large majority, "only ten," says the telegram, "voting against it." Now the consideration with the Methodist is, Will they accept decision of the General Conference and loyally live up to it? Or will they, as some have said, ignore the footnote, which is not a rule but comment, and indulge in the amusements, which are tabooed? The amusement party has been hoping that the Methodist church would not, in the subject of diversion, be not different from other denominations, and it has been disappointed. The General Conference on such matters appears to be very conservative.

CALL DECLINED BY REV. JAMES SHORTT, TO PICTON.

Meeting of Kingston Presbytery—Visits to be Made to Congregations in Mission Interests.

Kingston presbytery met in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday at ten o'clock. In consequence of a misunderstanding as to the hour of meeting, the attendance in the forenoon was small. The members present then or afterwards, were: Revs. D. S. McTavish, moderator; Peck, J. A. Macdonald, Mackay, R. Laird, Heaney, Prof. Jordan, A. Laird, Guy, Macgillivray, Boyd, Burns, Prof. Ross, Dr. McClelland, Prof. Ferguson, Burns, Gaudier, McLroy, McLean and Fairlie, ministers; and Messrs. Rankin, McKenzie, Russell, Hay, Sharpe, elders.

Commissions were received from a number of sessions, appointing representative elders for the current year. On the reading of a communication from Dr. McTavish, Toronto, in reference to the proposed re-organization of the presbytery, a committee was appointed to consider the subject. Those appointed are Revs. J. A. Macdonald, convener, and Dacey, Drumm, Burns, A. Laird and Messrs. Maxwell, Tirell and A. Sharpe, elders. A letter was also read from Prof. James Ross, relating to the general assembly's report on "Aids to Social Worship," and asking the appointment of a committee to consider the book. A committee consisting of Revs. Prof. Jordan, convener, McKay and Peck, with Mr. Rankin, elder, was appointed to report at a future meeting.

Mr. Peck, from the committee, appointed to enquire about visiting the congregations of presbytery by the home and foreign mission secretaries, reported attention to the matter. Arrangements had been made with Dr. R. P. McKay, to visit as follows, viz.: On October 8th, Lansdowne; 9th, Gananoque and St. John's, Pittsburg; 10th, Sandhill and Sunbury; 12th, Sunday, Kingston and Portsmouth; 13th, Newburgh and Tamworth; 14th, Napanee; 15th, Shannonville; 16th, Stirling and Burnham; 17th, Madoc; 19th, Belleville; 20th, Roslin, etc., and on the 21st, Trenton. Several congregations could not be visited, as those vacant, or at a distance. The expense is to be met by each contributing a small sum.

Mr. Mackay reported from the committee to prepare a minute in reference to Mr. Claxton's removal. It expressed high appreciation of his character as a diligent and successful pastor, of his valuable services to the stations near him, wished him success in his future field of labor, and cordially recommended him to the brethren in the presbytery which he goes in the west.

Mr. Peck reported moderating in a call at Picton. It was in favor of James Shortt, probationer, and was signed by 123 communicants and 22 adherents. Commissioners were heard, and the call was sustained. Afterwards, Mr. Peck informed the presbytery that Mr. Shortt declined the call and it was set aside.

In the afternoon, Rev. A. Laird reported dispensing the Lord's Supper at Wolfe Island on Sunday last, and attending a meeting of the congregation on Monday. The work there is successfully carried on by Mr. McConachie, student. Arrangements were made for the winter, and Mr. McLeod agrees to undertake the work. Mr. Boyd also reported a like service at Sharbot Lake, etc. The work there is also successful, and Mr. Wood is asked to have charge of the field for the winter. The moderator had also attended to his appointment to visit Demorestville.

The moderator reported from the Presbyterial union of Sabbath schools and Young People's Society. Christian Endeavor, and successful convention had recently been held at Deseronto. The union had resolved to contribute $100 for three years for the support of a foreign missionary. It had also decided to visit by members of Presbytery the schools and Young People's Societies, and this in connection with Dr. Mackay's visit. It is proposed to submit a scheme of foreign mission studies in every congregation. On the motion to adopt the report, considerable discussion arose. It was finally agreed that presbytery express gratification at the progress made by the union, and bids it God-speed in its benevolent work.

