HER FATHER WAS A DRUNKARD

A Picky Young Lady Takes on Herself to Cure Her Father of the Liquor Habit.

STORY OF HER SUCCESS.

A portion of her letter reads as follows:— "My father had often promised mother to stop drinking, and would do so for a time, but then returned to it stronger than ever. One day, after a terrible spree drinking, he said to me, 'I can't stop drinking. Our hearts seem to turn to stone, and we decided to try the Tasteless Samaritan Prescription, which we had read about in the papers. We gave him the remedy, entirely without his knowledge, in his tea, coffee, or food regularly, according to directions, and he never knew he was taking it. One package removed all his desire for liquor, and he says it is now distasteful to him. His health and appetite are also wonderfully improved, and no one would know him for the same man. It is now fifteen months since we gave it to him, and we feel sure that the change is for good. Please send me one of your little books, as I want to give it to a friend."

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

NEED OF HARMONIOUS CO-OPERATION.

The General Aspect of Kingston and its Approaches—Must Work in Conformity with the Various Tastes—Let us Have Beautiful Approaches to Our City.

(Continued from last Saturday.) In endeavoring to arouse in the citizens of Kingston a laudable ambition that will tend toward the ultimate beautifying of the city, we are but following in the footsteps of others who have worked for the improvement of other cities. It is pleasant to know that a number of the Canadian cities are taking an interest in the city beautiful.

The parks committee of the city of Sherbrooke, Que., has arranged with Frederick G. Todd, landscape architect of Montreal, to prepare plans for the various parks and squares. Mr. Todd's contract covers five years, and he will make a report each year dealing with the growth and extension of the city, which will take up its future as regards the location of public buildings and streets and the beautifying of the city. The city of Sherbrooke is especially fortunate in having set aside an unusually large amount of land for parks and playgrounds, the area, according to the 1901 park census, being greater in proportion to the number of inhabitants than any other city with the United States. It is a matter for congratulation also that the city council has decided thus early to have a general scheme definitely laid down, which can be followed from year to year.

Toronto, too, is moving in this matter. The board of control has been waited upon by an influential deputation, which asked that the work of improving the parks, etc., should be done systematically.

Need of Co-operation. But to get back to the general principles and conditions of the problem discussed in these articles during the past week. In bringing public opinion to bear as a solid force upon any subject, it is of the highest importance that a program be outlined on which all are agreed. The program should be one of diverse tastes and interests can in large measure come together. The difficulty is greatest in artistic matters, because questions of taste are notoriously hard to settle. The approach to a city ought to be worked out as thoughtfully as the approach to a private estate or a great exposition, and when the time comes the problem should be put into the hands of experts. It ought to be so impossible thing to make the way in and out of a city as attractive as the city itself. That first impression, so easily formed, so indelible, is worth propitiating. (To be continued.)

THE NEEDS OF AN HEIRESS

SHE IS ASKING FOR $9,000 A YEAR.

She Cannot Get Along on the $6,000 Granted Her—The Demands of Society Will be Large When She Comes Out.

New York, May 2.—Miss Rosalie Coe Campbell has recently reached the age of eighteen, and her mother, Mrs. Emeline F. Parsons, says her allowance of $6,000 a year is not ample to properly maintain her from now on. Mrs. Parsons has therefore taken proceedings in the supreme court to have her daughter's allowance increased to $9,000 a year. The allowance is to come from the young woman's income, which at present is about $10,000 annually.

Miss Campbell resides with her mother at Bar Harbor, Me. Most of her estate is in the control of the United States trust company, as guardians. Some years ago $197,000 was put to the credit of the girl in the company, and since then the accumulations have increased the amount to $238,375. Miss Campbell is also entitled under the will of her late father, Richard L. Campbell, to the income from $150,000 when she reaches the age of twenty-one, together with whatever accumulation there may be, and in case she survives her mother she will inherit under her father's will, $300,000.

By the provision of the will of her grandfather, Charles A. Coe, she will receive $250,000 when her mother dies and she has a contingent interest in other property.

Mrs. Parsons says her daughter has attained an age when it is proper and necessary to bring her out into society, and to meet the expense she asks for an increased allowance.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

A Bit of Information the Tories Won't Cite.

A good deal is being said just now about the cost of the text books used in our public schools. It is safe to say, however, that there is one bit of information with regard thereto that the opposition will not cite, viz: the report of the school book arbitration which was appointed in 1899, and consisted of James Bain, librarian of the Toronto public library, representing the government, Richard Brown, wholesale book manufacturer, representing the book manufacturers, and Justice Morgan. After a session of fourteen days and examination of twenty witnesses, the arbitrators reported against a reduction in price of the text books used in the public and high schools, with the exception of one, viz: the high school drawing course. The reduction in this case recommended was from 30 cents per copy to 15 cents. The following extract from the report of the arbitrators is worthy of note:

An examination into the price charged in the United States for school books almost identical with those forming the subject of this reference, has satisfied us that the prices of Canadian school books are far below the prices obtained in the United States, and that the education department of Ontario has exercised extreme care in dealing with each work as to the retail price thereof, so that the public has obtained the best books at the lowest price. It has been obtained under any other system than the system of authorization now adopted by the department, and this system, while it fully protects the public and secures low-priced school books, appears to be reasonably fair to the publisher.

The arbitrators proved their statements by comparisons of prices between American and Ontario school books.

The school book commission appointed at a later date made a similar report.

The government has steadily reduced the number of text books used in the United States, and in each course, it has made as few changes as possible in the text books themselves, and it has sought to encourage our own teachers to understand the authorities of all school books. The result of its efforts to lessen the cost is shown by the fact whereas in 1875 it required 24 text books at a cost of $10.83 to complete the public school course it can now be completed with an almost one-third the number of books at a cost of something like $5.

New Automatic Block System.

Chicago, Ill., May 3.—In railroad circles much interest is manifested in the result of tests now being made made on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road with a new automatic block system. It is claimed for the new system it cannot fail to prevent collisions and other accidents when engineers disregard or fail to see signals. The mechanism is so arranged that whenever an engineer passes into a section that is blocked against him an automatic device sets the air brakes and stops the train. This device is operated by a battery of springs, which are wound up by the vibratory motion of the rails as the engine and train pass over them. Accordingly there is no dependence on electricity, which is not trustworthy in bad weather.

To Have An Italian Fete.

Marquette, May 3.—Marquette counts among its inhabitants 110,000 Italians, and their enthusiasm has been aroused to the highest pitch in anticipation of the opening to-morrow of the Franco-Italian fete, which preparations have been completed on a grand scale. To-morrow has been appropriately chosen as the opening date for it is the anniversary of the founding of the Italian mutual aid societies on the French Mediterranean coast. The Italian minister, Luconi, will be present, and the famous tenor, Tammagno, will sing. The celebration is expected to accomplish much in the way of strengthening the links of friendship between Italy and France.
