SEARCH FUTILE.

COULDN'T FIND THE BODY OF OLD "DIDO."

It Was Removed From the Medical College—Offer Made by the Faculty—Batterymen Will Fight the Matter to a Finish.

The search for the body of "Dido" at Queen's medical college yesterday proved futile. It was thought that one of the bodies in the vat bore a resemblance to the dead veteran, and accordingly, in the afternoon, a careful examination was made. Those in the searching party included Sergt. Major O'Hagan, Lieut. Clairmont, Sergt. Major Long, Sergt. Ryder, Police Constables, Graham and McAuliffe, Arthur Fields and several others. The last named was there to try and identify the body by marks which he knew "Dido" had.

Dr. Ross, in charge of the dissecting room gave the searchers every aid in their mission, but first informed them that the body was not there. He proposed the various bodies in the vat, and allowed of their careful examination. It was thought that a certain body bore a resemblance to "Dido," but another was produced, bearing the same marks, and appearing more like the old man than the first. Finally the searchers were convinced that the object of their visit was not in the building, and then made a close examination of the premises.

Sergt. Major O'Hagan claimed that the body had been placed in custody in the college, the faculty was responsible and bound to produce it when called upon by the police magistrate. He also pointed out that the faculty must have been aware of its unlawful removal, because the carpenter admitted that he was only one with access to the building, and this window was covered with masonry and cobwebs, showing that nothing had disturbed it. The sergeant further claimed that as the caretaker alone had the keys, those in authority must know what became of the remains. The party departed from the college after being there two hours.

Members of the faculty had a meeting later, and last night Sergt. Major O'Hagan was called into consultation by one of the doctors who made this proposition: That if the body came into their possession, the faculty would prevent it from being dissected, and would hand it over to under doctor S. Reid. Then they would cross legal swords with the batterymen, and have it decided by the attorney general, which party was entitled to the body, the faculty disputing the contention that the batterymen are bona fide friends of the deceased. That contention the military men will accept, though they are somewhat in the dark as to whether the faculty means to produce the body to-day, thus admitting that they had it removed from the college, or whether the proposition means that the body will never again be heard of.

Two statements are made as to when the body was removed from the college. Some say last Friday night and others Monday. The latter is probably correct, as a doctor admitted that the remains were there on Monday afternoon, and were not dissected.

The R.C.F.A. men will fight the matter to a finish, and have the strong support of the officers. They are willing to go down in their pockets, and raise a fund to find for the legal expenses. In this the Veterans' Association also desires to join them, and a prominent citizen told Sergt. Major O'Hagan he would collect a couple of hundred dollars at an hour's notice if it was wanted.

Two sons of the deceased are in the financial straits in England, and Mr. French, of whose name "Dido" bore, wrote to them last week of the death of their father.

The Veterans' Association in Kingston and Toronto intend taking action by requesting the Ontario government to insist upon the law being more carefully carried out by hospitals and inspectors of anatomy regarding the remains of persons who die apparently without friends.

At the medical college, the batterymen were told that they themselves must know where the body was. One of them replied that if his comrades had taken the body from the college they wouldn't hide it away, but would have the funeral and bury the remains in the grand military ceremonies, in spite of any protest from the college. As to the chance of taking a wrong body, the batterymen say they would have as much right to it as the college, which got it by grave robbery.

Trouble Over A License. There is trouble about the license of the Savoy hotel, Montreal. The crown, on certain private parties, who are known in the background, hold that liquor is being illegally sold there, because, they say, the license is in the name of E. H. Dunham, formerly of Kingston, while the place is owned by his sister, Miss Eleanor Dunham, who lives in the United States. The bartender of the Savoy has been arrested and charged with selling without a license. Mr. Dunham has been sick for several months, and is now at Caledonia Springs, whence he will return on September 15th. The case has been postponed till then.

A Courteous Official. City Messenger Ballantyne is making himself a very courteous official. He attended closely to his duties, and is most obliging and courteous to all the visitors to the city buildings. He shows them through the city hall, the art gallery, and, if his time permits, escorts them to the clock tower and balcony, from where an excellent view of the harbor and city can be obtained. His kindness is much appreciated.

