RULE AS TO FLYING PLANS OF PLUMBING

Meeting of Board of Health—The Need of an Inspector of Plumbing Considered—Wants an Old Condemned Sewer Closed.

The dog days being over, Chairman McIntyre of the board of health, considered it expedient to call his colleagues together to discuss the health of the city. During the past two or three months the inhabitants got along remarkably well, physically; as a local physician put it: "The people kept beastly healthy." However, Chairman McIntyre felt that it was necessary to again put his colleagues on the war path after germs, bacilli, foul odors, etc., so he called them together Tuesday and formally opened the fall campaign. Those who responded to the call-to-arms were: Capt. Gaskin, R. Meek, J. D. Thompson, Dr. Fee and Sanitary Inspector Gordon.

The minutes of three special meetings, held last spring, were read and confirmed. The chairman remarked that he was pleased to see so many members present after the usual summer vacation.

The report of the city engineer and medical health officer, upon the condition of cellars under Nos. 172 to 181 Rideau street, was read. Only one of all the cellar's inspected was found dry and satisfactory; none of them are drained.

Sanitary Inspector Gordon informed the board that a drain in that portion of Rideau street was urgent.

Mr. Meek was disappointed that the report did not contain information as to where the drain would run to and its cost.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that all the board had to do was to decide as to whether or not a drain was needed; the cost was a question for the city council to deal with.

Mr. Thompson agreed with the last speaker, but considered that the information desired by the board should have been given by the city engineer.

Mr. Meek would like to see a by-law passed that would prevent the building of houses unless drainage was assured. He pointed out that the council had once been pressed by the board to build a drain in York street, and that body had refused to act.

Subsequently, however, means were found to have the drain built.

Mr. Thompson stated that it might be cheaper for the city to buy the Rideau street property and close up the houses, rather than to build the desired drain.

To end the discussion, it was moved by Messrs. Thompson and Meek, that the report under discussion be referred back for further information, as to whether or not the drain was necessary on sanitary grounds, and as to where the drain would begin and end, and the cost of the same; also, that the city engineer be asked to attend the next meeting of the board.

S. Richards, 102 York street, wrote the board to the effect that a condemned drain crossing his premises and used by citizens had not been closed up, and would not be unless the board took action; a new drain had been built to replace the old one. People using the old drain have threatened action if the drain is closed up.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that this old drain was the one over which so much discussion took place last spring. Some of Mr. Crawford's furnishings store, has returned from a couple of weeks' holidays, a portion of which he spent in Watertown, N.Y.

William J. Bennett, formerly of this city, now of Norfolk, Va., arrived in the city to-day. He and a party of friends are making a tour of Canada.

J. P. O'Connell, of the Golf House, and M. J. Farley, of the Phoenix Hotel, New York, were the guests to-day of James Spence, of the Imperial Hotel.

Sgt. Posthoff of the New York police force, making a tour of the Thousand Islands, called at the local police station yesterday and was shown around.

Misses Annie and Mary Currie, after spending two weeks pleasantly with their sister, Mrs. E. J. Taylor, Raglan Road, returned to-day to their home in Dublin.

Rev. Dr. Leavell and James Butte, Houston, Texas, summering here, left to-day for Buck Lake on a fishing excursion. A brand new stock of fish stories may be looked for.

Mrs. C. D. Kerr has been appointed soprano soloist of Sydenham street Methodist church. Mrs. Kerr's beautiful soprano voice delighted her hearers at both services on Sunday.

Carleton Place Herald: J. F. Macdonald, of the high school staff, is now comfortably settled in D. Moffatt's house, Allan street. To Mrs. Macdonald, we extend a cordial welcome to town.

Montreal Witness: Mr. and Mrs. W. Spooner have returned from the Back River, where they spent the past summer and are again easily re-established in their winter house, No. 42 Guibault street.

C. E. Chandler, Leamington, S. W., England, arrived in the city this morning. He has been making an extensive tour of the United States and will tour Canada before settling down at Norfolk, Va.

Misses Minerva and Stella Mosier, Rideau street, after a pleasant visit of two weeks' duration, at Rochester, N.Y., have returned home. They were accompanied back by their sister, Emma, who will spend a month here with relatives.

The Grand, Thursday Night.

That charming picture of New England coast life, "Shore Acres," continues to grow in popular favor, and its tenth consecutive season promises to be as successful as any previous one. While some critics claim that Mr. Hennings has written several plays of more artistic value, yet all are agreed that "Shore Acres" is by far the most popular. With "The Old Homestead" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" it ranks among the three most successful plays ever presented, and it will continue to attract the patron of the drama for years to come.

