Negro Lethargy Afflicts the People of Uganda-Similar to General Paralysis of the London, June 21 .- A joint mission, organized by the foreign office and the Royal society, has left for Uganda, to investigate the whole subject of the "sleeping sickness" in Uganda. The expedition consists of Dr. Low, Dr. Christy, and Dr. Castellani. These gentlemen will proceed direct from Marseilles to Entebbe, the headquarters in Uganda, via Mombasi. It is hoped to conclude the preliminary investigation into the subject in about eight months. The observers will not only study in the various pro-

MINISTERS TALKING.

Premier Barton Has Had His

Say In London. London, June 21 .- What may be called politico-coronation oratory is now in full stream. Mr. Chamberlain succeeded in preventing Mr. Seddon, prime minister of New Zealand, from speaking in public again, last night, by inviting him to dine with him privately, but Mr. Barton, prime minister of the Australian commonwealth, made a speech at the banquet of the Imperial South African light horse association. He declared that the terms granted to the Hours were not too generous for they brought good will as well as peace He hoped that the constitution would not be suspended in the Cape Colony because such a suspension of free institutions for even a day was a dangerous experiment. Australia had effected a union without parchment and Brookline electric car, which be inevitable. A story printed by the Morning Leader, illustrates Mr. Seddon's present predicament. He like other prime ministers has a military guard honor from his own colony over his residence. He is living at an hotel One of the guests asked an armed soldier, why he was marching up and down there. The guard replied: "Our own 'Dick' Seddon is stopping inside. He is sometimes too communicative to please Mr. Chamberlein and we are sent in the interests of imperial peace to head off reporters."

Mr. Lavell Injured.

Smith's Falls, June 21 .- J. R. Lavell, M.P., Smith's Falls, is going about these days with a badly figured face, the result of the reckless work of a boy, with a catapult. He was on his lawn, Monday evening, when suddenly he was hit under eve and for a few seconds he thought his eye was gone. This happily proved not to be the case, but it was close call and Mr. Lavell suffered tensely. He had been struck by stone thrown from a catapult in the hands of a boy invisible. His face was discolored, but the injury was nothing to what it might have been and came so near being.

The morning was wet and tens of thousands of people had to walk to work through a drizzling rain. The company has two or three hundred men on hand, brought from In- various out-of-town points to operate the cars, but so far not a car has been run out of the barns. The striking employees remained in session till after eight o'clock, and then announced that they would meet again at strike headquarters at noon. A rumor was put in circulation that some men, who desired to get out of the meeting, which was held behind closed doors, were prevented from doing so lest they should go over to the company. A sergeant of police visited the meeting at six o'clock, but found nothing to justify interference. The dispute has practically narrowed vinces of the Uganda protectorate the down to two points. Wing Family Reunion. Sandwich, Mass., June 21 .- Wings from far and near are fluttering toward this quaint old town, where a monster re-union of the entire Wing family is to be held here during the coming week. Those who have already arrived number several hundred and all are descendants of Deborah Wing and her four sons who came over from England in 1632 and settled at Sandwich, in 1637. The social festivities in connection with the re-union are to be held in two of the houses built by the Wing family more than 200 years ago, and which are still occupied by descendants of the family.
