

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Of Long Standing, Said to Be Incurable, Completely CURED

In Four Months by WARNER'S SAFE CURE

Alderman Stubig Gratefully Tells How This Wonderful Medicine Cured Him of Bright's Disease.

PERMANENTLY CURED.

"144 Roscoe Boulevard, Chicago. Gentleman: About two years ago I had one foot in the grave as the saying runs, and life looked pretty black to me; the doctors called it Bright's disease. I would have given all I had to be cured, but not a thing seemed to do me much good until I had your medicine.

Believe that such good fortune was mine, but I have not lost a meal nor had an ache or pain since. Words seem but poor to express my gratitude. Yours truly, H. M. STUBIG (Alderman, 27th Ward).

TEST YOUR URINE. Put some morning urine in a glass and let it stand twenty-four hours. If a reddish sediment forms or if the urine is cloudy, or if particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and you should lose no time, but get a bottle of Warner's Safe-Cure, as it is dangerous to neglect your kidneys for even one day.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is purely vegetable and contains no narcotic or harmful drugs. It is free from sediment and pleasant to take. It does not constipate. Sold by all druggists, or direct at $1 a bottle.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE moves the bowels gently and aids a speedy cure.

Refuse Substitutes and Imitations. There is none "just as good" as Warner's. It is prescribed by all doctors and used in the leading hospitals.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE. The manufacturers so firmly believe WARNER'S SAFE CURE will absolutely and permanently cure any diseased condition of the kidneys, liver, bladder or blood, that they will send post paid, without any cost to you, a trial bottle, if you will write Warner's Safe Cure Company, 44 Lombard street, Toronto, Ont., and mention having seen this liberal offer in the British Whig. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed by the publisher. Write the Medical Department for advice, medical booklet, diagnosis and analysis, which will be sent you free of charge.

At Your Door.

Our handsomely illustrated 100 page Catalogue will be sent you on application. This will place the largest and choicest jewelry stock in Canada at your disposal. We are doing business on the closest possible margin of profit, guarantee safe delivery of goods and cheerfully refund money if you are not thoroughly satisfied.

Ryrie Bros., Toronto. Diamond Hall, Established 1854.

Curse Drink

COLONIAL REMEDY. No taste, no odor. Can be given in glass of water, tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge. Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed "inebriate," "drunkard," or "drunkard." Impossible for anyone to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of W. C. T. U. Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail. Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Lowry (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.

Sold in Kingston by J. B. McLeod, Prince Street.

ANYTHING TO SELL, MAM? This is what the second-hand dealer says when he calls at your door, and you promptly say "no, without a thought." The Kingston-Rag and Metal Co. only ask you to drop them a card to 359 Princess Street after you have sorted over all your old stuff and they will pay you highest cash prices.

GIVES EVIDENCE.

Relates Alleged Conversation With Juror Bock.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 18.—William A. McCarron, on whose affidavit against Juror Bock, it is principally hoped to secure a new trial for Frank C. Andrews, the convicted vice-president of the wrecked City Savings Bank of this city, and whose secret arrest a week ago on the charge of being a deserter from the navy, created a sensation, has arrived here from Portsmouth, Va., in charge of Sheriff Dickson. He took the stand in the recorder's court and testified to the conversations he had with Juror Bock, in which McCarron alleged in his affidavit Bock expressed opinions against Andrews of such a nature as to make him unfit to sit as a juror in the case. McCarron testified that in conversation with him on July 14th Bock said that Andrews should be sent to prison for robbing the poor people of their money, and that if he had a chance he would help to send him there. On July 15th, when Judge Murphy suddenly discharged all the regular jury panel drawn for the Andrews trial, McCarron testified he took a paper containing the news to Bock, and the latter said: "Now I will get on the jury and will fix Andrews."

DRUGGISTS SENT TO JAIL.

Men Punished for Violation of Liquor Law.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 18.—Five prominent druggists of Van Buren county, charged with selling liquor contrary to the local option law pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Carrot at Paw Paw, Mich. Charles H. Rogers, South Haven, the leading druggist in the county, was given ninety days in jail and an additional fine of $200. P. C. Bailey, of Coventry, was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment. Ellis H. Price was sentenced to twenty days' imprisonment; Gladstone Beattie and J. E. Paulson, of South Haven, received fines of $50.

British "Loyal Eloquence."

London Express. As a sample of loyal eloquence, this effort by an Australian schoolmaster will be hard to beat: "King Edward is now sovereign over a continent, 100 peninsulas, 500 promontories, 100 lakes, 2,000 rivers, and 10,000 islands.