Mr. Meek maintained that the board of health ought to press upon the city council the advisability of passing a by-law giving effect to a clause of the health act which compels property owners to deposit in the registry office plans of plumbing in all buildings. If such were done, the board would not be bothered with so many claims and complaints.

The clerk read Mr. McIntyre's circular addressed to the different local clubs, asking their advice as to the advisability of appointing a plumbing inspector. The members of the board did not consider it essential to send out the circular, as it was decided not to do so.

Coming back to Mr. Meek's point, Chairman McIntyre pointed out that the clause of the health act referred to by Mr. Meek was to all purposes a by-law.

Mr. Meek thought that if such was the case, the clause should be put into force. He moved that the chairman consult with the city council with regard to the enforcement of the clause in question, and that the clause be advertised for the information of the public. This resolution was adopted.

On motion of Messrs. Thompson and

PRESENTATION

OF DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDALS.

Col. Montizambert Made the Presentation and Lieut.-Col. Hemming Placed Them Upon Men's Breasts.

A brief but pleasing ceremony took place at the armories Tuesday afternoon, when Sergt.-Major Gimblett, of "A" battery, R.C.A.F., and Trooper Mulloy, the blind hero of Winchester, Ont., were presented with distinguished service medals, awarded for meritorious conduct on the field of battle.

Sergt.-Major Gimblett was with "C" battery, and distinguished himself during the relief of Mafeking. Trooper Mulloy was a member of the 2nd Canadian contingent, Mounted Rifles. While fighting at the front he was rendered blind as the result of a Boer shot, which struck him in the eyes.

The medals were presented by Col. Montizambert, D.O.C., in the presence of many spectators. "A" and "B" batteries, R.C.A.F., were drawn up in sections on the floor of the armories. In tendering the coveted decorations, the colonel referred to the pleasure it gave him to do so; these men, by bravery and heroism on the field of battle, had nobly won the honor to-day conferred on them.

Lieut.-Col. Hemming, staff adjutant, then pinned the medals upon the breasts of the two distinguished Canadian soldiers, who were loudly cheered by the spectators.

The magistrates stated that he had an account of $3 against the prisoner for damage he had done to a sign in front of A. J. Lee's barber shop and for the breaking of a cupboard.

The magistrate disclaimed all knowledge of the occurrences, but Mr. Lee gave conclusive evidence. The prisoner promised to make good the loss, so he was fined $5 and costs, $3 to go to Mr. Lee.

Thomas Prannigan, a native of land from which St. Patrick banished reptiles, acknowledged with a military salute, that he had been drunk. In reply to a question by the magistrate, he stated that he had come over from Rochester on the "City of Toronto," to spend a little money. He took a little too much whiskey and was locked up. He was an umbrella mender by trade.

"Why you could not mend yourself," sagely remarked the magistrate. He was taken at his word and given one hour in which to shake the dust of the city from off his shoes.

A charge of assault against Thomas Tooke, preferred by John Shamy, king of the local Assyrian colony, was withdrawn.

BEFORE THE CAD.

A Man Spent Money—Reasons for Getting Drunk.

"William Bell," stand up! You are charged with being drunk," said the magistrate at the police court this morning. The prisoner, a good-looking young man, about thirty-two years of age, acknowledged the truth of the charge, but claimed that he had met with much trouble lately, which had set him drinking.

"I had a nice little home at Collins Bay," he said, "and I had constant employment at $2 a day. One Saturday night about a month ago I returned home from work and found that my wife had gone, taking our baby with her. That started me drinking."

"Now stop that," said the magistrate. "Don't tell such things about your wife; keep such matters to yourself."

The magistrate stated that he had an account of $3 against the prisoner for damage he had done to a sign in front of A. J. Lee's barber shop and for the breaking of a cupboard.

Current History and Modern Culture for September starts with a full-page portrait of A. J. Balfour, the new prime minister of England, which is followed by an instructive article on Mr. Balfour by Dawson Burns, of London, N.Y.

At yesterday's meeting of the board of health, the city clerk, in reading Dr. Pee's report for August, announced that it had not been summarized. "I suppose it has not been summarized because summer is over," jocularly rejoined chairman McIntyre.

The September number of Ainslee's Magazine contains many interesting articles and stories. Beginning with October number Ainslee's will be enlarged to 160 pages, and will cost fifteen cents the copy. Each number will contain a complete novel by an author of reputation.
