GROWING LAX

IN REGARD TO LORD'S DAY OBSERVANCE

An Incident on the Closing Day Of the Anglican Synod—The Educationists Ready To Go Home.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—One of the most interesting incidents of the closing day's work of the Anglican Synod was the adoption of a resolution congratulating President Roosevelt on his narrow escape from death at Pittsfield. The rest of the morning was taken up with the reading of a pastoral letter by Archbishop Bond, which called the attention of the members of the church to the desirability of supporting the missionary work of the church. He also called attention to the growing laxity of the observance of the Lord's day. The synod will close its labors this afternoon.

A meeting of the Quebec cabinet was held in this city, to-day, presided over by Premier Parent. Mr. Allard, M.L.A. for Yamack, appeared before the body and made a statement in which he asked that no subsidy be granted to the South Shore railway until it pays its debts and what it owes its men, and furthermore makes the extensions which it has undertaken to make to its line.

The party of British educationists which came to this country for the purpose of becoming acquainted with its resources and capabilities have returned here after their tour, to the number of thirteen, and will sail for England, to-morrow, by the Parisian. They express themselves pleased with what they saw of the country.

Dr. Berkeley, of Berkhamstead, Eng., states that the project of establishing a training farm in the North-West will be carried out, starting on a small scale, but working larger as it demonstrates its usefulness. The pupils of this farm, who will come from England, will spend two summers on the farm, and a winter at the Guelph Agricultural school.

MACKAY DENIES That Postal Telegraph Will Unite With Western Union.

New York, Sept. 12.—Clarence H. Mackay, of the Postal Telegraph company, said to-day: "There is absolutely no truth whatsoever in the rumors and published statements to the effect that negotiations are going on between the Postal Telegraph company and the Western Union Telegraph company, with a view to a consolidation or sale. No consolidation or sale whatsoever is contemplated."

To Honor Dr. Clark. Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2.—Aylmer, the birthplace of the Rev. Francis E. Clark, father of the Christian Endeavor movement, is preparing to honor the man of world-wide fame upon the occasion of the holding of the Ontario Y.P.S.C.E. convention in the capital, in October. The committee in charge have arranged for a service in the Aylmer Presbyterian church, to be preceded by addresses from the steps of the church. A visit will be made to Cherry Cottage, the old home of Rev. Dr. Clark. It is also in contemplation to erect a symbolic arch on the street leading to the church.

Big Waterspout On Lake Huron. Detroit, Mich., Sept. 12.—As the steamer City of the Straits was ploughing through a violent squall on Lake Huron about five miles off Kincardine there suddenly appeared on the heels of the departing storm cloud a waterspout rising several hundred feet in the air, and so near that it was necessary to crane one's neck to see the whole of it. The spout was visible at the top and curved toward the departing storm, resembling a large fish horn inverted. When complete the spout was fully a thousand at a great rate of speed.

Ready For The Lightning. Allanburg, Ont., Sept. 12.—During a storm the residence of Jacob Jenter, near Allanburg, was struck by lightning, but luckily the family were prepared, and extinguished the flames with some difficulty. Twenty-two years ago a bar of Mr. Jenter's was struck by lightning and entirely consumed by the flames. Since that conflagration the Jenter family always arise and remain ready to make their exit when an electric storm looms up in the night.

Has Been Heard From. Washington, Sept. 12.—Secretary of Navy Woodruff this morning received the following cablegram from the commander of the Ranger: "Panama. SCHOOL FILLED

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE HAS ALL IT CAN HOLD

On Thursday the Four Hundred Mark Was Turned—A New Teacher is an Immediate Necessity.

Kingston's Collegiate Institute is a commodious building, but it is altogether too small to afford accommodation to the large numbers of pupils who have applied for admittance. On Thursday the 400 mark was turned and the end is not yet. The staff is not large enough to handle the largely increased attendance, and the appointment of a new teacher is an immediate necessity.

A Whig reporter visited the school and was shown through the building by Principal Ellis. "Crowded?" reiterated the obliging principal in response to a question. "Just come and take a look at the rooms. Our attendance has turned the 400 mark, and the pupils are coming in still."

The first room visited contained forty seats, yet there were fifty-one pupils in it, some of them sharing their seats with those who came late. Another room, which, like the first, was occupied by second year pupils, had seating capacity for thirty-three pupils, yet there were forty-two in the room. In the matriculation class fifty-seven pupils were trying to make forty-eight seats accommodate them.

In most of the other rooms similar conditions prevailed. Away up in the top storey, "under the dome," was a class of twenty-five boys—the new manual training class. "If it were not for the manual training class I do not believe that these boys would be in school at all," observed Mr. Ellis. "They would be either learning their trades or be on the street. But this training just fits into the requirements of a boy who intends to follow a mechanical career."

"How many pupils have you in the honor form this year?" inquired the reporter. "Seventeen," was the reply. "We had only seven last year. Our attendance this year is made up as follows: Entrance pupils, 158; second year pupils, 126; third year pupils, 47; fourth year pupils, (matriculation class) 57; fifth year pupils (including part of the honor class), 12. Total, 400. Of the number only about half a hundred are from outside the city."

"How does the attendance compare with other years? It shows a big increase. On September 12th, 1900, 279 pupils were registered; on September 18th, 1901, there were 338 pupils; on September 12th, this year, there are 400 pupils. So you see the increase in two years has been 121, or 62 for the last year."

"Can the staff handle this large attendance, and do justice to themselves and the pupils?" the principal was asked. "We must have another teacher," declared Mr. Ellis. "I shall try to have the board meet at once to make the appointment. The additional teacher is required for junior work, principally in mathematics and English."

Examination Results. The latest figures in connection with the midsummer examination have not yet been announced, and the following tables are not yet quite complete. Under Queen's college, supplementary examination results are announced at the end of the month, the total figures cannot be obtained. Up to the present time, however, these figures obtain:

Part I, junior leaving—17 pupils wrote, 10 passed for junior leaving (teachers' examination), 5 passed examination; total passed, 15. Part I, junior matriculation—39 pupils wrote, 37 passed matriculation.

Part II, junior leaving—15 pupils wrote, 10 passed junior leaving, and 1 passed matriculation. Total passed, 11.

Part II, junior matriculation—18 wrote, 12 passed junior leaving. School of mines entrance—11 wrote, 6 passed; 4 others not heard from yet.

Senior leaving—2 pupils wrote, 1 passed. Honor matriculation—7 pupils wrote, 5 passed.
