POLICE COURT

THE HEARING OF THE INTERFERENCE CASE

The Evidence of Murray Who Came From Dundas to Work—How the Piquets Talked to Him.

When the police court resumed session at two o'clock, Dr. Smythe the magistrate had a conference with reference to the minute book of the union, when it was decided that if the book was produced it would not be subject to public scrutiny or to general minute examination.

The first witness called was John Murray, the "bone of contention." He testified that he was a machinist and came here from Dundas on Thursday last.

Mr. Whiting produced correspondence which passed between the company and witnesses, who were offered twenty-five cents an hour and a bonus of $5 a week for the first four weeks after his coming here. The company informed him that there had been a strike of machinists, but it had practically been ended by reason of the importation of machinists from the Old Country.

Continuing, witness testified that on Thursday, after arriving in the city, he reported at the Locomotive works at about nine o'clock in the morning, and was ordered to go to work at one o'clock. At that hour he was approached by Wilson and another man. Wilson told him there was a strike on, but that it was nearly over, if it would go in now it would be the worse for him, because he would be annoyed and would get his discharge as soon as the strike was settled. They further informed him that the strike was on stronger than ever. The conversation did not last longer than five or ten minutes, when he walked away with the two men, having made up his mind that if he was to be annoyed he would not go in to work.

The two men took him to a hall or lodge room. On the way there, he told the two men that on account of the way he was fixed he could not go home. They replied that they could fix that, but not down there. While in the lodge room McWaters and Holding entered, with others. The strike and the question of his leaving were discussed by those present, and the outcome was that upon his deciding to go back home, they agreed to pay his way, he agreeing to take the money by way of a loan. He was taken in a street by Mr. Holding and escorted to the outer station. The fact was mentioned that it would be better to take witness to the outer junction, as it would not do for him to be seen at the inner station. Witness was in Mr. Holding's company at the outer junction, when Mr. Birmingham and Mr. Kelloway arrived. Mr. Holding gave witness $5, which he returned upon agreeing to return to work. In accepting the money from Holding, he had agreed to repay it upon receiving his first wages at Dundas.

Cross examined by Dr. Smythe.—Went from Wingham to Dundas to work before coming here. Knew there had been a strike on at the Locomotive works before coming here. Is not a union man. Believed the statement to be true, that the strike was practically over; found it to be substantially true upon arriving here. Did not know before leaving Dundas that the seventy-five men who had gone out on strike were still out; may possibly not have come down here, but he knew that he did not feel like staying here at first after finding out that the seventy-five strikers were still on strike, because he had been given to understand that he would be subjected to annoyance.

Witness came into communication with the company by reason of answering the company's advertisement. Besides weekly wages, witness receives $5 a week bonus from the Metal Trades Association; does not receive any other inducement for remaining here. Upon approaching the works to go to work at one o'clock, Thursday, was approached by Wilson, who was joined by Brouse a few minutes later. Wilson told witness the strike was on stronger than he understood the strike was about over.

The magistrate desired to learn just what part Brouse took in the conversation, and witness stated that nearly all the conversation took place between himself and Wilson. Was told by Wilson that "we can fix that matter" when witness told them of his shortage of money. Was told by Wilson, "You can do as you like about going in." Told Wilson he could get work at Dundas, but found it difficult in obtaining a house for his family. In the union hall, the principal portion of witness' conversation was with McWaters and Holding, and was in the hall over an hour, and was of opinion that Wilson was present when arrangement was made to loan him money. Was accompanied from the hall to his boarding house by Holding. At the outer station, witness changed his mind and decided to remain because he was told the other side of the story.

Dr. Smythe.—So you were showing the white feather; you were physically afraid? The magistrate quickly put a stop to such an inference being placed upon the action of the witness. The witness stated that he was not physically afraid, but that he desired to have peace, hence his determination to leave the city when told he would be subjected to annoyances.

