Including an estimate for the ensuing four weeks it is expected that the mills in the year ending September, will have produced 15,600,000 barrels of flour, or 300,000 more barrels than they have produced in any other year.

The total production in 1901 was 20,566,651 barrels of 60 pounds each, a decrease of 302,681 barrels, or 1.5 per cent., from the production of 20,869,332 barrels for 1900. The value of the salt produced in 1901 was $6,617,449, a decrease of $327,154 from the value of $6,944,603 in 1900. The corresponding figures for 1899 were 19,708,614 barrels, valued at $6,897,467.

DRESSED AS A BOY

A Young Woman Escapes From Rockwood Hospital.

A woman patient confined in Rockwood hospital for the insane made a sensational and romantic escape Saturday evening, but her ingenuity did not bring her the freedom she longed for, and she is again in confinement under the restraint of attendants.

About one o'clock Sunday morning she surprised the proprietor of the Anglo-American hotel, by walking in to the office attired in boy's clothing. At her request the proprietor showed her a room for the purpose of rearranging her toilet; this was quickly accomplished, as she had merely tucked her skirts inside the trousers, donned a coat over her waist and disheveled her hair under a boy's hat.

She left the hotel at that early hour to go to the home of a friend residing on Charles street, but after being an hour absent, she returned with the information that she had been unable to gain admittance. The hotel man was at a loss what to do with his guest, but concluded that the institution she came from was the best place for her, and he telephoned for a hack and started her back to the asylum. Before that institution was reached, however, she left the cab and disappeared, but at a later hour this morning was recovered by the asylum authorities.

The young woman is a native of this city, she is small in stature, and found no difficulty in getting into a man's suit of clothing and stowing away her skirts therein. She is married, her husband being employed in the west.

Death Of Mrs. Cosgrove.

The death occurred Sunday at Oates, Loughboro township, of Mrs. Cosgrove, widow of the late James Cosgrove. The deceased was a sufferer for a long time from dropsy of the heart, but bearing her illness with fortitude and cheerfulness. Two weeks ago a lovable daughter passed away and another is lying dangerously ill. The late Mrs. Cosgrove was aged thirty-four years and spent the greater part of her life in the township, where she is widely and favorably known. She was the mother-in-law of P. W. Donoghue, this city. A family of seven children survive, six girls and one boy.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Chamberlain Deprecates Any Idea of Humiliation.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—Henry J. Morgan, editor of the Canadian Men and Women of the Time, has received a letter from the Right-Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, regretting the appearance in a portion of the Canadian press of certain articles commenting on the non-appointment of himself to the premiership in England, on the resignation of the Marquis of Salisbury, copies of which articles had been sent to him by Mr. Morgan. "There being not the slightest foundation," he says, "for the theory that there is any humiliation to me in Mr. Balfour's well-deserved promotion." The minister adds: "I have never been a candidate for the office of prime minister, and I greatly prefer to continue in my present post of secretary to the colonies."

Cattle Are Dying.

A veterinary surgeon stated this morning that within the past few weeks 100 fine cows had died in this district from a disease commonly called milk fever, but which is, in reality, a species of apoplexy. The disease is brought about by overfeeding of white clover and fresh grass, the cattle fattening to such an extent that apoplexy results. The veterinary in question stated that under such circumstances the sick cattle should not be given ordinary treatment, they should not be fed, as food and medicine taken by ordinary means ensures death.

Horse Ran Away And Fell.

The horse attached to Sharpe's grocery wagon, can away just before one o'clock this afternoon. The lad driver jumped off when the animal began to kick and escaped with a few scratches. Opposite the Canadian Freeman office, the horse fell, but was not much injured. The dashboard of the wagon was kicked off.

Lawton Blackberries.

Large arrivals every morning, 10c. and 12c. per box. Liberal discount to the trade at the Carnovsky fruit stores.

In St. James church last evening Canon Macmorine delivered another of his very interesting discourses upon the authorship of favorite hymns.

HON. MR. TARTE'S OPINION

HUSTLE SHOULD BE WORD IN TRANSPORTATION.

