A POLITICAL PROFLIGATE. Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, of Toronto, has been anxious for years to get into parliament. In 1894, when Mr. White, the sitting member, was made collector of customs in Montreal, Dr. Nesbitt desired to represent Carleton. The local nomination, however, went to W. D. Willoughby, of Toronto. Dr. Nesbitt began operations on him at once, and in a carefully written document, in Willoughby's hand writing, undertook to buy him off. Presuming that Mr. Willoughby had to be disposed of in some way he agreed to pay $300 on his (Nesbitt's) nomination, to appoint Mr. Willoughby his election agent, and his solicitor, should a protest follow; to use his influence towards the settlement of a claim of Jennie Bolton against Willoughby, and procure her a public appointment; to secure the elevation of Mr. Willoughby to the bench, as county court judge, and in the event of failure to pay him $1,000, to get him made a Queen's counsel, and his brother a second class clerk in the public service—and within two years of the time he entered parliament! And he did not get there after all. He may not get into the legislature now. He is up against a hard proposition when he undertakes to dispose of Mr. Martier in North Toronto.

A BREEZE AT OTTAWA.

For the first time this session the opposition in the Commons seemed to be really alive on Tuesday, when the question of a new preferential tariff between Canada and the mother country came up for discussion. It was strangely introduced. Mr. Maclean called attention to the fact that the British government had been putting a tax on bread-stuffs. Opportunities, in his opinion, occurred in which Canada could have reciprocity in trade with Great Britain, and the last one came when the imperial tariff was lately revised. Canada could have had the reciprocity he advocated had it been asked for. He found fault with the premier for not accepting the programme to be discussed at the Colonial Conference in its entirety. The questions of defence and commerce were inseparably connected, and if Canada were ready for the one she could surely have the other.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier held that an important issue like this should have received different treatment from the conservative party. The proper course, under the circumstances, was to embody one's views in a motion, to give notice of it, and so secure a satisfactory discussion of it. Two points were made clear by him:

1. The government has accepted the invitation to join in the Colonial Conference in June. It has been agreed to discuss the commercial situation only. It has been felt that there will be little advantage in discussing the political and military questions. The relations between Canada and the mother country were quite satisfactory, and he hoped they would remain so. If they could be improved he did not know of it, and he had not heard any offer in that direction.

2. Until now there has not been an opportunity in which to discuss the tariff with a view to any preference being shown to Canada of the kind Mr. Maclean referred to. The new tax on bread-stuffs opened the way, however, for negotiations at the London conference next summer. "I do not," said he, "despair of being able to then bring down the basis of a system which will improve the trade relations between Great Britain and her colonies, and establish freer trade relations between all sections of the British empire." He added that when the ministers came from England, after the conference, it would be time enough to complain if they had not done their duty.

The comments of the opposition, following, were really amusing. Mr. Borden scolded because Sir Wilfrid anticipated what had taken place in England had not made a move towards reciprocity in tariffs. Mr. Kemp heard, a couple of months ago, about the tax on corn, which was remarkable seeing that the announcement respecting it in England had created a surprise. Mr. Haggart realized the change that was going on in public sentiment for a long time, and said nothing about it. For a while the opposition seemed to possess many seers, prophets, and mind readers, and they performed to very little purpose.

So the afternoon and part of the evening passed, and it resembled nothing so much this bluster of the opposition—as a tempest in a teapot.

THE REPEATING ELECTOR.

Justice Britton has just given a decision in the case of Tolmie vs. Campbell which is of more than passing importance. The plaintiff, a candidate for a municipal office in Aldersborough, County of Elgin, was defeated by six votes, and he moved to have the election annulled on the ground that several electors had voted twice, having property in different polling divisions, and that by the elimination of their votes he would be the winner of the seat.

