FASHIONS FOR THE LADIES

THE WAY THE DEARS MAY FRESHEN FADED GOWNS.

Gibson Effects Have Been Popular This Year—That Type of Girl is Everywhere Admired.

New York, Aug. 13.—Summer gowns which usually begin to look faded when the season is so far advanced are enabled to retain their pristine freshness by means of a very dainty new accessory of dress, the Gibson yoke.

Even the Burne-Jones London type admits that the independent air of the Gibson model is inimitable and at her shrine we all bow in adoration.

There is one feature about the Gibson effects that will always be distinctive, and that is the expansive shoulder arrangement which emphasizes the slimmness of the waist so exquisitely.

In the Gibson shirt waists the plaits were very wide at shoulders and narrowed to a point at the neck.

One very pretty effect, however, displays a yoke of pale blue crepe de chine striped with pure lace.

The usefulness of a Gibson yoke is made manifest for the reason that it is put on and removed with the utmost ease.

Another way of shortening deceptions with the Gibson yoke is to make it detachable and wear it over a low-cut bodice, thus turning the bodice into an afternoon or street design.

Sleeves assume a great variety of design, but the one prevailing rule is that they shall have a close-fitting above the elbow and this seems to harmonize very nicely with the Gibson idea.

Below the elbow the sleeve may be varied in every possible way as long as it has the full pouch effect.

Although there are quite a number of advance fall fashions daily arriving, more attention is paid to the novelties, for positive autumn modes will not be declared for a month yet.

Madame la Mode dictates at present that all necks shall be hand-run, and later she will demand that all raised designs on dress materials shall be embroidered by hand.

There are some very dainty fashions in the shops for the little folks. Aesthetic dress always seems to be suitable to children, hence the continued popularity of the Russian blouse and the full baby waist.

For wearing with the first blouses, the skirt is draped over the head and neck and fastened at all; it is set in a yoke and box-plaited, the material being allowed to fall as it will from the shoulders; the sleeves are slashed from the outside of the arms and show under white ones, apparently part of the yoke.

For little girls, lincree hats made of lace, tulle and china silk are very dainty, trimmed with a wreath of flowers or a bow of soft pink ribbon.

Ribbon trimmings not only hold their own, but are far in advance of their ornamentation for mid-summer, as they do not "muss" with wear, humidity or salt air and are comparatively inexpensive.

charming example is of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with soft white ribbon, the ribbon running from the waistband to the hem.

The bodice is a simple baby waist with a garniture of white violets. The elbow sleeves are also completed with the white violets.

The approaching visit of the Duchess of Marlborough, who was formerly Miss Conyngham Vanderbilt, next week, has been overshadowed in the large number of gowns ordered for fashionable society women at Newport.

Your correspondent has had a glimpse of many of the toilettes designed for the gaities of the week that Newport will be entertaining its distinguished guests for President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Another Boxer Outbreak. Rebellion in Sze Chuan—Letter From Missionary.

The incessant reports of disturbances in Sze-Chuan, China, have at last received confirmation.

Dr. Sutherland, general secretary of the Methodist Missionary Society, has received from Chen-Tu a letter written under the date of June 21st.

The outbreak of rebellion in a province which has always been most peaceful heretofore, Dr. Kilborn ascribes to the influence of the Boxer propaganda.

On June 17th more than twenty of them attacked a country church belonging to the Methodist Episcopal Mission (U.S.A.)

CAGE WAS UPSET ON ROAD

WOMAN IN A DEN OF ENRAGED LIONS.

Tragedy is Narrowly Averted During Parade of a Circus—Rescued by Cowboys.

Morristown, N.J., Aug. 11.—A tragedy was narrowly averted here yesterday, in which figured a young woman and three enraged lions, members of the Linsted circus company.

The cage, containing three ferocious lions and Miss Lottie Le Strange, was upset. The thoroughfare was thronged at the time, and as the animals roared and plunged and finally fell to the ground a squad of cowboys travelling with the troupe, hurried to the assistance of the driver.

Then the lions became enraged and with frightful roars, tried to escape. They leaped from one side of the cage to the other, and Miss Le Strange, in self-defence, began to prod them and call for help.

The terrified woman assumed a crouching position in one corner of the cage, where she remained until the cowboys released her.

SOME CANDID OPINIONS

Given By a Full-Blooded Kingston Native.

The tired reporter, last evening, met a Limestoneite who had just returned from an eastern holiday trip, and the pure-blooded Kingston native, in the presence of several loungers, gave some candid opinions on things in general.

"As the passenger steamer approaches Montreal, he sees the metropolis always enveloped in smoke and mist. Quebec is just as hot as Montreal, but Ottawa seems to be slightly cooler.

"In the capital, a few days ago, two other Kingstonians and myself met. We agreed that there was nothing to draw tourists there, as compared with Kingston.

"Then the returned Limestoneite tackled another subject. Said he: "You have to go to Ottawa to do the full-blooded civil servant, for 'do-nessic,' if that name sounds bigger.