Mr. Macgillivray, of the augmentation committee, presented the application of Eklorod congregation to receive a grant of $100. It had become weakened by the removal of families, and required assistance for a time. Mr. Mackay explained its condition, and in view of his leaving moderator of the session, and Mr. Burns was appointed. Mr. Binnie reported his visit to Tweed in the interest of augmentation. That congregation desires separation from Fuller, at a distance from it, and rather a hindrance to it than a benefit. It was agreed that the commission of the fund, inquire fully into the circumstances of the case, and decide on the question of separation. The commission is appointed to meet at Tweed on Tuesday, the 30th inst., at eleven o'clock.

Mr. Maclean could not report fully on home missions, as he had received only a few reports from students in the fields. Therefore his report was deferred till the meeting in December. The committee, however, had met and made some arrangements. Mr. Watson's term at L'Amable expires this month, and he will leave the field. Maymonth will get an assigned mission, if possible, as has Cos Hill, etc. Mr. Taylor leaves Marmora soon, and it probably will be supplied by a student for the winter. Foxboro offers five dollars a Sabbath for the winter, and the committee, recommends a grant of three till March. Mr. Mackay, having made arrangements for the supply of his pulpit, asked leave of absence for eight months, which was granted.

Some time was spent discussing statistics as brought up by A. Laird from the committee. The committee on evangelistic services, asked for a conference on the subject. This was agreed to, and several members expressed their views on the subject, but

NATURE INCENSED. Displays Her Wrath in Varied Manner.

By an English Banner. When nature is so used she displays her wrath in varied manner. Perhaps it is the howling cyclonic tornado, which sweeps across the stricken land carrying ruin and desolation in its path; leaving the trees uprooted and a shivering wreck, and turning to the ground the thriving plantations and vineyards as though a destroying angel had with the very besom of destruction obliterated them from the face of the earth. Or perhaps it is when she opens the floodgates of heaven and outpours the inundating cataract, which madly courses down the valley in irresistible torrents, devastating everything which opposes its will, trampling orchard, and transforming the smiling landscape into an arid wilderness.

Or it is the effort of the great pent up forces which are ever essaying with mighty strength to burst through the main shell which confines them in the lofty prison-house within which that brittle rocky crust, keeps them trammelled and fast bound; forces which, when let loose through one or other of the safety valves which guard against a too destroying outburst from that glowing subterranean fastness, submerge the country around beneath a pall of ashes, molten rock, and red-hot stones and boulders. Or it is when the thunderbolts of the artillery of heaven are discharged with resounding, detonating boom, and the flashing forks of fire are striking hither and thither; or the whirlwind, engulfing everything it can seize upon and throwing it to the winds, or the venom-tipped lance of the angel of death, which by plague or by pestilence pierces both young and old.

But though all these manifestations of nature's ire are perhaps more terrible in their majestic power, yet there is another form of her anger which, to those who are subjected to it, is sufficiently alarming. The traveller crossing the Egyptian desert sees in the horizon a dark, black cloud which appears to be rapidly rising higher in the heavens. Soon it is apparent that it is advancing at a furious rate, and a dull roar is heard in the distance. The terrified campers tremble with affright, and the travellers halt and make the best preparation they can to shelter themselves from the onslaught. And now it is on them. Day is turned into an appalling night, and with a terrific roar the sandstorm is on them, thick volumes of sharp flinty sand have slashed upon them full, half choking them and stinging any unprotected part as if the air were full of needles driven point foremost. And when at length the missile-charged hurricane has passed over them the sharp crystals have half buried both them and their panting camels.

And as in the natural world, so in the spiritual; for the storms of life are more or less the lot of all but those who are the servants of the Saviour, and whose misdeeds are blotted out in His atoning blood, fear not those storms. For they know that in all the stress of life He will shelter them and defend them, and that He has given His holy angels charge concerning them.

Newspapers The Best.

Philadelphia Record. One of the Chicago theatres has followed the example of all of the Boston and many of the New York theatres in giving up poster advertising in order to buy more space in the newspapers. The managers of these theatres do not deny that poster advertising may be valuable, but they think that for their business newspaper publicity is so much more valuable that they consider it expedient to do all their advertising in the dailies.
