It was moved by Ald. Walkem and seconded by Ald. McLeod that the terms asked by Mr. Gillies be accepted. Ald, Craig, Parrell and King thought that the motion was too broad, but the mover said he introduced it simply to bring the matter under discussion. J. D. Thompson gave some facts concerning the industry, though no mentioning its nature. He stated that one of the buildings would be feet in length. The industry would not be injurious to the community, and 20,000 tons of coal would be needed each year for its running. It had been a close shave, Mr. Thompson'said, as to whether Ottawa would get the in dustry. Men were behind it, the speak er said, who were good, solid Canadians, whose word was as good as their bond. The details of the concern were not actually completed yet. Last week the capitalists at the head of the proposed industry brought a chemist to Kingston at a cost of $1,000, and if they didn't mean business they wouldn't spend that amount of money. The city solicitor faised the question as to the forfeit clause in Mr. Gillies' letter. Ald. Walkem stated that if the city failed in its part of the agreement the $2,000 would not be

Ald. Farrell pointed out that the efter of Mr. Gillies contained nothing as to the erection of buildings on the and, which condition was included in the option to Mr. Thompson, which nded Sept. 1st.

Ald. Craig stated that if the coun il agreed to the request made in the etter, it would simply amount to selling the smelter property for $9,000, nothing more or less. The letter contained no guarantee that the industry would go on. The industry was a much needed one here, but the council should guard its interests.

fully protected the interests of the city, the chief clauses being one which provided for the establishment of a manufacturing industry upon the land, and for exemption from taxation for ten years on the property value over

Capt. Gaskin, president of the Board of Trade, was called upon, and stated that the scheme was feasible, particularly because those interested didn't come here and ask the people for one cent.