Cornelius Birmingham, managing director of the Locomotive Works company, testified that on April 21st last a committee representing the Machinists' Union, No. 368, waited upon him and made certain demands about handy men, which demands he refused. Shortly afterwards the machinists went on strike and have been on strike since. Since the men went on strike, only one deputation from the strikers has waited upon the company. Since the strike began there has been a regular system of picketing the works, and trains in force. The company brought a number of machinists from Scotland to Gananogue by train, thence to this city by boat. The strikers were in the city to meet the new arrivals and to persuade them, if possible, not to work for the Locomotive Works company. Witness heard part of a conversation between strikers and the Scotchmen, and was told by the strikers that they were there to prevent the men going to work. While the Scotchmen were on Simcoe Island Mr. Holding and Mr. Holding landed and held a conversation with a number of the Scotchmen, in the presence of witness, trying to induce them not to go to work for the company. Subsequently three of the Scotchmen started to leave the city. They were intercepted by the piquets, and Mr. Holding landed and held a conversation with a number of the Scotchmen, in the presence of witness, trying to induce them not to go to work for the company.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

Having Reference to Farmers' Demands. Toronto, Sept. 10.—The executive committee of the newly organized Farmers' Association met this morning and passed resolutions. Bonuses and bounties were declared to be unjust and their discontinuance was demanded. It was asserted that agriculture is being ruined by the burden of taxation and called for the assessment of railway and other public service corporations, so as to make them bear their share of taxation. A transportation committee legal, not political, to fix railway rates was demanded. Drainage and cattle guard legislation was also demanded. A protest was registered against the "increase of the tariff."

Fashion Hints For Autumn.

The Delineator for October. The Delineator for October produces the effect of very drooping shoulders and are shown in many of the newest models with the yoke of all-over lace extending over the sleeves. Seams in slot effect remain the distinguishing note in many of the new skirts and jackets and also in the smart shirt-waists.

There is nothing daintier than well-made and exquisitely decorated linerie and since the vogue of fagoting gowns, separate yokes, collars, etc., is at its height, this dainty needlework is likewise applied to underwear. The stitch employed is usually the plain fagoting or herringbone.

There is a wide assortment of heavy textured or "mannish" goods that are termed, any one of which is appropriate for jacket-and-skirt suits. Boulevard velvet cords are shown in a wide assortment of colors, and there is no more fashionable material for walking or street costumes.

Embroidery and fancy stitches are the inevitable mark of distinction on everything from the dainty stock-collars to the even daintier hose. Fashion has decreed the extensive use of periant and ball trimmings this season, and a great variety is exhibited. Both black and colored samples are procurable, as well as bits of metal and enamel from which iridescent beads and spangles are suspended. The possibilities of velvet ribbon as an ornamental feature have won it the highest popularity in trimming net, chiffon and light woollens.

Dundonald's Charger. One of the sights of an early morning ride about the suburbs of the capital is the Earl of Dundonald, firmly mounted on a spirited black charger. There are few, however, that know that the horse on which the commander of the Canadian forces takes his morning ride is the one on which Lord Dundonald rode into Ladysmith and raised the siege after four months investment by the Boers. The tale of that ride will live in history, how the thousand in the beleaguered city watched the flying column, headed by Dundonald, on his black horse, galloping across the plain to bring supplies and assistance to the starving city.

The horse in question is about fifty hands high, and would probably weigh 1,000 pounds. His coat in places is bare because of an African fly that was rather hard on horses. This animal will always occupy an honored place in the Dundonald stables. Another horse in the Dundonald stables is one on which a servant of Lord Dundonald rode into the city with him.

Next Sunday, September 11th, will be the first anniversary of the death of President McKinley. Many churches throughout the United States will hold memorial services. One pound pure mixed pickling spice, 15c., at Mullins'.

World's Gold Product.

M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu has studied the history of the world's products of gold in historic time. One of his tables is as follows: Stock in gold before 1492 about $80,000,000 Product, 1492-1500, about 628,400,000 Product, 1501-1599, about 1,308,900,000 Total before 19th century $2,537,300,000 Product of the 19th century 7,954,040,000 Total $10,491,340,000

The second half of the nineteenth century produced more than twice as much gold as the three and a half centuries preceding that time, and the five last years of the nineteenth century produced more than the entire output of the seventeenth century.
