PCINT IN A PICTURE. The Toronto Star pictures Mr Whitney as a workman who is gaged behing a high fence in building a platform. On one side there is crowd of curious people, representing the country, and one asks, "Hey what you got inside there?" Whitney peeps over the fence and marks, "Have patience, sir." cartoon has a word of explanation and it is this: "Although the publi is excluded for the present it is derstood that the work on the new conservative platform is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible under the personal supervision of Mr. Whit ev. ### BOWING TO MONEY.

The expected has happened in Hamilton. The conservative party managers have put aside E. A. Colquhoun, who represented the western division in the last legislature, and nominated in his place Mayor Hendrie. The slight thus put upon Mr. Colquhoun is on he is disposed to resent.

West Hamilton had, as its member, for may a long year, Hon. Mr. Gil son, the present attorney-general in the Ontario government. The people ought to appreciate an able ma when he is willing to serve them, and how the electors of West Hamilton allowed themselves that is the majority of them-to make the change they did in last general election may never be known. The man who replaced him Mr. Colquboun was a successful banker. He understood financial affairs, and was able to criticise them. But he was not, and is not now, a positician of high rank. He lacks in forcefulness of character and that fluency of speech which is the possession of the east debater. As a new aspirant for public favours he rallied the conservative workers and surprised them, and per haps himself, by his election. Now, at the end of four years, he abandoned by his aforetime political friends and apparently without much reason. Mr. Hendrie, who is choice of the party convention, is no a leader of public opinion. He is may cipal office for other reasons their capacity to adm. seer publi affairs. Mr. Colquhoun did not make much stir in parliament. His voice rafters ring. But he was just as much debater as Mayor Hendrie can be, the electors prefer him, of which there no certainty. Under the circumstan ces Mr. Colquhoun is inclined to take the field as an independent. He was heart, and to the Herald, a few days previously, have a pathetic ring. Said

Mr. Whitney, in an address at Sarnia, boasted of the popularity of hi cause. He had the impression that with all his defects the people were conservative party. Three more were | clamouring for him, that they wanted to have him exalted to the first office

The judges lamented that they had not a chance to punish Smith according to his offence, he being engaged in the most shameful trafficing in votes in South Ontario. But Mr. Whitney has never seen anything wrong about it and never mentioned his regret. On the contrary, accepting a man's silence as an indication of his consent Mr. Whitney is mite reconciled to any irregularity so long as his party gets a benefit. This talk about committees, therefore, to watch the telegraphers, personators away, represents a phase of thought which is not occupying the time of the nack. average conservative.

The Preliminary Hearing by

lice Magistrate. Eric Sharp stood up in the police court this morning, charged with this manslaughter in causing the death of Beatrice Holland. He was neatly dressed in a suit of blue, with turn a manly looking little chap, and one whom a person would least suppose guilty of any serious misdemeanor. Jessie Martison was the first wit ness called, and she was examined crown attorney Whiting. In quiet manner she related the same story as she did at the inquest. cross-examined by John McIntyre, counsel for the defendant, but no new information was elicited

Dr. Gordon Mylks, who made the post-mortem examination, was next witness, followed by police constable Aiken, who discovered the fatal revolver and the cartridges. Their evidence differed little from that which they gave at the inquest. The latter swore that, if the cartridges were old, they would frequently miss fire. 'The boy told his father that he had taken all the cartridges out of the revolver at noon time. There was only one mark on the empty cartridge when it was found, said the witness. other marks were made by members of the jury, who were examining the

"Those marks were there before saw them," said Mr. McIntyre, "I think the jury will uphold me what I say," replied the constable.
"Well, we'll have the jury here," re-

Continuing, the constable said that the boy had told him he had found the revolver under the sidewalk Monday morning; subsequently said he got it on Saturday night.
This was all the evidence heard, and the magistrate committed Eric Sharp to trial at the next court of assize. Counsel for the defendant gave notice that he would apply for food for reflection in the statements

Mr. McIntyre took occasion to refer the jury's verdict, saying he could bring a charge against them for contempt of court. The statute stated that newspapers should not refer to a case while it was in progress. It was a most unbecoming and improper the best feeling between the unfortu- yards company, at Toronto Junction, of the electors by trickery at the nate children.
