A CHICAGO EPISODE

Woman Mistrusted in a Citizen's Office

CLAIMS HE IS WRONG MAN

SHE DEMANDS $50,000 FOR STOLEN KISSES.

Pretty Chicago School Ma'am Brings Suit Against Wealthy Club Man, Asserting That He Hugged and Kissed Her in His Office.

Chicago, July 16.—Townsend Smith, a prominent real estate dealer and clubman of this city, is accused of attempting to kiss and hug Mrs. Lillie E. Davis, a teacher in the Anderson grammar school, and as a result a notice of a suit for $50,000 damages was filed in the superior court by Mrs.
Davis' attorneys yesterday.

Mrs. Davis alleged Smith mistrusted her in his office on the fifth floor of the Boyer building in Dearborn street, but that he had her mouth to stifle her cries for assistance.

Mrs. Davis is a pretty little woman about thirty-five years old. When she was at her home, No. 1085 Milwaukee avenue, last evening the matter was referred all questions to her lawyers.

Attorney Edwards says that the attack on Mrs. Davis occurred last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Davis was Clark and Madison streets met Mr. Smith, whom she says she has known for years. Mr. Smith stopped her, and after they had talked for a few minutes he asked her up to his office, where he wanted to see her, she accompanied him, and after they had talked for several minutes, Mr. Smith charged, and Mrs. Smith threw his arms around her, and attempted to kiss her. Finally she managed to escape from his grasp and hurried out.

When she went home she told her husband of the occurrence, and for that matter she consulted the law firm of Watson & Edwards. This led to the suit for $50,000 being filed yesterday.

Mrs. Davis avers that she has suffered greatly mentally as a result of the struggle.

Mr. Smith's home is in Lake Bluff, where he occupies a handsome summer residence. His wife is spending the season at a summer resort in Michigan. When a reporter called on Mr. Smith yesterday he was seated in an easy chair in his office, puffing complacently a big Havana cigar.

When asked about the alleged attack, Mr. Smith appeared both surprised and indignant. "Never heard of it," he said. "I don't know anything of the kind," he said. "I don't know any woman named Mrs. Lillie E. Davis. I don't know anything of
anything of the kind," he said.

Nothing ever occurred in my office. Any statements to the contrary are false. You have come to the wrong Mr. Smith. The suit, if there is such a one, has probably been named as mine. There are a lot of you know. I can't say anything about the matter, because it doesn't affect me."

With these statements Mr. Smith waved his hand to show that the interview was at an end. He is a middle-aged man, slightly inclined to corpulency, and is known as a "good dresser."

According to Mrs. Davis, she had not seen Smith for some time until the day of the alleged attack. At one time, she says, she boarded at the same house with Smith.

When reporters called at the Davis home on Milwaukee avenue yesterday Mrs. Davis would not comment on the door. Instead the conversations were carried on through the keyhole. "I don't want to talk to reporters," said Mrs. Davis. "Anything that you want to know ask Col. Matson. He is my case, and he knows all about it."

Just then Mrs. Davis' husband came up the stairs, and it took him some little time to make known his identity before Mrs. Davis would unlock the door and let him in. When questions asked, his wife called out warningly: "Don't give out any interviews. Let them go to my attorneys." Mr. Davis obeyed quickly enough and shut and locked the door.

EXECUTED AT TORONTO.

Rice Met His Death at an Early Hour.

Toronto, July 18.—Frederick Lee Rice was hanged in the jail yard at 8:02 o'clock this morning for the murder of county constable Boyd, on June 4th, 1901.

He went to the scaffold with a set, determined expression, very pale and rigid, and, notwithstanding the stimulant, given by the doctor, submitted to the ordeal without any apparent treasonable question as to his desire in this respect was not asked.

The officiating clergyman, Rev. Robert Hall, city missionary, when asked if the doomed man had made any confession, said that he could say nothing touching upon that point until he had consulted with Mr. Rice's deceased's mother, who was in the city to receive the body and to have it taken to the family burying plot at Champaign Hill.

Rice retired last night at 10:45, and lay for some time chatting with his guard. He had spent most of the day with his spiritual adviser, Mr. Hall, and was prepared to meet his fate. He said to the guard that it was hard to face the music alone, meaning in the absence of his companions in crime, Frank Rutledge and Frank Jones.
Then he fell asleep and seemed to pass a restless night. At 5:30 o'clock, he was aroused and taken to the gallows, whom he spoke a word of greeting.
Mr. Hall was early at the gallows, and after Rice had eaten a light breakfast, the minister and he were left alone.
An attempt was made to hang Rice, but then until the arrival of the hangman, Radcliffe, the time was spent in prayer. Simultaneously with the entrance of Radcliffe, the black flag of death was hoisted above the jail.

The march to the scaffold took two minutes and the body was cut down after forty-five minutes later. Pulse stopped beating twelve minutes after the drop. The coroner's jury found that death was caused by strangulation, with the face marked with ecchymosis, and the hands and feet livid.
The coroner's jury found that the drop and that it is almost impossible to break a man's neck by hanging.

SEEK WAITED FOR HIM.

A Defendant in the Defamation Suit Was Assaulted.

Paris, July 18.—The case of Mme.
Du Gast against lawyer Barbois ended yesterday in an extraordinary scene.
M. Barbois, in extraordinary scenes, Gast's relatives, recently showed the court a photo of the celebrated social painting, entitled, "The Femme Au Masque," showing a female figure, with the face masked. Otherwise it was unobscured. Mme. Du Gast was the model for the painting. The artist denied saying this, and Mme.
Du Gast brought an action for defamation, which M. Barbois won on a point of law.

Mme. Du Gast, who is a wealthy widow, rides, fences, runs a motor car, and practices music and literature, made a violent speech in court against M. Barbois and demanded that he retract his statement about her. He refused. After the case was decided Mme. Du Gast, who is a tall and powerful blonde, walked outside the court, and with a crowd of partisans around her, M. Barbois, who is seeing a scene, made his exit from a side door, but there one of Mme. Du Gast's friends, prince De Sagua, encountered him, slapped him in the face, calling him an insulter of women.

M. Barbois, who is sixty-seven years old, only said: "You shall hear from me," he declares that he will not fight a duel, but will start legal proceedings.
