TOUCHING OUR TRADE. The cut in freight rates, from eight to twelve per cent. on 100 lbs., in the railroads tapping the great grain fields of the west, is a circumstance of more than passing interest.

It will affect the grain trade of Canada. It will divert some of the shipments by the American routes because they will assist in the transportation very materially and will give the grain buyer an advantage he will not be slow to seize.

The reduction in tariff affects several of the roads, including the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific, and the Milwaukee and North-Western. It may be understood better when it is said that the car which, for a certain service, cost a year ago $120 will this year cost but $108. The saving will be to the farmer, and will enrich him to a considerable extent.

Some see in the movement the design of our Americans to secure a larger measure of the Canadian grain, which can be taken across the border and find its way to the European markets by the American railways. It may bring about some tariff reforms in Canada, and hurriedly. The Canadian Pacific railway and the Canadian Northern can meet the cut with great success, because the grain trade is an immense one and they should control it so far as Canada is concerned.

DEATH BY OVER-INDULGENCE. An English physician, who has been taking observations, reaches the conclusion that the stunted appearance of many people is the result of under-feeding. The race, in the large cities, is below the standard, and it is a very grave issue.

So it is. But it is not affected only by the question of feeding. The young people in the congested cities of England may not have the choicest food, but they are not suffering so much from this as the doctor supposes. They want fresh air and water and some degree of leisure. Children in the manufacturing districts are put to work too early. They are grinding and straining when they should be growing and getting only enough of exercise to develop the muscles.

The health of the people is truly a serious matter, but if the doctors will be candid they will say that more damage is done by over-feeding than under-feeding. The life of the average individual is threatened with the over-working of his digestive organs. In his make-up he represents the finest machine that is made, and the machine that is capable of performing only a certain work. Overloaded, as the stomach frequently is, and it cannot sustain its functions, and the impairment it suffers is shared by other parts of the body. What is this arterial decay which is so much discussed nowadays but the result of over-eating.

The aim of the chef is to produce the things that tempt the eye and tickle the palate, and his success is the greater the wider the range of his experience. But human nature is susceptible to his arts, and the man eats and eats to his great and irreparable injury.

It is all right to mourn for those who have not quite enough of life's good things—and the enjoyments they afford, but it is in order to mourn, and more intensely, for the masses who are killing themselves by over-indulgence.

OUT OF POLITICS. Hugh John Macdonald has gone from Winnipeg on a trip to England, and on the eve of his departure announced that he was out of politics. He has made that declaration a couple of times, and with the semblance of sincerity. Away in the west he devoted himself to the practice of law, and was passing his time contentedly when the party dined into his ears the idea that he was a publicist by instinct and training and ought to be in parliament.

It gratified his father's heart, as it is said to gratify Mr. Chamberlain's heart, to have his son in public life and presumably following in his footsteps. Yet Hugh John did not enjoy the season he spent among the politicians at Ottawa. He did not rise to the dignity of desiring to be his father's successor. With a brief experience he was satisfied and again he went back to his law books and practice.

In local politics he made some stir, was elected the leader of his party, displayed some of the adroitness of Sir John Macdonald in his campaigning, and had the happiness of being successful of becoming the premier of Manitoba. There he was content to remain. But Sir Charles Tupper had higher honors to bestow upon him. He was picked out as the man of destiny, the man who, succeeding Sir Charles, was to lead the conservative party to victory after victory. He was taken around the country and exhibited as the coming premier, and strange to say, he appeared to relish the job. But with defeat—which crushed the life out of the party—he went into retreat, and now he says he is going to stay there.

He's a wise man. He knows that he is not cut out for public life. He has no taste for it, no liking. He has the bon homie but not the tact, the genius, the intuition that made Sir Macdonald famous. He has a name that some would have been glad to conjure with. He tried it and failed, and the lesson is obvious. "Of course," said Hugh John, "I'm always ready to turn in and give the boys a hand." That is right, and that is the limit.

COMPLETED THIRTY YEARS. Congratulations are being poured in upon Hon. G. W. Ross on his safe return in a splendid state of health. His appearance is so reassuring that his followers will insist upon an ocean trip every year as a refresher. To-day, Aug. 27th, the premier completed thirty years of service in Canadian parliaments—a term of great public usefulness and personal credit. Secure in the warmest personal allegiance of his followers, and a credit to them and to the province in all his public appearances, he has every incentive to continue duty in his high post. That he may long extend the term just completed will be the wish of a countless host of Ontario's well wishers.

EDITORIAL NOTES. Mr. Roosevelt is after the trusts. But he is very canny about it. They represent votes, thousands of them, and capital, and they tell in an election.

"It is the rotten milk, and nothing else, that kills so many children," says a leading physician in Montreal. What is the health department doing about it? Anything?

England and Canada selling iron at a profit in America, and commanding an increasing trade! What is the meaning of that? Some of the Anglo-phobes will please explain.

Germany and France have deficits of twenty millions and more each. England, which was supposed to be decaying, is showing more life and vitality than any country in Europe.

