DUNDONALD'S GRANDFATHER

WAS A VERITABLE BAYARD OF THE SEA.

Lord Cochrane was hounded for his attempts to rectify ancient abuses—a victim of Partisan Rancour.

The mention of the name of Lord Dundonald in connection with the command of the Canadian militia recalls at once the memory of his grandfather, the great and gallant Dundonald, who was better known to the people who lived at the beginning of the last century as Lord Cochrane.

With the exception of Nelson, there was no man in the British navy who impressed his countrymen with such a sense of courage and ability as Lord Cochrane. He was a veritable Bayard of the sea, and his exploits against the enemies of his country bordered on the marvellous. His destruction of the French flotilla in the Basque Roads in 1809 will always be remembered as a proof of his singular daring and ability. Unfortunately, however, his grandfather had a little intolerance for abuses in the navy, and he had for lack of slackness in battle. He found that the prize courts, especially those in the British Mediterranean ports, were full of corruption, which seemed to have been established for the express purpose of robbing the sailor of the money to which he was entitled from the prize he had taken.

Lord Cochrane was naturally to work to have these wrongs redressed, and in doing so he won the enmity of the courtiers and parasites who fattened on the plunder of the sailor. He also incurred the dislike of the naval authorities in England, who looked upon him as a troublesome person, who would not let them take their ease. Anyone who undertakes to remove ancient abuses will always find himself regarded as a meddling and meddling person, and will be viewed with disfavour. So when a charge was brought against Lord Cochrane of trying to influence the funds by the spreading of false intelligence, he found no defenders of his cause among the officers of the navy. On the contrary, they assisted to hound him down and triumphed over his disgrace.

Lord Cochrane's trial took place before Lord Blandborough, a partisan judge, in 1814, and he was found guilty.

He was sentenced to pay a fine of £1,000, to be imprisoned for one year, and to stand in the pillory for one hour. The latter portion of the sentence was not carried out, for if the government had attempted it, a riot would have been the result. Lord Cochrane was a popular hero, he was admired and loved by the people, who looked upon him as their champion. But the government did all they dared to do in the way of insulting and disgracing the man who had fought against ancient abuses. He was expelled from parliament and deprived of the honours he had bravely won as a knight of the Bath. No one now pretends to assert that Lord Cochrane was guilty of the charge for which he was condemned and disgraced. He was simply the victim of partizan rancour, and this fact was recognized years later when his sentence was reversed and his honours restored. In the meantime, prevented from serving his own country, in 1818, as admiral of the fleet of Chile, he took a conspicuous part in the work of freeing

SCHOOL GIRLS KNOW ITS WORTH.

Paine's Celery Compound Gives Them Energy, Snap and Full Life.

It Enables Them to Attain the Blessings and Vigor of True Womanhood.

Women and girls in every station of life who have used Paine's Celery Compound know that it is a blessing that sick and rundown females can not afford to be without.

Mrs. N. J. Gallagher, of Marlboro, Que., says: "Having used your excellent Paine's Celery Compound during the last term of school, I wish to proclaim to all the great benefits I derived from it. At the beginning of the term I was weak and languid, and having to be closely confined in school at my studies, I was not able to make satisfactory progress. My mamma got me to use Paine's Celery Compound, from which I greatly benefited, and have not had a recurrence of trouble. I formerly had mamma's great confidence in Paine's Celery Compound, for she has used it herself and given it to my brothers and sisters. I highly recommend it to all young ladies at this special time in life, when they suffer from loss of energy and strength."

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

A Parisian dressmaker says: "With each gown I make from this time on there shall be three acts of sleeves."

"But," said I, "how can they be exchanged without too much trouble?" "Oh!" she exclaimed, lifting up a part of the gown, "I turn it inside out. Look here." And quickly, before I could protest, she had pulled a thread and the whole sleeve was loose. Then, with nimble fingers, she unhooked several very tightly drawn caught hooks and eyes and, behold, the sleeve was in her hand.

"Now, look," she cried, and picking up another sleeve, she quickly hooked it into place, and, running a basting thread around, behold the sleeve was changed, and the gown was new again.

The tricks in doing this are several, as you may imagine. First you must finish each sleeve around the top, or upper part, with a narrow strip of silk braid or taffeta to keep the ragged edge from travelling. Then you must finish the armhole in the same way. Third, you must take care that the hooks and eyes are not too tight, or the sleeve will not set well. Fourth, you must be willing to spend fifteen minutes on the work of taking out your sleeves and changing them for new ones. If you will do all these things, you may have a new gown each day in the week.

The gown so liberally supplied with sleeves is a smoke color satin faced dress, rather dark. One pair of sleeves is in smoke-colored cloth, the other half the sleeves cut away from the elbow to the waist. The opening is filled in with smoke-colored taffeta of just the same shade. It is quite puffed. The edge of the cloth where the upper part is cut away is finished with narrow and very small gun-metal buttons.

