A QUESTION OF STYLE. The question of penmanship in the public schools is occupying a good deal of attention in the press, and not without great reason. It is an important subject, and one in which the masses are deeply interested.

Kingston, by the way, has been true to the vertical system since its inception, about ten years ago. It has not, as the London Advertiser alleges, compromised by reaching the vertical system in the first form and the Spencerian in the others.

One thing has, of course, to be remembered of all writing—that it takes on one's individuality. All writing at the outset is somewhat alike. It is in very humble imitation of the headlines. But in time it changes, though its general symmetry is preserved.

THE COAL MEN'S CRISIS. It looks as if the miners have done their cause an irreparable injury by resorting to violence and bloodshed at Shenandoah. The supreme moment came when, under stress of want, of desperation begot of long privation, men lost control of themselves and resorted to violence.

Public opinion has been, to a large extent, on the side of the men. There is a slavish life. There is an interrupted service, and it is poorly paid. The advance of wages was a reasonable one, and people generally would be glad to see it paid, even though the slight increase were added to the cost of coal.

Who is he? Devery? The name is familiar. He was chief of the police department during Tammany Hall's regime. He presided at a sort of sessions each day, and his trial of offending "blue coats" was so unique as to afford frequent contributions to the press.

TOO MANY HOLIDAYS.

There is bound to be a considerable non-observance of the holidays that are now at hand. The civic holiday comes on Monday, and the mayor has already issued his proclamation in connection with it.

Two holidays in the one week are out of the question. One or the other should have been cut out. The Saturday holiday is not, in any case, convenient, and it promises to be indefinitely kept. A day later, Monday week, might have been selected for a double purpose.

Why it was named for Saturday at all cannot be imagined except that in England half the day generally is given to holidaying, and his majesty desired no unnecessary loss of time to be incurred in connection with the postponed event.

A PARTY OF FRAUDS. A conservative politician, a presumed leader of the party since no one else is entitled to have his opinion quoted at such length, has some advice to offer. It is that the liquor act referendum be made a political issue, and that it be carried, if possible, as a means of embarrassing or defeating Mr. Ross.

The World gives this man's statement so fully that one is amazed at his audacity. The liquor vote, the whole of it, was expected to go with the conservative party. Did Mr. Whitney not oppose prohibition, and say that with him in power there would be, practically, an end of the agitation for it?

What do you think of it, reader? What do you think of these fellows who have no principle at stake, and who, in the exercise of the franchise, are influenced only by motives of revenge? They hate prohibition, but they will vote for it so that the local government will have to enforce it!

What Are Dog Days. Dog days have officially begun—the days when a dog wears his coat and pants, and wishes he didn't have to. There was nothing clammy about Devery's picnic, even though he did provide clam chowder for 30,000 persons.

A Popular Toast. The welcome report comes that the king can now use both his feet. Here's hoping that he'll get there with both of them.

Hall is to Die in Electric Chair.

New York, Aug. 2.—After counsel had unavailingly exhausted every means known to the law to save him from the electric chair, Aaron Hall, the murderer of Mumie Brannigan, will pay the penalty of his crime at Sing Sing this week.

A Graduate's Success. N. A. Brisco, M.A., has resigned from his position as teacher in the English department at the Spokane high school and has entered the brokerage business in Spokane.

he was Devery. He was very much in evidence. What does it matter how much the outing costs, and where the money comes from, so long as the fun and the refreshments are provided. The same old game of bribing the people with their own money, and tickling them with the way it is done. Devery is all right. He knows what the people want—though they pay for it—and he is proceeding to provide it in his own remarkable fashion.

EDITORIAL NOTES. A lot of the hay of the district has been damaged so much as to be unfit for fodder. But it will make mighty fine bedding for stock.

Had Salisbury any suspicion of what was going to happen when he went out of office? It would not appear so, yet the shock and awakening came pretty soon afterwards.

What lesson does the Leeds election teach the Canadian protectionists? That the British empire is tiring of free trade and turning away from it? This is not the way it is understood at home.

One of the fair directors was seen with his ear to the earth last night for news about the kind of weather the fair was going to have? All the news of that kind comes by the underground wires.