There is Much Backwardness In The Canadian Waters—The Fast Atlantic Service—Where Terminals Should Be.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Hon. J. L. Tarte, minister of public works, was in the city this morning on his way to Halifax to attend a meeting of the Manufacturers Association in that city. In an interview he emphasized what he said a few days ago regarding the backwardness of Canadian transportation facilities and said when he thought of the great question in Montreal it simply made him sick. Regarding the fast line he said that he believed the natural Canadian terminals for such a service were Halifax in the winter and Quebec in the summer. He did not see how, Sydney could compete with its present facilities and the centre of all freight shipments in the summer season and the quicker she pushed on the work of harbor improvements the better would be her position here. Mr. Tarte left on the maritime express at twelve o'clock for Halifax.

The Congregationalists of the city are preparing a cordial welcome for the English Congregationalists who sail from Liverpool on August 21st for a tour of Canada. They are expected to arrive here on August 30th and after spending Sunday here they will proceed to Toronto and the other cities they will be entertained. They will return to Montreal early in October and after a banquet here will leave for Boston. They will visit all the Congregational churches in the various centres of Canada.

Capt. K. C. Adams, well-known Free Thinker, and miner, for many years a resident of Montreal, is dead at Sedwick, Maine.

KINGSTON DISTRICT FAIR.

Exhibits in All Departments Will Be Large.

The entries for the Kingston District Fair are arriving now by every mail and the exhibit in all departments will be large. The committee of attractions met this morning and added another new feature to the already long list. It was decided to engage the pacing mare "Magic," 2:11 1/2, owned by Vanlaven Bros, Moscow, to give three exhibitions of her wonderful skill in pacing round the track alone, without either harness or driver. This mare will prove a very popular one and thousands from all over the county will be on hand to witness the wonderful intelligence and speed of the equine wonder.

The stage attractions, which embrace nearly the entire range of vaudeville, will be under the superintendence of the Toronto Street railway manager of the Toronto Street railway, every way, new, up-to-date, amusing and clean.

The grounds will be open in the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, August 27th and 28th, when the entire programme will be presented, and on these evenings the grounds and Crystal Palace will be brilliantly illuminated with electricity. As a favor to the management, the home exhibitors should hand their entries at once to the secretary and so relieve the congestion that takes place through every one hanging off till the last week. Applications for space in the palace, or for booths on the grounds should be made at once to the secretary at the News office, Reservoir, citizens, that this is your fair and that its success depends entirely on you, so let everyone join in making the fair of 1902 a record breaker.

THE SCOTCHMEN WON.

Saturday morning on Sincow island an interesting football match was played between the teams composed of Scotch machinists and Canadian machinists employed in the Locomotive works. The Scotchmen were too clever for their Canadian cousins, and won out by a score of five to three. The teams were composed of these players: Scotchmen—Campbell, McIntosh, Donnelly, Thomson, McLean, Hutcheon, McLeod, Forsyth, A. Stewart, Paterson, B. Stewart.

Canadians—Little, Farrell, Allan, Dickson, Ferguson, G. Allen, G. Mathewson, Delaney, D. Camie, A. Harris, N. Jones.

Referee, R. McGregor; line judges, D. Jamieson, W. Ross.

INSURANCE SUMMER SCHOOL.

A New Undertaking By a Successful Company.

