

A LIFE IN PERIL.

STORY OF A GIRL SAVED BY A NEWSPAPER ARTICLE.

She Suffered From Headaches, Dizziness and Night Sweats—Her Friends Feared She Was Going Into Consumption.

From L'Avon, N. J., June, 1904. Among the thousands of young girls who bless Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for safely carrying them through that most perilous period of their lives when they step from girlhood into the broader realm of womanhood, there is none more enthusiastic than Miss Gabrielle Thomas, a young lady known to most of the residents of St. Jerome, Que., and greatly esteemed by all her acquaintances. To a reporter of L'Avon, da Nord, Miss Thomas said: "From the time I was fourteen until I was eighteen years of age my health was very bad. I was very weak, had no appetite and could do no work. At night I perspired greatly and frequently awoke with a cold. I suffered from headaches, dizziness, and could scarcely move about without becoming breathless, and I finally reached a stage when my friends feared I was going into consumption. I was under the care of doctors, but their treatment did not help me. I then tried several advertised medicines, but with the same poor results and I had come to think I could not get better. One day I read in a newspaper the statement of a young girl whose symptoms were almost identical with my own, who was cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I then decided to try this medicine and have reason to bless the day I did so. I had only used the pills a few weeks when I began to get better, and in a couple of months every symptom of my trouble had disappeared and I was as strong and healthy as any girl of my age. I have since always enjoyed the best of health and I shall be glad indeed if my experience proves helpful to some other suffering girl."

The happiness of health for both men and women lies in the timely use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which act as a nerve tonic and supply new blood to enfeebled systems. They have cured many thousands of cases of anemia, "declines," consumption, pains in the back, neuralgia, depression of spirits, heart palpitation, indigestion, rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus' dance and partial paralysis. But substitutes should be avoided if you value your health; see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is in every box. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at fifty cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOLD, GOLD, GOLD.

Hammond Thinks Witwatersrand Good For £600,000,000.

The Engineering Magazine opens with an article on "The Transvaal Mines" by John Hays Hammond, who, whatever his Jamesonian record as an engineer, is one of the world's first experts in mining. Mr. Hammond's figures are calculated almost to stagger humanity. Think of a ten mile strip of reef capable of yielding £600,000,000 worth of gold! Mr. Hammond does not say positively that it will, but only that geological investigations leave that estimate highly probable. And that ten mile strip is only a fraction of the gold-bearing area of the Transvaal. At this rate gold should some day become as cheap as copper. Mr. Hammond gives an account of the three mining regions of the colony—the Witwatersrand region, of which Johannesburg is the capital; Lydenburg and the Kaap. The first named dwarfs the other two. The Witwatersrand gold was discovered in 1853, several years after gold was found in Lydenburg and the Kaap. In 1857 the Witwatersrand mines produced 23,000 ounces. In the nine months preceding the outbreak of war the output came to 4,008,326 ounces, worth about fourteen and a half million pounds. The Witwatersrand companies were in other words, producing rather more than a quarter of the entire gold yield of the world. Mr. Hammond believes that within the next three or four years the Rand may turn out twenty-five millions worth. The advance will be owing partly to the increase of crushing machinery, but more especially to the starting of many of the deep-level properties which will then reach the producing level. Talking of deep levels, the engineers are prepared to work vertically in the Rand to a depth of 8,000 feet. The cost would be great, but, says Mr. Hammond, the profit would be greater. He estimated that for every mile in length along the course of the reef, down to a vertical depth of 4,000 feet for the dip of these reefs, gold to the value of about ten millions will be extracted. How long will the gold yield of the Rand last? Mr. Hammond thinks the mining in the Rand will cease to be profitable within twenty-five years. Shortly before the war, the Rand mines employed nearly ten thousand whites on an average monthly wage of £26, and 88,627 natives on an average of £2 9s. 9d. Most of the white workmen are British, but many of the important members of technical staffs are American. The mine and mill foremen are usually either Americans or British subjects, who have had mining experience in America. Mr. Hammond says nothing on the point of course, he would not—but this overwhelming wealth, should be made to pay its liberal share of costs for the war and for the measures which must be taken to restock and regenerate South Africa.

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

"The Carnival of Musical Romances" is a unique entertainment that is to be presented at the Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, July 25th and 26th, in aid of the Infants' Home. The ladies of the Infants' Home committee have undertaken many successful entertainments, but none so elaborate as a scale as the "Carnival of Musical Romances." Over three hundred young people of Kingston will take part in the Carnival, and for this they are being most admirably trained by Prof. Agostini and his two assistants, Mr. L. Wood and Mr. Harding. These three artists for that they are artists none can doubt after seeing one of the (hearable) trained the actors for this carnival in Toronto, Hamilton, and Ottawa. The carnival is arranged by Prof. Agostini and is an adaptation from sacred, romantic and popular music. The costumes are very pretty (and are supplied by the director in charge). An imposing act is "The Fire Worshippers of Ancient Rome," taking part in which are Vesta, the Goddess of fire, the high priestess, acolytes, of the temple, nuns, monks, choristers. The choruses in this act are from well known sacred songs and worthy of mention is the serious way in which the conductor conducts the practices of this act. There is no irreverence for the whole story is explained and the smallest chorister realizes that this is an act where frivolity is laid for.

Rehearsals are light, jolly scenes. There is the Bohemian camp and the band of gypsies are a merry, graceful throng, all the gypsy girls are pretty, and their costumes enhance their beauty, but the gypsy queen, Miss Nan Patterson, outshines them all in grace of movement when she dances alone.

There is a scene from "Carmen" that is very attractive, all the actors being good soloists. Mrs. Martin takes the part of Carmen, the sextette is a catchy number, too, and so is Sly Cigarette. As for the children's songs and dances, they are pretty as they can be. It is a great undertaking to train so many amateurs, but the director asserts that when he is through with the practices the entertainment will be one that will be worthy of professionals. Certainly nothing so elaborate a scale has ever before been attempted here. The opera house should be crowded each night for the performance will be well worth the price.

the alumnae will be financially rewarded on Tuesday night.

Miss Marie Garrett entertained upwards of fifty of her juvenile friends yesterday afternoon at "Kirkcaldy Lodge," Dr. Garrett's summer home, on the river shore. The town children drove down in two large vans, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Kirkpatrick. Mr. Gosser's children were rowed up from Milton Island and Mr. Hague's children from Yates' farm, while the Blue Bell brought Mr. Calvin's boys from Garden Island. The afternoon was perfect—the first really summer-like day of the season, and there was nothing to mar the pleasure of the al fresco affair. All sorts of games were played by the young people, and the boys went in for a swim in the inviting waters. Then came tea time and the hungry young guests gathered together on the lawn where the table was beautifully spread with good things that tasted especially good out of doors at the close of this jolly afternoon. The drive home was a fitting close to the pleasant picnic and as the vans passed through the streets many townspeople turned to look after the party of young merry-makers who were singing and shouting to their heart's content, and full of the spirit of the country life which they had enjoyed so thoroughly through the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs. Garrett.

Six little people—four boys and two girls—were solely responsible for a bright entertainment at "Ballou's" on Monday night, for the benefit of the hospital. The entrance fee was only five cents, but the little programme was worthy of a larger sum. Besides a dialogue and two or three songs, there was a three act charade, "Farewell." A bunch of roses was offered as a prize to whoever in the audience should first guess the word. The prize was won by Mr. McMaster. The young people who took part in the entertainment were Misses Mally Saunders and Bea Holmes, and Messrs. Leonard Birkett, Munro Grier, Curly Patterson and George St. Remy.
