WAS TRIED AND CONVICTED

HIS LOYALTY HAD BEEN SERIOUSLY QUESTIONED. Marshal Faud Pacha Goes to Jail For Life—Court Martial Finds Him Guilty of Revolutionary Acts. Constantinople, June 6.—The official announcement of the finding of the final court martial which tried Faud Pacha has been found guilty of revolutionary acts and sentenced to life imprisonment in a fortress, to degradation of rank and to be deprived of his decorations.

Faud Pacha was tried by court martial in March, but the sentence of this court was not ratified by the sultan, and the case was referred to another court. An irade has been issued confirming the sentence imposed by final court, and designating Bannas as the place of Faud Pacha's confinement.

Marshal Faud Pacha, who was one of the most brilliant Turkish officers in the Russo-Turkish war, was recently suspected of being identified with the young Turkish party, although his loyalty to the sultan had never been seriously questioned. He was arrested on this suspicion and tried by court martial on the charge of having entertained seditious discourses.

Rideau Guests Arrive. Chaffey's Locks, June 4.—The daily mail from Elgin arrives here at 7:30 p.m. George Howard, Cheaney's Correspondent, has the honor of carrying it. The carpenters have finished the addition to the Elgin Hotel. It is now receiving a new coat of paint and will be ready for tourists by the 15th inst.

Late James Leach. The Whig lately made an announcement of the death of an old and highly respected resident of Matawatsch, James Leach. He was one of the early settlers of Frontenac, who grew up with the country, when houses were thirty miles apart and farming was a drudgery. In 1828 he married an estimable young lady, Miss Ellen Wills, daughter of Surg. Patrick Mills and grand daughter of Capt. William McAndrew, of Ottawa.

The Best Advertising. A New York book publisher says it is impossible to sell many copies of a book without a great deal of advertising. He has tried many kinds of publicity, even employing persons to lecture about the books, as well as dressing up persons to represent characters in the stories and sending them through the streets.

Will Cost About $15,000. The plans for new buttresses and other improvements to St. Mary's cathedral are being prepared by H. P. Smith, architect, and in a few days tenders will be asked for. There are fourteen buttresses altogether, and the total cost is estimated at about $15,000. The old supports will be torn down, and stronger ones erected in their stead.

Favor Government. Toronto News (Conservative). Experience in the past has taught that where the government has even the smallest prima facie majority at first, the advantage of turn-overs on revenue and gains in bye-elections is with the government every time.

How He Felt. Edward Atkinson, addressing an audience on anti-imperialism, concluded, says the New York Times, from the vociferous applause with which he was received that there were no expansionists among his hearers. So he said, honestly.

Dr. "Joek" Harty left this afternoon for Hamilton, Ont. Victoria creamery butter, at Gilbert's.

FIRES HERE AND IN LONDON.

Comparison That Shows Efficiency of Firemen. New York Sun. London has more than a million more population than New York, but in London last year there were 2,684 fires, whereas the number in New York was 8,504, or more than twice as many. Although the number of fires occurring in London is much smaller not only relatively than New York, fatalities are much more numerous there than here.

The present strength of the London fire department is 1,175 officers and men, while the regular force of New York, Brooklyn, and Queens is 2,775 in addition to a considerable number of volunteer firemen in the rural portions of Queens and Richmond, but serious fires in Richmond are few and in Queens, Brooklyn, outside of Long Island City, which has a uniformed service, still fewer.

Of the 3,600 fires in London last year, 1,195 were from "unknown causes," 207 from defective lights, 124 from children playing with matches, 138 from oil lamps, 205 from sparks from fires and two only were authenticated cases of arson, a crime very much more frequent in New York than it is in London.

New York fire department reports are more explicit and satisfactory than those of the London department, for the number of fires from "unknown causes" is very much less. Nearly a thousand fires in a year are directly traceable in New York to the misuse of matches and about 400 in a year are what is known as chimney fires, for which there is a fine of 25.

Americans Have Nothing to Learn From Europeans. The New Amsterdam, which will open next December, will be one of the finest theatre structures in the world. The building and lot will call for an outlay of $1,200,000. In magnificence of decoration it will surpass any theatre in America and compare favorably with the best decorative art of Europe, displayed in the famous theatres of the great continental cities. The auditorium will seat about 2,000 people.

At County Court And Court of General Sessions. The county court and court of general sessions open on Tuesday afternoon, before Judge Wilkinson. These cases are for trial:

Non-Jury. Joseph T. Green vs. M. A. and John S. Sparling. Gananov. Action to recover amount of promissory note. Mona Deacon, Kingston, vs. Maria Webb, Pittsburg. Mortgage action. Corporation of township of Bedford vs. W. C. Frobenberg et al. Action for damages caused by defendant's raising a dam between Fermany and Westport, destroying part of a road.

Jury Case. Benson S. Burka vs. Elboren Pixley and the corporation of Lohorog township. Action for damages for interference with a water course in front of plaintiff's land, in township of Lohorog.

Criminal Case. The King vs. Damon Hardwick, Mountain Grove, for attempted rape. How He Felt. Edward Atkinson, addressing an audience on anti-imperialism, concluded, says the New York Times, from the vociferous applause with which he was received that there were no expansionists among his hearers. So he said, honestly.

ALL DEPENDS ON THE MEN

WHETHER INVITATION TO MONTREAL IS ACCEPTED. The Men of The Fourteenth Regiment Must Attend Drills Or The Invitation Will Be Declined. It seems very uncertain yet, that the invitation to the 14th regiment to go to Montreal for the coronation review, can be accepted. As was announced on Tuesday evening at the armories, its acceptance depends altogether upon the non-commissioned officers' and men themselves—upon their attendance at drills.