SAD ACCIDENT SUSTAINED BY ANDREW TUTTLE.

While Handling Express Goods at the Outer G.T.R. a Light Engine Ran Over Him and Smashed His Legs.

An accident that may terminate fatally occurred between one and two o'clock this morning at the Grand Trunk junction, when Andrew Tuttle, Canadian express messenger, was maimed, and may lose his life. Much sympathy was expressed for the young man, who is well known and generally liked, and the fervent wish is added that he may eventually recover.

It appears that at about the hour named Tuttle was engaged in receiving express goods from the empty trucks hauled by the express coach and stood between these, when a light engine entered the main west-bound track. Before Tuttle was aware of his danger, the light engine struck the trucks and hurled him under the engine's wheels, where his left leg was completely severed just below the knee, and his right leg badly cut and bruised, while his body was crushed and injured.

Friends picked up the injured man and conveyed him to the baggage room, where everything possible was done to allay his sufferings, pending the arrival of Dr. Cobett's ambulance, which conveyed him to the General hospital, where surgeons were in waiting. It was found necessary to remove the left knee, which was badly mangled. While undergoing the operation he nearly succumbed from shock and loss of blood.

At ten o'clock this morning the report was received from the General hospital, that the injured young man was in a very low condition; physicians in attendance feared that he would not rally. John Tuttle, express constable, father of the young man, left last evening on a steam yacht for a trip up the Rideau, and at an early hour telephoned messages were sent all along Rideau canal ports as far east as Smith's Falls, requesting that the father be apprised of his son's condition, and asking him to return to the city at once.

The injured young man held the confidence of his employers, because of his integrity, faithfulness and close application to duty. He has been a leading spirit in Derry lodge, No. 1, P.A.P.B., and was in a great measure responsible for the success of the recent celebration on August 12th. It is held that an error was committed by somebody in allowing the light engine to enter the west main track, which led to the accident.

Douglas Gray, mail transfer clerk, a medical student, was close by at the time of the accident and rendered valuable assistance in tying up the wound and staying the loss of blood until such time as the injured man could be properly attended to.

The coroner took over the duties of night messenger on Monday last, hitherto being employed as day messenger and driver.

SHOE TRADE IS GOOD.

Comparison Between it and Other Business.

"I was greatly interested," said a shoe merchant this morning, "when I read in last night's Whig how solicitous King-Ben is becoming over the fact of securing the K. & P. residents are not buying as many shoes in Kingston as formerly. I am certain that if that gentleman will observe the matter carefully he will not find any shrinkage in the K. & P. shoe trade—in fact I am now selling goods regularly to customers who say they are doing their shoe buying in Kingston because of the fact that the cash system is in force here, and shoe retailers can sell their goods at a much larger margin than the country storekeepers, who usually do a large credit trade, and consequently incur losses which must be provided for. You don't see the K. & P. railway carrying my freight around the country without receiving 'cash' on delivery for it. Neither do you find that corporation selling railroad tickets on credit. The same may be said of the Street Railway company, Gas company, etc. They insist upon the cash system. Why, then, should not we do likewise. I think I voice the sentiments of every shoe dealer in the city, in saying that the merchant, 'when he says that we are one and all thoroughly satisfied over the new order of affairs, and not one of us will ever again go back to the old days of credit, discrimination and loss.'"

FINES WERE INFLICTED

By the Magistrate at the Police Court To-day.

At the police court, this morning Malcolm McMillan, and G. S. Lewis and McGuire, of the R.C.F.A., were again arraigned on a charge of fighting on the street. The magistrate interrogated them individually as to whether or not they had been in a hotel on the afternoon of the 28th. The 28th was admitted that they had been but maintained that they were perfectly in their senses. McMillan denied that he had been drinking. The soldiers were fined $10 and costs each, or one month in jail, while McMillan was fined $5 and costs with the option of going to jail for fourteen days.

