WHAT IS THE MATTER?

The letter from Mr. Gillies, and to the effect that the deal with the city, and having reference to purchase of site for the new industry, comes as a great surprise. What is the matter? Is there something in the municipal agreement to which exception has been taken? That is queried, but it is not stated. Of all the things talked about, and promising to be a benefit to the city and the company, this enterprise of the Gillies' syndicate should be the most promising. It was taken up and developed in a business-like way. Those concerned with it satisfied themselves that here was the place to plant an industry which was bound to prosper. The initial expenditure in buildings and plant suggested that the investors had no doubt about the success of their plans. The last step was to purchase a site from the city and discuss the question of exemption. There appears to have arisen some difficulty just when expectation and hope had reached the highest point. Is it insuperable? It is for the council to see to this at once. The issue is too important to treat lightly and to let pass without immediate and earnest attention.

STRAIN OF PUBLIC LIFE.

Mr. Roblin, the premier of Manitoba, is said to be seriously ill, and of nervous exhaustion. He has been under medical treatment for some time, consulted a specialist while in England, and yet has gone lower in condition and the mental distress which attends it.

Clearly public life has been making a wreck of him. Every man is not cut out for the performance of public service. It entails worry and anxiety that sit heavily upon him. What one treats lightly, without much thought and concern, another broods over, and the multiplication of troubles will sooner or later produce the usual results. The strain is too great. Something has to give.

Few men live to old age and remain in active public life. Salisbury has done it, but for many a day he has been a broken down man, and has only carried the burden that was placed upon him by his withdrawal as much as possible from society and the tumult of business. How many in Canada have suffered from the stress of public service and passed away all too soon for their own and the country's good!

TOM L. JOHNSON'S AMBITIONS.

The popularity of Tom L. Johnson, the mayor of Cleveland, is not the result of chance or accident. Mr. Johnson is a man of brains, of activity, of industry. He has been a worker all his days. In early life he knew, by hard experience what manual service meant. In later life he has worked with his head, and his hands, and both have made him rich.

He came into prominence as a member of congress and a single-taxer. His pet ideas have not been realized, that is all of them, but he has accomplished some things by his devotion to them. As a resident of Cleveland he became a marksman when he advocated a three cent fare. He seemed to have embarked upon a fruitless task, but he accomplished it. He became the champion of the people in other respects, with the result that as mayor of the city he has acquired a strength and power peculiarly his own.

Today he is campaigning in the state of Ohio. It has been republican by a large majority and was the occasion of late Mr. McKinley's political achievements. But "Three Cent Tom," as Mr. Johnson is called, has assigned himself the duty of making it democratic. He has provided himself with a huge tent, which with its seating accommodation, requires twenty horses to draw, and in it he proposes to hold meetings in every town and village in the state. The alleged hippo-logic has commenced and is proving an immense attraction.

Mr. Johnson may not accomplish that which he has undertaken, but he will not fail if energy and tact and perseverance can give him success. It is said that there is more than the capture of the state before him, that Mr. Bryan has indicated him as the candidate of the party for the White House. Mr. Johnson may have the presidency be buzzing in his bonnet, and he may not. He is a millionaire, and in a position to give his time to politics, but he is not a fool.

He will undertake nothing without the prospect of succeeding, and the party is too much divided at present to make any sensible man anxious to coquet for this presidency.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The rates on the Canadian Northern railway have been reduced—thanks to the Winnipeg Free Press. Another tribute to the power of the press.

Fred Cook, of Ottawa, is a candidate for the mayoralty, and for a second term. He and Major Maude are specially chummy. That ought to secure his election.

The latest advice is to the effect that the health of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is as good as it has ever been. Of course the man who said it was not cannot now be found.

The Montreal Herald suggests that the time has arrived for another tariff enquiry, and the tour which it suggests. Surely not. What good came of the last missionary enterprise?

Some folks appear to be intensely eager for a clash between Lord Dufferin and the minister of militia. Both understand their duties, and because they do there will be no trouble.

A man has died on Long Island worth $40,000. He lived in great misery. He died a pauper. He starved himself in order that his heirs might call him blessed. He is not likely to have many imitators.

The Toronto delegates to the municipal convention at Brockville feel hurt. They were not shown any civilities. They were not even offered a glass of ice water. Dear, dear, this is terrible. Brockville should offer an explanation.

The society women who attended the dog show at Newport, and caressed, kissed and led about the animals they had entered for prizes, have not done their sex any honor. The people who waste their affection on dogs must be deficient in mental power.

