the winter there has been an exceptionally fine one, with no snow to speak of. Gladstone, he says, is one of those thriving western towns that grow by leaps and bounds. The west is extending its lines in every section of the province, has recently erected a splendid new depot at Gladstone. The business portion of the town is being rapidly built up. Nearly all the residences and stores are of new white brick, which gives the town a bright, clean appearance. The postmaster is an old Kingstonian—a Mr. Rose, who used to be in the boot and shoe business in Kingston.

Married In Belleville. At Belleville, on Tuesday evening, a pretty wedding took place at the residence of James Mook, Victoria avenue, when his second daughter, Miss Lillian Fayetta, was united in marriage to Herbert Clute Gibson, son of Stephen Gibson, registrar, of Napanee. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. McIntyre, of Napanee, in the presence of about 250 guests. The bride was dressed in white tulle, with white carnations and white organdie, trimmed with satin ribbons. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. Her sister, Miss May Mook, was bridesmaid. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations and white organdie, trimmed with white silk ribbons. B. J. Gibson, brother of the groom, was the groomsmen. The newly married couple left on a trip to Toronto, London and Hamilton, thence proceeding to their future home at Calgary.

Boston Lyric Opera Company. The Toronto Globe says: "The Boston Lyric opera company, in their first appearance at the Grand opera house made a favorable impression in 'Il Trovatore.' All the principals have pleasing voices and sing with commendable earnestness and interest in their work. It can be frankly stated that the company gave a more enjoyable performance and a more honest interpretation of the opera than have been heard in the city for higher prices."

"Il Trovatore" will be at the Grand on Monday next.

A Cause of Headache. One Very Common Cause Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement of the brain and organs, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because of many causes have headache as a prominent symptom. Derangement of the stomach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain, etc., all produce headache, and if we should always think the organ which is affected the cause of headache, headache would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be in the nature of the blood and throat, when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of such headache and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the headache.

There is at present no treatment for catarrh so convenient and effective as Starr's Catarrh Tablets, a new natural remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like each other, which act upon the system through the natural channels.

Starr's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package, under the guarantee of the proprietor, and their cost is absolutely no greater than a few five-cent boxes which I procured from my druggist. I was surprised and delighted to find that each box of Starr's Catarrh Tablets had given me relief.