The judge held that the double voting did not invalidate the election, and that the only recourse was to prosecute those who were guilty of repeating. These might not be deliberate offenders. They might have thoughtlessly voted for the candidate of their choice, in each division without knowing that they were doing wrong, though generally the elector is familiar with his rights and privileges. In any event the individual is not going in pursuit of the repeater. The experiment is doubtful and expensive. It is difficult to find out who voted, in a city for instance, more than once, for the majority candidate. It can be done, because at each polling division there is the record of all who obtained ballots, and the number he received.

A safer check on duplicating, whether done innocently or otherwise, would be the indication of each voter who has property in different wards by stars or asterisks opposite the names. This would suggest to the deputy returning officer the question as to whether the elector had voted already, and only on the declaration that he had not should he be given the majority ballot. The man who does wrong, when the attempt has thus been made to check him, is deserving of prosecution, and it should be carried on by public officials at the public expense.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Ross' thirty-nine articles are giving the conservatives a lot of trouble. They had no idea that they were so obstructive as Mr. Ross asserts.

The best cater is having his troubles now. There is no occasion to look for a market in England for beef, when it is so scarce and so dear at home. A juicy joint now is a rare article.

Mr. Whitney says the Ross party had a cool time of it, in New Ontario. He and his friends are going to see if they cannot have as good, and as dry, a time. The Mail will, of course, watch that canteen car as it leaves Toronto.

Has Mr. Carscallen failed to please the Hamilton people by his parliamentary service. Dr. Montague is spoken of as the conservative candidate in his division. Has Cass fallen off the pedestal to which some people raised him four years ago?

Some Chinamen have been detained in San Francisco, the steamship companies making no offer to take them back to China. The government now proposes to test its deportation law by the prosecution of the steamship companies. Will their law stand the test?

The mayor of Montreal, and a member of the legislature, advocates an export duty on pulp-wood. If Quebec resorts to that the business will boom. The Americans are now carrying our pulpwood off from Quebec and taking it into paper in their mills.

The political cry has been amended to meet the season. It is no longer, "It's time for a change," in Ontario, and with the opposition, but "We have been too long in opposition." Too long in the cold, eh? Too long living on the husks. They want pie.

In a late speech Mr. Whitney said the conservative party had been always constructive. But it is not long since The Tory said that Mr. Whitney was lacking in constructive genius. He had a mania for tearing things down, but he couldn't build anything. And it's true.

The grievances of Mr. Carscallen—that which throws all others into the shade—consists in the fact that Americans own the nickel mines at Sudbury. Didn't they buy these? Didn't they acquire the property honestly? What does Cass suggest? The eviction of the company?

The presbytery of New York, at its meeting on Monday, condemned the production of the passion play and all present orthodox creeds. The following additional nomination for the legislature are reported: West Toronto, liberals, alderman Farquhart; East Toronto, conservatives, Dr. Payne, ex-M.P.P.

George M. Naves, postmaster of Olean, N.Y., has patented a machine for cancelling postage stamps. It is reported to be superior to anything of the kind ever devised.

The teachers for South Africa are gathered at St. John, N.B., and will sail on the steamer Lake Ontario on Saturday morning. First-class passage is provided for them.

Members arrived at Liverpool on Thursday, on the steamer Majestic, and proceeded to London. He believes that Pierpont Morgan is connected with the European interests of the Marconi company.

Representatives of forty cities held a meeting at Fulda, on Thursday, and passed resolutions demanding that if the government's new tariff bill became law, all octroi charges must be abolished.

Notices have been posted in the windows of the ground floor of an imposing building, in Bishop's Gate street, London, Eng., stating that the International Banking company of the United States will shortly commence operations there.

A. E. Walker, Hamilton, Ont., eighty-two years, who had lived there since 1850, died on Thursday. Byron E. Walker, general manager of the Canadian bank of Commerce, Toronto, and H. B. Walker, treasurer of the Canada life, of the same city, are sons.