Premier Ross was, at one period of the prohibition convention, hissed. But when it came to electing the officers for another year it was in order to re-elect him as one of the vice-presidents. Some curious things happen nowadays, don't they?

The Bobcaygeon Independent protests against the precedence which it is said the colonials are discussing. Brer. Smith will have none of it. He can't help it. The table of precedence is a court institution, and the Court of St. James is not governed by Canadian press opinions.

A prohibition convention, presided over by a preacher, announces that it wants money—broadly, dough, call it what you like—for the referendum campaign. What's up? What is it going to do? The conservative party had better call in those Pinkerton men again.

Sometimes.

The lower the words the better the prayer. Who's The Offender? The man who cheats at cards may be an officer, but he's not a gentleman.

Or The Youthful Romancer. Kingston is the latest place where the sea serpent has been seen. This is a serious reflection on Kingston.

Mr. Wright was one of 150 applicants for the position, and was notified by wire to report in New York for duty the following week. Herb's many friends here are pleased to hear of his success.

"Joe" Bennett, an employee of Madole & Wilson, is walking about with his arm in a sling, caused by a burn from a tinmith's gasoline pot. The wind blew the flame and the gasoline followed up his arm. The skin on his hand and wrist was quite badly burned. "Joe" might have saved himself by throwing the pot down, but he saw that it would fall amongst a lot of chips and shavings and might cause quite a lot of trouble to extinguish.

George Lewis received a nasty cut on the top of his head last Monday while at his work in Dufresne's flour mill. A large spout fell upon him, cutting a gash about two inches long. The shade trees about town are receiving quite a trimming up. In some cases the improvement is better, but a great many think they are too severely dealt with.

D. Henwood and wife, of Syracuse, N.Y., are home for a month's visit with his father, D. Henwood, John street.

James Hossey, Lowell, Mass., is spending his holidays with his mother, Mrs. W. N. Hossey, Dundas street. "Jim," as he is familiarly called, is looking as if the eastern states were just to his liking.

The bicycle races last evening created considerable interest among the younger members of the devotees of silent steel. The races started at seven o'clock and were from W. J. Normile's shop to Long's school on the Belleville Road. Seven boys, arrayed in racing outfits, took the road, and were cheered as they made the start. In about twenty minutes they came in in the following order: 1st, Percy Madden; 2nd, C. Cesare; 3rd, H. Storms; 4th, H. Priest; 5th, W. Hunter; 6th, C. Kelly. Fred Wagner broke the rim of his wheel and was in two late for any show.

The Judge and Mrs. Wilkinson expect to start on Monday next for their annual outing at Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

Was Tortured By Eczema 30 Years. A Dreadful Case—Itching Almost Unbearable—The Flesh Raw and Flaming.

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

G. H. McConnell, engineer, in Henry's foundry, Ancona, Ont., states: "I believe that Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth its weight in gold. For about thirty years I was troubled with eczema and could not obtain any cure. I was so unfortunate as to have blood poison and this developed in eczema, the most dreadful skin disease."

"I was so bad that I would get up at night and scratch myself until flesh was raw and flaming. The torture I endured is almost beyond description and now I cannot say anything too good for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has cured me and I recommend it because I know there is nothing else so good for itching skin."

Few people realize that suffering caused by eczema and other itching skin diseases. This is an example of what Dr. Chase's Ointment is doing in the way of relieving suffering mankind. Many of the cures it brings about are more like miracles than anything else. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A LIVING ENTITY. This is Policy Chamberlain Has For Empire.

London, Aug. 3. Secretary Chamberlain and Gen. Kitchener received the freedom of the Gowers' company, of London, at a banquet. Last evening Mr. Chamberlain made a speech in which he said that his policy aimed at making the empire a living entity, in which each part would contribute to the success and security of the whole. There were two main avenues to reach this end—imperial defence and imperial trade. He was inclined to think that public opinion was more advanced in England on these matters than in the colonies. It would not be wise to force the pace. He recognized that Great Britain must be willing to bear a greater proportion than was arithmetically required. He believed the colonial countries would make a considerable advance.