According to Governor Odell, of New York, the trusts have the United States in their grip and are picking the people's pockets every hour of the day. Just what Mr. Sage says in other words.

The Sudbury Journal opposes a tax on nickle and matte until the ore can be reduced and worked in Canada. Exactly. But is the refining process so secret or costly that Canada cannot have it? Surely not.

The man Baxter, who predicts the end of the world in 1920, should be taken care of. Another of the same name scared the people out of their sleep thirty years ago. One experience of the kind is enough.

And now it is the veteran democrat, Henry Waterson, of Louisville, that abuses Cleveland, ex-president. He says that Cleveland never drew an unselfish breath in all his life and goes after all there is in sight! How are the mighty fallen!

Dr. Leydis, a few days ago, announced that the Boer leaders were gnashing their teeth. Now he is gnashing his, and because he has been dismissed from office as the mouthpiece and diplomatist at large of the Transvaal republic.

English physicians have been experimenting and proving erroneous the Koch theory as to the non-communicability of tuberculosis from cattle to men. Poor Koch! He is getting it all round, and he smiles and smiles, and holds to his opinion.

PRESS PABULUM. That Would Please Them. Some judges apparently imagine the common people should ask them for permission to breathe.

It Looks That Way. St. John Telegraph. If the price of parlor fuel does not decrease, the amount of billing next winter may exceed the volume of cooking.

What Has Become Of Them? Toronto Star. According to the Mail and Empire, the conservative party was a credit to the country, and was led by capable men, thirty-five years ago.

A Growing Wonder. Ottawa Journal. When those who stayed in the city see the other people coming back from the sea and some other places, they wonder what the others went away for.

Deserves Banishment. London Advertiser. That Nova Scotia judge who lowered his dignity by engaging in an altercation with a lot of vulgar tradesmen, deserves to be ostracized from Good Canadian society.

To Help The People. Hamilton Herald. President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading company, says God put the coal mines in the hands of the present operators. Mr. Baer would do well to consider similar remarks by Mr. Kruger before and during the war which he brought on in the name of the Lord.

Messrs. Dempsey and J. Donaldson narrowly escaped death, they being in the pit.

Foresters Talk Secession. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 27.—Members of the United Order of Foresters are vitally interested in the meeting of the high court of the order in session here to-day, as it is believed its future welfare rests upon the results of the meeting. Though the matter has been closely guarded, it has leaked out that a certain element of the order, said to be led by Judge James Schomaker, former supreme chief ranger, is dissatisfied with the present methods of making loans and investments of the reserve funds of the society, and has brought about the present meeting for the purpose of urging a full investigation.

Of Young Resident of Cape Vincent, N.Y.

Cape Vincent, Aug. 26.—S. Blake, this village, acting strangely for some time, became worse Monday and assaulted his wife. He was placed under guard and a commission of doctors will examine him to-day to determine whether he shall be sent to the asylum at Ogdensburg or not. The case is a sad one, as he is a young man and well thought of, and has a wife and three little children. Rev. Mr. Rouliard, wife and daughter, of Philadelphia, Pa., were guests of the family of J. Revolutionize Mining In Alaska. Seattle, Wash., Aug. 27.—Machinery which has been taken to Nome during the last month or two is expected to revolutionize both prospecting and the actual mining of gold on the Behring Sea coast. Heretofore, prospecting has been done in winter either by burning or using steam thawers, which are slow and expensive, and in the summer by cross-cutting streams. With the machinery now being introduced it will be possible to determine the value of the ground within a few days at a trifling sum, compared to the present cost. Mining experts declare that if the machinery now being introduced had been used at Nome three seasons ago the annual output of the district would now exceed $25,000,000.

STEALS TO BE WITH LOVER. New York Girl in Paris Robs Her Benefactress. Paris, Aug. 27.—Leonie Brandison said to be a New York girl who eloped three years ago and came to Paris with Richard Brandreth, a horse trainer, is accused of having steadily abstracted money from her employer, who keeps a pastry shop frequented by fashionable Anglo-Americans, in which she was a salesgirl. She was caught pilfering yesterday, and tearfully explained that her lover was going home next month, and had refused to take her unless she had paid for first-class ocean passage for both. So she said she stole a little every day. A wealthy American woman, on learning the facts, made good the amount said to have been stolen, on condition that the prosecution was dropped, and that the fair culprit would take a position as a child's nurse, and give up association with Brandreth. Leonie accepted the proposition, but to-day ran off with some of her benefactress' property and went to join her lover at Hamburg.

KILLS BROTHER IN DUEL. Men in Love With Girl Fight it Out. Berlin, Aug. 27.—Two brothers named Lanzik, of Essek, Slavonia, loved the same girl and she refused to choose either, and as neither would give up his suit they determined to fight for her. They agreed to have no seconds, no witnesses and to fight to the death. One pitch black night the brothers entered a wood with lanterns which they hung on trees fifteen paces apart, and under them they stood with revolvers. They fired. The younger fell with a bullet through his chest and is not expected to survive. The elder has a severe wound. When asked about the duel the girl said she knew nothing of it, cared less, and would not have married either for wealth untold.