J. J. Harpell, the energetic business manager of Queen's University Journal and Queen's Quarterly, has returned from New York, where he attended the summer school in insurance conducted by the New York Equitable Insurance company, and which was open to immediate graduates of all the prominent universities in America. Mr. Harpell represented Queen's and the only other Canadian representative present was a graduate of Toronto university. The insurance company paid the entire expense of the 125 young graduates who attended; the class was open to graduates of this year only. In speaking of the school, Mr. Harpell said: "The Equitable Life Insurance company have certainly gone about the undertaking in a most unique, practical and beneficial way. Gathered in the class room, which was the library in the Equitable building, were about one hundred and twenty-five bright, energetic and ambitious young graduates from all the most important universities on the continent, but more particularly from the larger American universities, such as Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Columbia. They were nearly all students who had worked their way through college and were willing to work their way through life. The course of instruction was practical. Lectures were given by the company's representatives, qualified by experience to tell just how the business should be done. After lecture hours, the young men were encouraged to get out into the cities of New York and Brooklyn and attempt practice work in selling life insurance. In the class room they were told of the difficulties to be met with and of the best means of overcoming them. The general business of life insurance, the points on which the average agent is entirely ignorant, were also taught, so that the student went out knowing considerable about the nature of the article he had to offer to the public. "The introduction of such trained men of high moral standing into the field forces of the life insurance profession, must necessarily have a very wholesome effect. Its success is already considered beyond doubt and the company has decided to make it an annual institution. "It has supplied the missing link in college man's life and will undoubtedly be imitated by other financial and industrial institutions. "During the last two weeks of the session the class wrote, in New York and Brooklyn over two hundred thousand dollars worth of paid business. A pleasant feature of the session was the banquet tendered the class, which I had the privilege of attending. Here a number of stirring speeches were made by directors and students, and the class presented Mr. Tardiff, second vice-president of the Equitable, and originator and promoter of the school, with a handsome loving cup, as a token of their appreciation of his interests in their behalf. The students were seated at the tables according to the universities they represented, and at times there was a continuity of college talks. In a short my pleasure was lessened only by the absence of a number of Queen's men who I felt would have been able to give a slogan far more stirring, powerful, and sensible than any given on that night. "There was one feature of the school which in my estimation, has contributed to its success more than any other. The best and most successful men of the company, and consequently the men of the strongest personalities were placed in charge of the class. These men were constantly with the students, associated with them, in and out of class, and on pleasure trips. In this way they had an opportunity of seeing and becoming acquainted with the little details that go to make up the business man. "Nearly all the men of the class started out on guaranteed salaries of $75 a month, but some started out on straight commission. One young chap without any previous experience in life insurance wrote $30,000 worth in New York in one week, and he was a stranger in the city."

THE WORK OF A MECHANIC

HIS MACHINE IS RUN BY PERPETUAL MOTION.

Arkansas Mechanic Believes His Contrivance Solves The Vexatious Problem—Effort Cost Him Twelve Years Of Work.

Kansas City, Aug. 11.—J. S. Grimes, a mechanic, who was born in Yell county, Arkansas, and who barely read and write, exhibited a perpetual motion machine in the office of the Kansas City Journal last night that runs for hours with no other power than that furnished by the machine itself. The invention is simple, but it is the result of twelve years' work. Grimes first took a circular piece cut from a thick board and trimmed down the edges to resemble a circular switchback railway. In the centre of this board he fastened a second circular board on a steel post that fits into a ball-bearing bicycle axle. To the top board was fastened, by means of a rod, a small wheel, which was so fixed that it would strike at each revolution of the upper board at a point near the top of the inclined plane of the lower board, the lower board being slightly inclined. Grimes then placed a weight on top of the upper disc, placed the wheel at the top of the inclined plane, released it and the machine began to move and continued in motion until stopped by its inventor. The machine is started by the wheel running down the incline on one side. This takes the weight on the opposite side away from the centre of gravity and it carries the machine around until the wheel strikes the top of the incline again, when new force is imparted to the revolving upper disc. Grimes says he worked for six years before he discovered a way to force the carrier wheel over the highest point of the circular track, although the distance to overcome was less than an inch. A company is being formed to exploit the invention.

Cecil Rhodes' Birthplace.

London Daily News. Some doubt having arisen as to the actual birthplace of the late Cecil Rhodes, steps are being taken to settle the matter for good and all. It will be remembered that Mr. Rhodes was the son of a rector of Bishop's Stortford, and it was assumed accordingly that he was born at the rectory of that place. It appears that when the "empire builder" came into the world, the Bishop Stortford rectory was in course of such extensive repair or reconstruction that the Rhodes family was not residing in it, but in a white brick house of moderate dimensions hard by. The house is owned by a lady named Jarvis, residing at or near Brighton, and an order has been given to Bishop's Stortford firm to insert a plate in one of the walls recording the now well authenticated fact that the great South African was born in this temporary abode of his family.

Miss Edith Fisher, a pretty salesgirl in the Globe Association jewelry store, Clifton, N.Y., compelled a young man to give up a diamond ring he secreted, while making a pretended purchase. The fellow denied having it, but the girl locked him in a room, and made him hand over the article.