One set of sleeves is in smoke-colored satin. The upper arm in the shape of a ruffle, and the lower arm is finished with black embroidery. Then comes an embroidered band around the arm, then a puff of the satin, taking in the elbow, then a tight sleeve to the wrist, finished with embroidery.

The third set of sleeves is in the smoke-colored cloth, tight at the top and gradually growing bigger. At the elbow all the fulness is caught in a big gun-metal button, and then comes a big bell, lined with blue, and with a full lace undersleeve, which is caught into a lace ruffle at the wrist.

Pillow ribbon is a ribbon that comes at about a yard. It is in many a color, and can be shirred by pulling a string at one end. This garter it so that it makes a neat ruffle. This ribbon is shirred into a ruffle, and is attached to the yoke of the gown so that it makes a full, full of silk. Over this is arranged a ruffle of lace, falling so as to cover the ribbon. The two, one over the other, constitute a very nice trimming for any gown.

There is another novelty in the world of fashion, which is the book of gold. Gold hooks come in all sizes and are made in all weights. They are also patterned after many decorations, and to own a set of gold hooks is almost necessary if you are to rival the 400, who hook their gowns with gold hooks and fasten their stocks in the same way. A high quality of brass might do, or brass with a coating of gold, for to chase the real article, or have it made to order, is somewhat expensive. To paraphrase the speech of old Polonius, "Be not so fond of the thing that hinders thee, nor pursue it with such a hot ear as to buy it with books of gold. That is the way to do it now—with books of gold."

"Talk happens; the world is and enough without you. No path is wholly new. Look at the places that are smooth and clear. And speak of those that rest the weary ear. Of mortal maladies is soon and stale. You cannot charm, or interest, or please. By harping on that minor chord, disease. Of men are made of such a stuff as this. And God shall hear your words and make them true."

"Talk health; the doctors, never-changing tale. Of mortal maladies is soon and stale. You cannot charm, or interest, or please. By harping on that minor chord, disease. Of men are made of such a stuff as this. And God shall hear your words and make them true."

A teaspoonful of olive oil, poured upon the soil of rubber plants, near the stalk, about once a month, is an excellent tonic. Washing the leaves with milk will keep them dark and glossy, and if there is a suspicion that

I Will Cure You of RHEUMATISM.

No Pay Until You Know It.

After 2,000 experiments I have learned how to cure rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles of Dr. Sloop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month, and if it does not claim pay your druggist $5.00 for it. If it doesn't I will pay him myself.

I have no samples. Any medicine that can effect rheumatism with but a few doses must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs. It is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how insupportable it seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that thirty-nine out of forty who get these six bottles pay me an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, for it won't harm you anyway. If it cures you $5.00. I have that entirely to do for you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. Let me send you an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, for it won't harm you anyway. If it cures you $5.00. I have that entirely to do for you.

UNDER THE SPY SYSTEM.

Turks No Longer Dare Assemble in Parties.

Constantinople, March 11.—In no country and at no time of the world's history has the spy system been developed to the point it has attained in Turkey today. It is a most elaborate organization and costs an immense amount of money. There are spies and counter-spies every where, and counter-spies to the fourth or fifth degree. Their number is legion, and they are to be found in all classes of society, from the highest to the lowest. Besides the minister of war, almost every high dignitary has his own set of spies. These are all rival organizations, and spend most of their time in spying and denouncing each other. All prominent persons are closely watched, and should they meet with another person of note and exchange a few words, the fact is carefully noted. No longer dare assemble in parties of six for the purpose of spending their evenings together. It is impossible for three or four of them to sit down at a table in a coffee house without having a spy at the elbow. On such occasions they always speak very low, so that everybody might hear them. Should a European converse with a Turk in the street, a spy will follow them and try to find out what they are saying. The result of all this is that the Turks avoid one another as much as possible, and whenever they do come together the conversation is on the most futile subjects, and the Turkish language is growing more and more demoralized under the present spy system.

The Export Bacon Trade.

Canadian exporters of bacon have lost ground during the past year, in their shipments to Great Britain, and the reason given, therefore by one party in the business was that the scarcity of hogs and their high price made it unprofitable to ship at times. But we asked him how he accounted for the fact that the Canadian shipments of bacon had decreased those from the United States had shown a large increase. The reply was that American bacon is a much commoner article than Canadian, and sells for 8c to the net, as against 10c for the Canadian. Consequently it is patronized to a much greater extent among the masses. For the year ending December 31st, 1901, Canada exported bacon to Great Britain valued at $1,077,545, against $5,577,225 for the year previous, showing a decrease of 770,680, whilst the shipments from the United States last year amounted to $46,279,255, as against $37,150,715 for the year previous, showing an increase of $9,128,540. Consequently, Canadian bacon is a high class article, that is no valid reason for its decreased sale in the English market, but rather the reverse. It will be seen that a much larger trade should be done in bacon between Canada and Great Britain as the latter country imports yearly over 300,000 worth of that article, and means should be devised for securing our share of it.
