Opifer per Orbem Dicor." THED AND APPROVED.

Once more the Ontario government ins given an account of its stewardhip, and the people have given it enewal of their confidence. The Ross government has impressed the people favourably because it has been trying to do something, and cause its record is progressive. Me Whitney talked much of Mr. Ross failures. He has not accomplished that he had aimed at, but he made advances in that direction, he has done something that worthy of him.

Mr. Whitney has contented himself with negativing as far as he could every proposal of the government. He and his friends only realized the necessity of a policy when the crisis was on, when they had to promise great things as an offset to the performance of the government in the development of New and Old Ontario. It was then oo late. The variation of argument and contradiction of terms only phasized the fact that the leader the party and his allies were talking for effect.

The government has been sustained by a majority nearly as large as that which greeted it at the opening the last legislature, and, as usual, if will grow. It may even increase within the next few days as fuller or revised returns of the voting come

How boastful was Mr. Whitney the city hall on Wednesday! How certain was the conservative party that it would sweep the country! The disappointment must be keenly felt Thirty years were considered too long for continuous liberal rule. It will thirty years more unless the conservative press and party mend their ways.

MEMBER FOR KINGSTON.

Mr. Pense had occasion to feel proud of the victory which was won by the liberal party of the city on Thursday. In the opinion of the stalwarts, no greater battle had ever been fought in the interest of any man and gov-

Throughout the liberal candidate conducted a campaign so free of of fence that now it is over he has no thing to recall and nothing to gret. He accepted the nominion the spirit in which it was offered. He determined to do his part, honorably and fairly, and he has the satisfa-

tion of knowing that he succeeded. The liberal candidate, won because he was backed unanimously by th liberal party, and because he had behind him a magnificent organization, the best this city has ever seen. The vote that was polled, the largest on record, and the bulk of it by noon "We have," said a conservative, early the world, and we'll beat you out sight." He miscalculated the strength of liberal forces, and within three hours from the time the voting began the election was virtually se

The conservative candidate suffered defeat, however, an other accounts; cor viction was deep and abiding that th government would be sustained. Th opposition, despite the reflections its leaders, was not satisfied that the government had misruled Ontario; on the contrary it felt that the Ross government had been a good one, and deserved well of the people. It had, too, been most kind to Kingston, and its voters were not unmindful o the fact. They remembered Ross, and to his great advantage.

These considerations were not port of the conservative press. The member-elect can very well afford to overlook the mistakes of opposition, while he gives to friends and supporters the assurance that as far as in him lies he will, b his service, show his full appreciation of their confidence.

CHANGE AROUND HOME.

district went conservative-as a mat of course. It was not expected to go otherwise. What a change he come over it, politically, during re cent years?

Prince' Edward county has been re leemen. Following the successes Mr. Ross and Dr. Platt, (in the co. mons' elections), it lapsed into cor servatism, but again it has raised the banner of liberalism under the leader man, but gifted in many ways, and possessing that magnetism of person ality which wins support.! man, and conservative energy, force and fury were spent in vain against him. He has not a large majority, but it is as large as that of Monteth. conservative), in North Perth, and it s probably quite as safe.

Frontenac is somewhat uncertain at this writing. Mr. Gallagher's majority of 269 in the last election has, however, about disappeared. Last night bis friencs were claiming a majority of twenty-five for him, and he may fail to have even that. The evidence is very convincing that he has been tried in the balance and found wanting. He ought to see that politics is not his forte and abandon them as soon as possible. The liberals Frontenac must be congratulated upon their record.

Addington remains conservative, but | not hopelessly. The activity of the liberals will in due season produce the desired change. Kingston's experience offers a proof upon this point. Leeds has undergone a shock in the interest of liberalism. Mr. Beatty has been re-elected, but with a largely reduced majority. The hand-writing is on the wall Conservatism is going. Of the agencies at work in behalf of liberalism the press occupies a foremost place. The liberal papers in been enlightening in their influence, and the Whig, which covers the Kingston district, has reason to believe that it has contributed generally to the liberals' success. The consciousness of this fact gives it satisfaction.

> Many people have expressed surprise that the Whig did not attack mayor Shaw. Why should it? He was the exponent of the conservative party as Mr. Pense was for the liberal party. It was the policies not that were at issue and the argument was against Whitney's measures. It was believed the liberals had the best policy and our campaign was to sent it with force and dignity. Business men are asking themselves and others what will be the effect of Mr. Morgan's great steamship combine on the commerce of this city. Generally the answer is that it liberal policy toward the trust, the issued consolidation will be the salvation of the export trade of the port, which has been declining during the past few years. Plans for many new piers have been drawn for both the east and west side water fronts. New York needs nothing so badly as it does new terminal facilities and if it is to profit in any way by the American control of foreign steamship lines, it must provide these needed facilities. Despite the fact that New Yorkers generally were delighted at the overthrow of Tammany Hall last fall they have found much to criticize the present administration's rulings Dr. Parkhurst just before he sailed to Europe referred to Mr. Low as "Ar angel with nervous prostration." and now that smoking has been prohibited in the city hall, it is alleged by some that this is the greatest reform that has been instituted by the pres-

Although no final word has been spoken, it now appears that governor Odell's renomination will be a cer tainty. Two things operate in favor of his renomination, one is that the friction occasioned by some act of the legislature seems to have worn off the other, the uncertainty of affairs in Tammany Hall, but if governor Odell decides to accept a renomination, he must decline an offer in the world of railroads and finance that entails a salary which report names as $100,000

A sensation has been raised in musi circles over the action of dock commissioner Hawkes in selecting only those hands to play on the seven recreation piers this summer which will furnish high class and classic music. Commissioner Hawkes has in view the musican education of the masses and the tabooing of "rag time" music will be appreciated by many of the frequenters of the piers who in their native countries were accustomed to hear the best music played in the streets and parks, and thus have their ears ettuned to the grand har-
