OVER THE TEA CUPS.

A satire on society is "The Climbers," written by one who "knows his world," and though presumably illustrating one phase of New York society, the boundaries of that world extend far out and beyond the greater New York, and "The Climbers" is practically a satire on life. We saw it on Wednesday night at the Grand, and laughed at the capers of the worldly-minded social climber, Mrs. George Hunter, and her youngest daughter Clara, who was her mother's own child—only more so. We laughed also at the three other social climbers, at the inimitable Johnnie Trotter, with his money and his slang, but who was after all, "no dodo bird," and not so small as he looked; and, at Miss Sillerton and Miss Godesby, the part of the latter been particularly well acted. At the climbers after wealth we did not laugh, their story was in a minor key, as was also that of the climbers after happiness. Climbers all were they, climbing always, and reaching out eager hands towards coveted ends which seemed ever to be just beyond their grasp. Then came the end, and what was it? Disappointment in every case, because these climbers chose cankerous trees in the garden of life. The curtain fell on a tragedy and so closed the story of "The Climbers." And the moral? Ah, yes. The moral was there for those who chose to read it. We all are climbers, and have been from the beginning of time. Macbeth was a climber, so was St. Paul—but the difference lay in the goal. No one denies that it is right to climb, but let us see to it that the foundation of our ascent is on solid ground, not on the quick sands of life where, with each upward step, our own weight drags us down. We did not trouble thinking about the moral to be learned while those clever actors were entertaining us on Wednesday night. The amusing parts were so funny, and the tragedy so sad that we lived with those on the stage and, for the time being, forgot all else. But afterwards, we saw the undercurrent of it all, and realized that "The Climbers," clever satire on life that it is, can preach a fairly good sermon to those who have ears to hear.

On Barrie street, yesterday afternoon, stood two pretty little children, a boy and a girl. She was eating candy and handed the small paper bag towards the boy, thinking to share her treat. He looked into the bag and then withdrew a pace, refusing the sweets and saying in a tone of righteous indignation, "You ought not to be eating that candy." The wee girl's eyes opened wide with surprise and she drew nearer to the boy, as she asked "Why?" "Because it's Lent," said the accuser.

The surprise died away from the girl's face and her little voice showed the inward conviction of her superior knowledge as she tossed her head and answered: "Well it isn't, for I bought it myself at the corner store with the money Grannie gave me. So there now!"

Advice Worth Following

When several hundred people have tested a new remedy, and found it good, there is a temptation to try it. But when thousands of men all over Canada have been completely cured of Nervous Weakness, Kidney, Urinary and Sexual Disorders by a reliable treatment like that of Dr. Bobertz, and out of graitude recommended this Doctor in every way, it seems almost a duty that every man, who is similarly affected should at once write to this successful physician and obtain his advice. Dr. Bobertz' address is 565 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

He adds: "The attempt to amend Wesley's rules in the last hours of a general conference, and by a 'note' at the foot of a long report, with which it had nothing at all to do, was a blunder arising almost to the dimensions of a crime."

EQUAL TO ANY SITUATION.

Mrs. Ross Typical of What Woman Should Be.

Ottawa Journal.

A conservative member of the dominion house, who knew Mrs. Ross well, said of her: "I have met many of the wives of our public men in Canada, and I would put Mrs. Ross as being the most typical of what such a woman should be. She was gracious; she had a presence without affectation; she was always sympathetic and motherly, and was a devoted companion and counsellor of her husband. We often read of how the wives of the public men in the states rise in an easy way to the highest position there; this was very characteristic of Mrs. Ross. She was equal to any situation, and was at home in them all. You would not quite say that she was a society woman in its narrow sense. She was essentially a social woman and a social centre, and commanded the respect of all, the love and affection of the many who came to know her well. Hers was truly a lovable character. Her husband will be a broken reed by her loss. She nursed him, was his constant companion, and gave him that helpful sympathy which goes so far in making up a successful public man these days."

The Soldier And His Pot.

Fulham, Eng.

Dear Sirs,—

The pot of Kelpion issued in our C. I.V. kit was one of the few things we took from Cape Town to the front with us.

It was very useful, indeed, one of the finest and quickest remedies for cuts, sprains, skin diseases, wounds and bruises.

Your Kelpion surprised everyone who used it, for the way it cured veldt sores, and it ought to command a large sale in South Africa if advertised for that reason.

I have heard praises from all C. I. V's and regulars who used it, and I guarantee every C.I.V. will recommend it.

FATHER O'LEARY.

May Be Sent On a Mission To South Africa.

Quebec, March 15.—Rev. Fr. P. M. O'Leary is at the capital for the purpose, it is understood, of tendering advice in connection with the marking of the graves in South Africa, and it is quite probable that he will be sent over to superintend the work. A better choice could not possibly be made, as the reverend gentleman assisted at the burial of many of Canada's brave boys and knows better than anyone else the location of the graves, which it is proposed to mark in a permanent way for which substantial subscriptions are being solicited throughout the dominion.

Railroad Company To Control Dock at Alexandria Bay.

Thousand Island Sun, Alexandria Bay.

By the terms of a contract the New York Central railroad obtain control of Cornwall Bros.' dock in this village for one year from March 1st, 1902. The conduct of the business of the dock, as far as the express, baggage, ticket selling and freight matters are concerned, will remain in the hands of the Cornwall Bros., much as it has in the past. This is a radical change, however, as it means that the railroad company will be the final deciding power as to what boats will be allowed to land at the dock.

Tell Me a Friend Who Is Sick.

NO MONEY IS WANTED. SIMPLY LET ME SEND HIM MY BOOK.

You have a friend who is sick.

Write me his name. That is all—just a postal card. Send it as an act of humanity.

Tell me which book he needs.

I will either cure that friend or pay all the costs of his treatment.

I will at least do the utmost that medicine can do. I will give the best advice in my power. I may fail; but there will not be a penny of cost if I do.

I will do this at the start:

I will send the sick one an order of his or her druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will tell that druggist to let him test it for a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost is $5.50. If it fails I will pay the druggist myself.

I will leave the decision to you.

Don't say that is impossible, for I do just as I say. I have done it for years—done it with hundreds of thousands.

I will do it in any case, no matter how difficult. I only ask the sick one to be fair with himself and me.

I cannot always succeed. There are conditions like cancer, for which I know no cure. But I alone am the loser when I fail.

My records for five years show that 39 out of each 40 who accepted my offer, paid for the medicine taken. That means that 39 in each 40 are cured. That fact alone makes this offer possible.

There are 39 chances in 40 that I can cure your friend.

My success is due to a lifetime of effort, in learning how to strengthen the inside nerves. It is this nerve power alone that operates the vital organs. No organ is weak when it has sufficient power. I bring back the nerve power—That is all. It is just like giving more steam to an engine that is weak.

My book will explain it all.

Every soul who reads this knows some sick friend. You know somebody who will never find another way to get well.

Let me tell that friend my way.

I must be successful. My remedy must do what I claim.

If it did not, such an offer as this would bankrupt me in a month.

The sick one is your friend—a stranger to me. If I am willing to do so much, won't you write a postal, that he or she may get well?