"He waves his hand, and 900,000 warriors march" to battle to conquer or die he leads his host, and at the signal 1,000 ships of war and 100,000 sailors perform his bidding on the ocean. He walks upon the earth, and 200,000,000 human beings feel the least pressure of his foot.

"The Assyrian empire was not so populous. The Persian empire was not so powerful. The Carthaginian empire was not so much dreaded. The Spanish empire was not so widely diffused. The Roman empire was weak in comparison, and Greece was a small village.

No wonder the people cheered. The Congregationalist. The future life has grown rare. It is a generation since ministers began to be reticent about speaking of future punishment, except to question its endlessness and its character. For a time the stress of preaching turned to the subject of future blessedness in heaven, but that gleam of immortality is fading out of sermon and prayer, and lingers mainly in hymns and in the funeral service.

The Banner Dairy States. Iowa has a greater number of creameries than any other state in the union—821. Wisconsin comes next with 788; and New York third, with 710. In the number of cheese factories New York ranks first with 1,211; Wisconsin second, with 1,256, while Iowa is not in it, having only eighty-five. In cheese factories and creameries combined, Wisconsin ranked first, with a total of 2,071, New York coming second with 2,051.

Paper coal is a form of lignite found near Bonn, in Germany. It splits naturally in flames as thin as paper. There are 25,000 pores in the hand of a man. There are 1,500 muscles in the body of a moth.

WHITE BLACKBERRIES.

HERE'S AN ODD GROUP OF BOYS.

Here is an original idea by an amateur photographer, who is not always "snapping" everything that comes along, but is looking for something novel, which he has in the circle of fourteen boys.

A barrel hoop was first placed upon the ground, then one after another the boys were placed upon the ground, face upward, with their heads against the hoop until the circle was completed, their hats thrown in the center with one of the most modest of the lot. Two ladders were erected, one on each side of the boys, with a plank extending across from one to the other at a distance of about eight feet from the ground.

The photographer took his position on the plank, with his camera pointing downward. When everything was ready a mention by the photographer that a dish of ice-cream was awaiting each one brought the desired smile from every face. But evidently it takes more than ice cream to make the boy in the center look up and furnish a smile for the camera.

KING AND BOTANIST.

M. Gaston Bonnier, a French scientist, was looking for rare plants one morning in the country near Stockholm, and as he entered a secluded path he found himself face to face with another naturalist, who was also collecting plants and who was accompanied by his wife.

The two men began at once to talk about botany and not until noon did it occur to them that it was time to eat.

"Do you know if there is any tavern or restaurant in the neighborhood where one could get a plain meal?" asked M. Bonnier of his companion.

"I do not know of any, but why not come and take lunch with my wife and me?" was the answer.

M. Bonnier accepted the invitation and a few minutes later he was in the royal palace and King Oscar was doing the duties of host.

AUSTRALIAN DROUGHT.

In Australia much damage has recently been caused by drought. According to Sir William MacWilliam, a prominent official of New South Wales, the loss to Australia will amount to $850,000,000.

Of the 60,000,000 sheep which were in New South Wales a few months ago, and nearly 33,000,000 are now alive, and it is feared that even of these many will perish. Queensland has also suffered gravely.

When A Girl's In Love.

This is a secret most men would give their most cherished possessions to know, and yet, from a woman's point of view, very few things were ever more simple, says the New York Journal.

You may know if a girl likes you by the way she behaves when you meet her. Don't be taken in by the mere fact that she changes color. Girls do that from a thousand different causes, and there is no reason why she should be in love with you merely because she blushes.

But there will come a look of pleasure into her face. Her eyes will brighten, and her lips will smile; no matter how hard she tries to conceal it. If she looks downward and sad when you say good-bye you may take hope from these signs.

Did you ever feel her hand tremble in yours? It doesn't tremble if she doesn't like you. Did you ever happen to wonder how it is that she so constantly wears your favorite color, or the flower you like best? Probably your masculine mind hasn't grasped the fact that that is a clear sign she wants to please you, and we don't trouble to please those we don't like.

Does she hear everything you say even when you are speaking to some one else? Does she find it impossible to look happy when you talk so much to other people, and don't devote yourself to her? Does her voice sound sweeter when she addresses you than in ordinary conversation? And when you dare to hold her hand, a moment longer than strict conventionality demands, does she let it linger in your clasp and not draw it away?

Does she let you crush her prettiest ball gown unthinkingly, and give you a flower from those she is wearing, though it spoils the effect of her costume? Then, indeed, you may think.

LIVE IN TREES.

Near Paris is a remarkable village, the inhabitants of which spend their lives in the treetops. If you look for this curious spot on the map you will find it spelled Secaux, though it is perhaps better known among the Parisians as "Le Vrai Arbre de Robinson."

