which J. D. Thompson unfolded be null. He argues that the fact of his fore the city council at last night s wife seeking a divorce in America meeting is carried into enect. Mr. shows she did not regard it as null. Thompson intormed the council that He says he is an American citizen and the company and the nature of the sarily be kept quiet, for obvious reasons. The company desired to obtain an option, good for sixty days, on the old smelter site, the price to be fixed by the council. The company like the council to arrange to have the waterway deepened to the site of the proposed works. The company, pany would spend upwards of $250,at the outset would employ 150 men. The only thing the company desired for the present was a sixty day option on the site. The speaker's only interest in the scheme was that of citizen, wishing to advance the city's interests. After the company had se cured the required stock, the details of the concern would be laid in proper order before council. In addition to the option the company would like to be furnished with a sketch of the site, its approaches, etc.

Ald. McLeod was sure all citizens would be glad to hear of a business firm desiring to locate here. It was the first time such a business proposi tion had been laid before the council The company did not ask for a bon us or exemption from taxes, which was most encouraging. He moved, seconded by Ald. Craig, that the mayor be authorized to sign such an op tion as asked for, the price to 89,000, and to be made out in name of Mr. Thompson.

Ald. Craig seconded the resolution to allow it to be brought before the council, but reserved the right to vote on the measure as he considered it in the best interests of the city. Ald. Behan said that some months ago he had asked for certain information regarding the city's position with reference to the property in ques tion. He favored the scheme as out lined by Mr. Thompson. In reply to Ald. Behan, Ald. McLeod was assured that there were three other industries anxious to obtain the property, and delay should not be tolerated. He thought the city would be making a good deal if the council could sell the property for the amount paid for it,
