THE HORSE IS DEAD.

Valuable Horse Succumbs Stabbing.

A valuable horse, owned by Richard Boyd, cab driver, died yesterday of wounds maliciously inflicted. Some days ago the horse showed signs egoing lame, and Mr. Boyd decided to give it a rest, trading with his brother in law, John Mckee, Plum street. The last named had the animal, pastured near his place of residence few nights ago, and was shocked one merning at finding it suffering from thirteen wounds inflicted by a "long kuife; part of the animal's intestines protruded. It was at once seen that ies were beyond veterinary skill. After suffering for upwards of week, the poor beast succumbed to its lers to be the most expert counterfeitinjuries. Mr. Boyd has a good idea of er who ever operated in Chicago, who inflicted the wounds, but being under arrest here. Officers who made to prosecute. It is a pity that the feiting plant and several sacks of culprit cannot be brought to stice.

It cannot be doubted that the officials at the court and abbey are expeeting the abandonment of the ceremonial and are wondering how the surgeons will justify their own conduct in misleading the nations. Their apprehensions may not be well-found ed, but it will not be a startling surprise for the public if a second postponement be announced in the course of the week. Various explanations of the king' the coronation, are now forced to admit that they have over-rated his recuperative powers and yet are unwilling to disappoint him. The list of explanations involves the theory that the king will be crowned as a final resource, but with a greatly reduced ceremonial adapted to the requirements of the invalid, who is incapable of enduring any prolonged strain, fatigue or excitement. The king, according to this forecast will not drive with the queen from the palace to the abbey, but will join her from the Confessors' Chapel, and only remain in sight during a few passages

Thought the King can Walk. London, July 29 .- The Times is encouraged to believe that the king's transference to a wheeled chair, in which there is presumably some approach made to an upright position is a prelude to an early attempt at walking some distance. It says that the vague rumors of a probable or possible further postponement of the coronation, which have been lately in circulation, are effectually disposed of by the publication, this morning, of the police regulations for the appointed day. Everything is a half hour later than was originally arranged, Nixon tried to win a woman's con- ville. which time is saved by the omission of the litany and sermon at Westminster Abbey. It has been decided not to alter the steps at Westminster Abbey, which shows that the officials have no fear of the king's ability to walk to his appointed place there.

New York, July 29.-The Tribune's London cable says: Coronation seats cannot be sold even at reduced prices and there is a steadily increasing feel ing of uneasiness respecting the king's condition. There are, unfortunately, strong reasons for believing that the queen, the Prince of Wales and other members of the royal family are dreading the necessity for a second postponement, and yet are not prepared to assume the responsibility of advising it since they fear that the condition are offered. One is that of symptoms of a recrudesence of the malady. Another is that the wound is not healing properly, and that blood poisoning is feared. The manager had no bank notes, and told Colonel Evans that he would have to take it in gold. Accordingly Colonel Evans sent for a guard of five men with revolvers. The gold was transferred to a cab in charge of the guard, put on board the steamer, and when the Winifredian was well out to sea it was paid over to the men.