Now a combine, with a bag containing fifty million dollars, or pounds, has the neck to get an option on the English coal mines. Having control of the heat of the universe it will be in order for the money king to get a cinch on the water and light and air.

The locomotive trust made last year three millions of dollars, yet, on a capital of fifty millions. And the future promises greater things—in the lowering of manufacturing and administration expenses. So the working-man is to contribute a larger share to the trust's profits.

The New York Sun attributes the continuance of the coal strike to the failure of Gen. Stone, of Pennsylvania, to enforce the law. If, says our contemporary, he would quit playing politics the strike would end in a day. Mr. Stone is, therefore, the man the people should attend to.

Opening Of Palmer University. Muncie, Ind., Sept. 16.—Palmer university, a new institution of learning, created by the munificence of Francis Asbury Palmer, a New York, millionaire, began its career to-day under happy auspices. The formal dedication and opening was attended with interesting exercises, in which the founder of the school, the faculty and leading educators from various parts of the state took part. The university, which is housed in the buildings occupied by the Eastern Indiana Normal school, begins life with an endowment of $100,000, a faculty composed of teachers of wide reputation and a good roster of students.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. PRINCES PLAY WAR.

They Are Chips of the Old Block. Patriotic Germans are very much interested in their emperor's children, and when a photograph appeared some time ago representing two of them at play copies of it were sent on their way to all parts of the country.

The photograph shows Prince William and one of his brothers playing with lead soldiers. When they were younger than they are now the lads were very fond of this sport, and one day while they were busily engaged in fighting a mimic battle their picture was taken.

"They are chips of the old block," Germans say fondly when they look at the two study little princes as they stand before the inanimate warriors, and they are right, for all the sons of the present Kaiser have delighted to play with soldiers, and tradition says that this was also the favorite amusement in his childhood of their great-grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm I.

AT THE GRAND. George Sidney Was Quite a Typical Star.

There was a fair-sized audience at the Grand Opera House last night to see "Busby Buzby," a musical sketch introducing George Sidney in the leading role. "Busby" was all right, he sold, but the same can scarcely be said of the rest of the company. Some of the stunts were rather "too fly" to the tastes with popular favor. Sidney portrayed the Hebrew character in a most natural and amusing style, proving himself to be well adapted for the difficult role. The best support he received was from Fred Wyckoff, the former, who has had a most expeditious way of descending a flight of stairs, to Little Adelaide could sing some and dance a trifle, too. "Busby's" parody on "The Honey-suckle and the Bee" was a good one, and it made the hit of the evening. The company carries splendid scenery, and the costumes are above the average. The times are that of the interior of a big departmental store; the second act of a new hotel. Both were skillfully represented.

"A Normandy Wedding." The Grand Opera Company, under the direction of F. C. Whitney, will present the new comic opera, "A Normandy Wedding." The New York Herald said: "A Normandy Wedding" seemed to please the audience more than any comic opera here in a long time. The plot of the piece is perfectly clear and intelligible to every one from the lowest to the highest. The situations are from the dialogue and lyrics unusually bright, and the music well written and of that catchy order that always jumps into immediate popularity.

"A Jolly American Tramp." In "A Jolly American Tramp," to be presented at The Grand on Saturday afternoon and night, there is a heart to heart story that will touch every one who sees it. The comic element in it is very pleasing.

Theatrical Notes. "Robin Hood" has been revived by the Bostonians. "Sergeant James" is one of the latest successful plays produced by Kirk La Shelle.

Miss Maud Adams, owing to ill-health, resulting from over-exertion, will not appear on the stage again until the middle of the season at least. James K. Hackett has arranged with Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver) Hobbes and Murray Carson for the American rights to "The Bishop's Move," that has been very successful in London.

The Mayevsk prize of £225, given by the Berlin Academy of Fine Arts, has been awarded to Herr Felix Nowojolski for an oratorio on the subject of the Prigral Son.

In the theatres of Winnipeg the spectators who arrive after the curtain has gone up are not allowed to occupy their seats until the curtain falls. Those who attend on time save this much annoyance. It would be a good idea to adopt this scheme in Kingston.

"The Emerald Isle" was presented for the first time in America at the Herald Square theatre, New York, recently. "The Emerald Isle" possessed an unusual interest in the fact that it was the last work of the great composer, Sir Arthur Sullivan. He did not live to finish it, and the score was completed after his death by Edward German.
