THE ANSWER GIVEN

Toronto Star. The question is asked why the Ontario government does not sell the pulp areas by auction.

The answer is that the government has devised a wiser method. Its policy in this respect cannot receive too much discussion and too close an exmination by the public to suit Hon, G. W. Ross. The suggestion that the The News objects to the Whig's pulp areas should be aurtioned will only deceive those who do not understand the question.

Timber limits can be and are at public auction because the is something that the public can buy and sell. Saw-mills abound, and new ones can be started, but pulp mills do not abound, and an outlay of $400, 000 or $500,000 is required to start

The policy of Mr. Ross has these advantages over the auction system: that (1) it brings new pulp mills in to existence, on apot, thus opening up the country; (2) gives the public ative. He has public spirit and ex- exchequer the benefit of increases in value; and (3) leaves it in the power of government to see that no pulp mill shall hold more spruce than can manufacture while another cannot get enough to keep it run-

For two hours he discussed the duestions of the day, interspersed with little bits of humor and eloquence. He clearly showed that Mr. Gallagher had not even attempted to advance any legislation in the interests of the larmers, but on several important questions had voted squarely against them. Mr. Havcock has a wonderful grasp of public affairs. The meeting closed with cheers for the king, the candidate and for Mr. Haycock. The Battersea Brass Band rendered efficient service. Many ladies were present. This was considered a good omen. Mr. Shib-ley will certainly have a good majority here, and reports from all over the riding are most encouraging.