In the British house of commons, John Redmond vigorously condemned the action of the government in putting the crimes act in force in certain districts in Ireland. He afterwards called to "Col. Finerty, at Chicago, appealing for the sympathy and support of the Irish in America to enable the Irish at home to defend personal liberty and constitutional rights.

PRICE OF MEAT. Makes a Big Jump in the Queen City. Toronto, April 15.—The price of meat in Toronto has gone up, not in tiny fluctuations, but a jump that places the juicy roast of a beef on a par in luxury with New York counts and half hogs. Not long ago, sirloin steak of the tenderest kind could be purchased for fifteen cents, and round steak for twelve cents. To-day sirloin was advanced to twenty cents, and round steak to fifteen cents.

Will Set Heather On Fire. Dublin, April 15.—Commenting on the action of the government in applying sections two, three and four of crimes act to eleven specified districts in Ireland, where disturbances have occurred, the Freeman's Journal says: "The British government is killing home rule with kindness and buttering up landlordism with sham land acts. The proclamation will act as a breeze that fans the mountain-side when the heather is afire."

Talk of Assassination. Cologne, April 15.—A Belgrade dispatch to the Cologne Gazette says the Servian government has received information of a plot to kill Mgr. Firmilian, the bishop of Uskub. The bishop is a Servian prelate who was appointed in 1897, but has not yet been consecrated owing to Bulgarian opposition. It is stated that three agents of the Massonian committee, at Sofia, have started for Uskub with the intention of assassinating bishop Firmilian. The authorities at that place have been warned.

To Conceal Truth From Czar. London, April 15.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times quotes a foreign statesman's views in regard to the revolutionary movement. "The internal situation of Russia is much sorer than anyone supposes," he says. "It is so bad that it has practically crippled Russia's power for international work."

Read at Eccentric Nebraska Grave by Mr. Meiklejohn. Pullerton, Neb., April 15.—Former assistant secretary of war Meiklejohn stood at the head of an open grave, and delivered one of the most remarkable orations ever given in Nebraska. The speech, that could not be called a sermon, was written by Mr. Hodgen several days before his death, and Mr. Meiklejohn was made to promise to deliver it at the grave.

Mr. Hodgen was eighty-two years old, and was the oldest Mason and one of the best known men in the state. After an illness of three days he died, after making his friends promise that no hearse and no minister should be employed. The coffin was taken to the grave in an ordinary wagon. The speech was partially as follows:

"Dear Friends: This should be a day of joy rather than one of sorrow, cheerful and bright as a bride adorned for a wedding, I ignored the hearse on account of its dark and gloomy appearance, and for the same reason I dispensed with the services of a minister. I have concluded to preach my own funeral sermon. By profession I am a spiritualist. I believe there is no death—that spirit when it has no further use for the body simply leaves it. In this, spiritualism will succeed all present orthodox creeds. Then people will no longer worship a golden calf, but will bow down before the true God.

"I believe it is only a question of time until we are drawn upon mankind; when capital and labor will work together for the good of mankind and the rules of socialism will replace the present system."

The speech that was read into a discussion of social questions and altogether was more on the order of a political speech than a funeral sermon.

GEMS GIVEN TO EDNA MAY.

Wealthy Indian Prince Fascinated With American Actress. London, April 15.—Edna May, the fascinating New York actress, who is still appearing in "Kitty Grey" at the Apollo theatre, lately made a great conquest, that of rajah Kumar, the son and heir of the maharajah of Kuch Behar, one of the wealthiest of the Indian princes and a well-known figure in London society.

Kumar has become absolutely Edna's shadow. He is to be seen about her everywhere, shopping in the west end, motoring in the park, luncheon and dining at various restaurants, while every evening he sits admiring her from afar.

He has loaded Edna May with splendid presents. The other night she made a decided sensation at the Savoy hotel, appearing in a very smart frock blazing with all the Kuch Behar jewels, valued at nearly $2,000,000 which were presented to her by the rajah.

This came to the ears of the maharajah, who forthwith visited Edna and demanded that she restore the gems, which, besides being of immense value are crown property, and it is not in the power of any one, not excepting himself, to give them away.