The magistrate remarked that he would have made the fines heavier, but for the fact that disputes between soldiers and civilians have not been frequent of late years, in fact, he was glad to say that the last row took place so many years ago he could not remember the year.

John Madden and Charles Joseph, two drunks, were each fined $1 and costs.

A Quiet Fair.

The Kingstonsmen who attended Ogdensburg fair, on Wednesday declare that it was a very tame affair, the only good features about it being the horse races and the stage attractions.

The Kingstonsmen arrived home on the steamer New York, which went down the United States channel from Cape May, and returned but a small number of passengers.

Home For A Rest.

Herbert Smith, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is just recovering from a serious attack of typhoid fever, arrived home yesterday to enjoy a rest. He was accompanied by Fred Maxwell, another Kingston boy, who is doing well in Cleveland. Both of them will remain some time in the city.

Capt. Gaskin Contributes Ninety-Five Cents to Baseball.

Everybody who is closely acquainted with Capt. Gaskin knows that, next to catching black bass, he would rather witness a baseball match than indulge in any other form of sport.

Last week he had occasion to go to Bracebridge on business, and struck the town on a day when a long baseball match was advertised to take place between the home team and Hantsville. "The people up there are baseball crazy," remarked the ex-commandeur. "Why, on the day of a match all the merchants close up their stores and go to the game."

The captain, being on pleasure bent, desired to make all those around him happy, so he invited a number of friends to accompany him to the baseball field, where he spent ninety-five cents in admission fees and took up position among the rooters. When the Huntsville team arrived on the diamond, they took objection to an important player, which Bracebridge had, and refused to play. After an hour's jangle it was announced that the game was "off," so the crowd dispersed without troubling the treasurer for a refund of their admission fee.

Three Distinguished Visitors.

On Saturday last Lord Dundonald, Col. Cotton and Col. Rutherford, in the course of a tour of the city, drove out to Lake Ontario Park. It is well known that a rule is in force prohibiting rigs entering the park. The distinguished visitors left the cab and proceeded to walk around Kingston's charming summer resort, when J. E. James spied the cab. Picking up his famous megaphone, he called to the cab driver to take the rig off the grounds. Then he went in search of the three distinguished visitors, and formed them of the rule which forbade rigs entering the enclosure. Next he went to the cab driver and was by him informed as to the identity of the three persons. Then Mr. Jones went away back and sat down and thumped himself once or twice. "Had he known who they were before, he would have extended to them the freedom of the park, merry-go-round included."

The San Jose Sale.

Mr. Lick, Oshawa, one of the fruit inspectors, was in the city on Wednesday and called on the dealers, who reported that they had never handled fruit so honestly and satisfactorily as they had at San Jose sale. The skins have small purple pink spots on them, which, under the microscope, look quite ugly. Mr. Lick says the scale has not yet appeared about Kingston, but it will require care in keeping it away. He advises, whenever it is found on fruit, that both the baskets and peelings be burned, and that in no case the refuse be allowed near to any kind of fruit trees.

A Happy Event.

A pleasant event took place on Wednesday, when Rev. Father McCann performed the marriage ceremony between Miss Mary Coffey, daughter of Thomas Coffey, Arch street, and Miss Helen, Watertown, N. Y. The bride looked handsome in dress of blue trimmed with white, and hat to match. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Annie, who looked charming in a blue dress with tulle silk blouse and hat to match. The groom was supported by Edward Burnett, Watertown, N.Y. The bride's parents were prominent. Mr. and Mrs. Holstrom left on the 2:30 o'clock boat for Watertown, where they will reside.

Hopes To Clear Him.

The charge of manslaughter against Eric Sharpe will be heard at the fall assizes, which open here on the 21st. John McIntyre, K.C., will defend the lad, and is quite confident that he will succeed in clearing him. He will endeavor to prove conclusively that young Sharpe had no intention of shooting Beatrice Holland, that he did not know the revolver was loaded, and that the shooting was entirely accidental. Mr. Whiting, K.C., will likely act for the crown.