Notwithstanding the announcement on Tuesday evening, the attendance at company drills since then has not been good, and it looks as though the regiment was not interested in the proposed trip. It has been quite decided that no men will be taken on at the last moment, in order to fill up the ranks for the trip, and as one of the most pleasant ones for all concerned, and it is to be paid for at government expense entirely. The 14th has been greatly honored in receiving this invitation, the only regiment being invited on this occasion, being the Cape Town, of Toronto, Ottawa, Quebec, St. Hyacinth and Kingston. The decision on next Tuesday evening, as to the 14th will be awaited with interest.

THE MEETING PLACE. Vereeniging, Where Boer Delegates Gathered. Vereeniging, where the Boers met in conference and accepted the terms of surrender which closed the war, is a small hamlet and railway station on the main Cape Town to Johannesburg line. It is the first station in Transvaal territory after the Vaal is crossed.

Curiously enough, the name itself is Dutch signifies "Union." It is some 363 miles from Cape Town, and about sixty miles from Johannesburg, and stands on the banks of the Vaal. Vereeniging has already achieved some historic fame from the fact that it was here that the Transvaal government, which was in reality the first act of war. About a week or so before the issue of the Kruger ultimatum, the mail train was stopped by order from Pretoria, and gold to the value of about £200,000, which was being shipped to England, was commandeered. Lord Roberts' first bivouac in the Transvaal was at Vereeniging, a few hundred yards from the railway station. The main station buildings had been burned by the retreating Boers, and about the room was wrecked, but the walls were left intact. This act of thoughtfulness was at the time attributed to a sense of humorous tolerance, for some of the wits of the Boer army had insisted on the building of a festive greeting to Lord Roberts, and were no doubt anxious that he should have an opportunity of inspecting their enigmatical handiwork, which he did. The only industry of the place is a valuable colliery.

Millions In Dividends. New York, June 6.—The disbursements in dividends and interest this month will total all records for June. The stockholders of the big railroads, industrial and miscellaneous corporations are to divide among them nearly $50,000,000. Industrial organizations are to disburse $19,000,750 in dividends; railroads, $6,113,731, and traction companies, $2,819,288, a total of $27,935,803. The interest payments of the railroads for the month will amount to $13,624,481; miscellaneous, $2,916,320, and municipal bonds (estimated) $3,000,000, a total of $19,540,801.

A Successful Trick. Brookville Recorder. The scheme worked by Mr. Whitney in 1898 of running third candidates to split the liberal vote was again worked with some success last week. In London a prohibitionist was induced to run by many conservatives who led him to believe they would support him. After securing the pledges of several temperance liberals and getting their man firmly in the saddle, the conservatives deserted him and flocked back to Mr. Beck, leaving the prohibitionist to get all his support from the liberals. Their game was successful and it was not to elect a prohibitionist they aspired, but to defeat the liberal.

In The Dull Seasons. Philadelphia Record. An increasing number of establishments have adopted the rule of making special efforts to stimulate trade in the dull seasons of the year. SEPULCHRED IN SALT.

A Weird Story of the Scene at Sodom. By a Reader. With the exception of the Bluean Sea, a fairly deep Swiss lake whose bright blue waters are so marvellously clear and pellucid that objects at the bottom are seen with perhaps even greater distinctness than if the great mountain basin in which it lies were void and dry, without doubt the most extraordinary sheet of water existing in any part of the earth is that hitamian lake where Sodom stood—the Dead Sea.

And well sea has the dreary and melancholy inland sea earned its awesome epithet. For some distance round its shores, the great principle of life appears to be practically annihilated; for with the exception of a few stunted bushes, with here and there a specimen of the Apple of Sodom—a fruit externally apparently luscious and delicious, but internally but ash, and loathsome rottenness—everything is blasted as though the desolating myriads of the fell angel death were ever hovering over the doomed sterile waste. Its dismal, melancholy shores, the antiseptic which contained strown with lumps of sulphur and bitumen, present a spectacle of utter desolation; while its acid, torpid waters, pungent and biting as vitriol, any calving, ripping, waveling, lie, sullen and funereal as though they realized that they were but the sepulchral pall shrouding the entombed remains of the most wicked and most profane cities which have ever adorned the face of the fair earth. But now they are believed to lie sepulchred at the bottom of that caldron of maelstrom, stinging, semi-liquid (for one fourth of its bulk consists of various pungent salts) too wicked even for the earth to open and give them decent burial; while if any of those wretched, ungodly, ungodly miscreants, by taking refuge in pits and cellars escaped destruction by the fire and the brimstone which consumed those cities of the plain, there they would still lie; their bodies, owing to the preservative action of those salts, unaltered since the time when they fell suffocated with the fumes of the burning sulphur, literally, like Lot's wife, turned into statues of salt.

What a scene must have been enacted while the destruction was in progress. The terrible and momentary warning a tremendous thunderbolt or aerolite exploding immediately over the doomed sister cities; (see Josephus, p. 41) mighty tongues and forks of livid flame striking higher and the destruction, almost a terrible scene of fiery weird destruction, could never have been witnessed before or after upon this earth.

But a time will come when those relics against the might of Jehovah Him, and who scoff at the idea of being what is called "religious," will suffer a far worse penalty than those men of Sodom paid. O, why will they not, like Lot, escape from the destruction, and lay their sins upon Him who has paid the penalty for them upon the Cross?
