THE STIRRING MASHUDS

They Have Attacked and Captured Military Ports.

Calcutta, June 10 .- The Mashuds have attacked and captured two military posts on the Wazristan frontier. The tribe consists of 30,000 warriors and, it is feared, that they all may go on the warpath. The operations of this rebellious tribe have worried the British military authorities of India for several months. In December last six native battalions and a mounted battery were sent to reinforce the frontier force under Gen. Egerton.

eautiful to See-Heavy Fines Inflicted.

Napinka, Man., June 8 .- (To the Egitor): The past two weeks have been a series of storms of both wind and rain. In this immediate vicinity, though, they have not been as severe as in other localities. Last Friday (May 30th) I saw for the first in Manitoha a cloud-burst just north of here, and a tail eno of a cyclone to the south and west of here at the same time. It was a very beautiful sight to stand and watch each as they passed along. This country presents at times the most striking appearances in cloud effects that can be imagineo. I have seen quite a number of clouds and storms, but no two storms have ever come up alike. They range from darkest black to a light, fleecy, rolling, white drift. Last Monday, June 2nd, a storm worthy of note took place six miles from here, but could be seen well for ten miles around. A "suction cloud," The grain clause of the British budin the farmers' vocabulary, passed get passed the committee stage by over a large slough which covered 100 acres and was at the deepest six feet. Heavy rains have fallen throughout We could see a dark body, apparently corner arose an arm much resembling a stove pipe, and reached the clouds. The next day one could not find enough water where the slough had been to dampen his handkerchief, all having been lifted by the cloud.

The river is at last assuming its natural proportions, although the flats that were flooded are still quite wet, and the grading soft. Men are at work now on the grade, filling it in with brush, straw, etc., so that by the end of the week one can cross in comparative case and comfort. At present, however, it affords the onwatch the efforts of the men to get to town for provisions. They row in a boat part way, then take off their shoes and socks and walk over the mud and wade through the water. One lady said she could never start least, is a point in favor of the weed.