Work Nearly Completed.

The work of decorating the interior of Sydenham street Methodist church has been completed, and the scaffolding removed. The new carpet, costing $1,000, will now be laid, the seats replaced and the finishing touches made. The general effect is very beautiful. It is expected that services in the edifice will be resumed about the 28th inst. Those who have visited the church express great delight at the change.

Made A Good Catch.

Last evening Robert O'Connell, Montreal street, went fishing off the wharf. The first catch brought forth a small "shiner," which he used as bait, and the second catch resulted in the landing of a twelve-pound pike.

TIME FOR RUGBY

KINGSTON CLUBS SHOULD BE ORGANIZING.

The New Junior Rule—Close Race in Eastern Baseball League—Baseball Players in St. Lawrence League All Like Kingston.

At the last annual meeting of the Ontario Rugby Football Union the following rule was adopted governing players in the junior series:

Rule 13.—No member of a club which has a first fifteen in the senior series shall be eligible to play on an intermediate fifteen having played more than once in the same union season, or a senior fifteen in a tie match, and a match in the senior series before such player can again play on the intermediate team of that club.

No member of a club shall be eligible to play in a junior tie match, in any one season, or a senior or intermediate fifteen, or who has played during two seasons on a junior championship fifteen. Notwithstanding anything in this rule contained, the executive may, upon application from a club, grant a permit to any player prohibited under this rule from competing on a junior fifteen. Any junior team playing a person in a championship match contrary to the provisions of this rule, may be suspended from the series by the executive.

The above rule was adopted in order to increase the interest in rugby football in Ontario. By abolishing the age limit for junior players there will be less difficulty in securing a team in many of the towns where the game has not hitherto been played.

Writing to the Whig regarding the O.R.F.U. junior series, Secretary Frank D. Woodworth, Toronto, says: "Kingston has been so long the home, as it were, of rugby football in Ontario, that I am certain, if we can get persons interested, there will be at least four junior clubs, besides an intermediate and a senior team. The juniors could play off amongst themselves, and decide the winners of their district. Deseronto has already organized, and teams are expected in Gananoque, Napanee, Trenton and Picton."

The formation of a junior series in the intercollegiate union takes Queen's III and R.M.C. II from the O.R.F.U. However, there will probably be other junior teams entered from Kingston.

Baseball On Wednesday.

American league—At St. Louis, 9-2; Washington, 4-4. At Detroit, 3; Philadelphia, 5. At Cleveland, 8; Baltimore, 6.

National league—At Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 3. At Boston, 3; Pittsburgh, 12. At Cincinnati, 2; New York, 1. At Brooklyn, 4; Chicago, 0.

Eastern league—At Providence, 10; Newark, 2. At Worcester, 3; Jersey City, 13. At Buffalo, 11; Toronto, 5. At Rochester, 11; Montreal, 12.

Sport In General.

Ponies will have another strong team next season. Many of the present St. Lawrence league players would like to come here. It is likely that Moriarty and Dergan will again be secured.

It is possible that a hockey team from Dawson will visit Montreal next winter in quest of the Stanley cup. Up in Sheriff Eilbeck's country they think they have a settee that would make the customers locate. The trip would cost $10,000, but that wouldn't worry the people in the land of the midnight sun. Among the Dawson's fast players are: Welly Young, Norman Watt, formerly of Aylmer, Randy McLennan, Cap Bennett, erstwhile of Halifax, Merritt, brother of the famous Winnipeg goal keeper, Kenney, one of Winnipeg, Tom Watts, who learned hockey in Collingwood, Sandy Miller, of Quebec, Ed. Sears, of Kingston, Hulme, of Belleville and Patterson, son of the ex-governor of Manitoba.

Captured Many Prizes.

W. H. Reid, Union street, Kingston's champion poultry fancier, was very successful with his exhibit at the Ottawa fair. There was a very large entry and competition, the board with his food, securing twenty-three, thirty-seven, seconds, twelve thirds and four specials.

An Action Entered.
