There is more Cataract in this section of the country than in other districts put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it to be a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, but finally failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven cataract to be a constitutional disease, and therefore it is not a local disease, and the cause of cataract is not known.

Warner's Safe Cure

New York, May 9, 1892.

Gentlemen—Many years ago I recommended your Safe Cure to my friend Gen. William Frost Nuttall, of the British Army, who was a great sufferer from kidney troubles after long service in India. He took my advice, and after a few months' rest, he was completely cured, and was a healthy and hearty man when I saw him last, and must have been nearly eighty years of age. He has cured me many times, and again that same service he served Warner's Safe Cure saved his life, and he swore by it.

I myself have used your remedy with the greatest benefit, as follows: I had the Lemmon's Disease, or varicose veins, for indication of Bright's Disease, but after taking your cure for some time I was able to take your cure for the Lemmon's Disease, and was certain that I had been entirely benefited. This is the only safe, reliable, and permanent remedy for the Lemmon's Disease.

"Captain Jim" is an oddity—a character of the oysterbeds. Nothing more than a stupid blunder when removed from his schooner and fishy surroundings, but a grand, bewildering success when approached on the subject of oysters. Being a recognized authority, his predictions and criticisms are accepted undoubtedly and his smallest eccentricities copied by admiring dredgers loafing round "Jim Hobart's place."