Kuch Behar is a state of Bengal, India, a trifle larger than Rhode Island, and like most Indian states, very rich. It has a population of about 600,000 persons.

WHITECAPS WHIP A WOMAN.

Because She Condoned Her Wayward Daughter's Conduct. Nashville, Tenn., April 15.—Twice within the last three weeks Mrs. Thomas D. Cummings, a respectable woman residing near McMinnville, in Warren county, has been taken from her home by a band of Whitecaps and severely whipped, after which she was warned to quit the community, all because she condones the conduct of a wayward daughter.

Three weeks ago a band visited the woman's home and after whipping the mother and daughter, warned them to leave or the drubbing would be administered again in fifteen days. The daughter, who is charged with having left home about a year ago, spending several days with a physician and other men of the community, took the original Whitecaps at their word, and left the county with the physician, but the mother insists that she has committed no offence and refuses to leave.

She charges that the Whitecaps are instigated in their attacks by her husband, Thomas D. Cummings, a farmer, who is defendant in a divorce suit she instituted against him, and who, she alleges, is provoking these attacks upon her for the purpose of bringing her into disrepute.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

The Draconic Measure Proposed, Rejected by Senate. Washington, April 15.—The drastic Chinese exclusion bill, originally framed by the senators and representatives from the Pacific coast states, met defeat in the senate, and in its place was substituted a measure of lesser import, proposed by Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, extending the provisions of the present exclusion law and applying the restriction to all insular territory under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The vote by which the substitute of the original bill was yeas forty-eight to nays thirty-three. Once the substitution had been made all senators joined in its support with the single exception of Mr. Hoar, the substitute being passed by a vote of seventy-six to one. The friends of the substitute showed their strength throughout the voting on amendments which proceeded final action and succeeded in preventing any material change in its features. Some minor changes were made, admitting Chinese persons connected with national exhibitions, and providing for certificates of identification of Chinese insular possessions. But otherwise the substitute was adopted substantially in the form that Mr. Platt presented it.

GOLD-FILLED TEETH AT BIRTH Peculiar Manner in Which Baby is Marked. Worcester, U., April 15.—Dr. H. J. Sullivan, member of the board of pension examiners of Wayne county, tells of a peculiar case of birthmark, and as it is in his own family, he does not believe he can be criticized by professional brethren for wishing to see the matter mentioned.

Dr. Sullivan and wife were wedded eight years, and the stock never paid a visit until a little more than a year ago, when Agnes was born. About six months before Agnes was born the mother went to a dentist and had two front teeth filled with gold. Now that Agnes has cut her front teeth it is discovered that two of the teeth, identical with those of the mother, have all the appearance of being filled with gold. While Dr. Sullivan does not say what seems to be gold is really the yellow metal, it looks like it, and it is said that through the outside to the inside of the teeth, Dr. Sullivan says that he has cut into the bone and found that it is apparently of the yellow substance all the way through.

Dr. Sullivan said that he had never heard of a birthmark of this character, and for that reason was willing to have newspaper mention of the matter.

SMOKE NUISANCE. Railway Company Adopts a Smoke Consuming Device. Chicago, April 15.—Officials of the Lake Shore railway have determined to do away with the smoke nuisance on the entire system by the use of a new smoke consuming device.

Tests have recently been made by the management of the New York Central, which have been highly satisfactory, and it is said that with careful firing there is no escape of smoke from the engines. An official of the road says: "By the use of the 'consumers' the comfort of the travelling public will be greatly increased, as it will be possible for passengers to open car windows without being deluged with cinders and smoke. We have found that soft coal can be used, as the attachment not only consumes the smoke but shows a saving of at least one ton of coal on an ordinary run."

Vienna, April 15.—Father (Alben), a well-known Jesuit priest, has been expelled from Austria for glorifying the assassination of king Humbert, of Italy.