It appears that some fifty years ago M. Guesnein conceived the idea of building a restaurant in the treetops. He owned land at Secaux in which stood a grand old tree. In the branches of this forest-patriarch he erected small dining-rooms, which were reached by rustic staircases. The view to be obtained from these lofty heights is unique.

To celebrate the unconventional delicacies of feasts taken perched among the branches M. Guesnein called his restaurant "Robinson," dropping the "Cruise." The fame of the tree and its dining-rooms spread all social circles, and artistic Paris made it a point to breakfast or dine among the rustling leaves.

Imitators soon appeared on the scene, and to-day Secaux is nothing else than a village built in tree tops. There are over a score of trees, with spacious dining-rooms, many also boasting of sleeping and living apartments, ingeniously constructed on the stout branches of the trees. The tallest tree may be likened to a three-story dwelling. It has three distinct levels, built one above the other.

LURE FISH WITH MIRRORS.

In France a novel method of catching fish is being tested by anglers. A tiny mirror is attached to the line near the baited hook.

The assumption is that a fish, when it sees itself in the mirror, will conclude that some other fish is trying to carry off the bait, and will make haste to secure the tempting morsel for itself, the result being that it will swallow the bait, on the relentless hook.

From experiments which have been made there seems to be some foundation for this assumption. At any rate, some anglers say that they catch more fish when they use the little mirror than they ever caught before.

FOUNDATION OF SKELETONS.

It has been discovered that the great city of London rests on a foundation of skeletons—hundreds of thousands of skeletons that extend east and west, north and south, from boundary to boundary of world's metropolis, and beyond. There they lie, compressed into a compact mass by the superimposed clay, gravel, sand and surface structures.

These skeletons were once the framework of living beings—beings that were the most simple of multi-cellular animals, known as sponges. Many thousands of years ago, when the great sea ebbed and flowed where London now stands, these metazoan organisms, these cities of cells, these Venices, with their thousands of canals, lived and did their unconscious part in the great plan of evolution.

Now the life has gone, the cells are crushed, the canals are closed, and only the frames of flint, compressed into a homogeneous mass, remain.

Sphinx Needs Umbrella.

Venice has lost her famous Campanile and now Egypt has good cause to tremble for her Sphinx—at least, so says a distinguished European Egyptologist who examined this ancient monument recently.

It is slowly wasting away, he says, and the sole cause is because too much rain has recently descended on it. Each year, he points out, there are terrible showers of rain in Egypt, which are followed by fierce tempests, and as a result the Sphinx, which has stood for centuries, is now being slowly, but surely, destroyed, the stone of which it is fashioned being no longer able to resist the periodical onslaughts of the weather.

As the only efficacious remedy he suggests that an immense umbrella be placed over the monument, and thus the rain could be warded off, and that some method be also devised to protect it against the sand which envelops it during tempests.

A fragment of a calendar, the earliest piece of Gutenberg's printing that can be proved, has been discovered in Washington. The astronomical calculations show that it was intended for the first four months of the year 1442.

LARGEST ELM TREE IN THE WORLD.

Old and rugged, the elm tree which stands on the "Grove" triangle in Norfolk, Va., has been proved several times to be the largest tree of its kind in the New England States, and it is probably the largest in the world.

It is estimated at from 100 to 500 years, this making it older than Columbus, Ferdinand and Isabella. It is said that Washington camped under its spreading branches on a trip from Boston to New York, and that he spoke of its size, and estimated that a few hundred feet to the west of the tree is the home of President Gil-

YOU CAN'T KILL HIM.

The Commercial Traveller is Truly a Wonder.

John A. Lee, lieutenant-governor of Missouri and a former commercial traveller of national reputation, is the author of this clever characterization of the commercial traveller: "You cannot kill a commercial traveller. He has been in the midst of all great national calamities—flood, forest fires and women's rights' conventions for years, and still triumphantly lives. Cyclones have tossed and dangled with him, railroads have wrecked him, steamboats have blown up with him, all kinds of disasters from the mumps to yellow fever, have assailed him; poor hotels have tried to ruin his digestion; bar-tenders and patent medicine manufacturers have endeavored to concoct poisons that would down him, but he has lived on and on, smiling at his enemies.

Train robbers, footpads, train-conductors, general passenger agents and Pullman porters have all tried ineffectually to hold him up. He has been sorely afflicted with suits for alimony and breach of promise. His impressive soul has been ground between the upper millstone—his employer—and the nether millstone—his customer—for, for these many years, uncomplainingly. He has carried the banner in parades, made stump speeches, put up his staff, acted as challenger at the polls and sergeant-at-arms at conventions, and fought for his political convictions at every election from times of antiquity to the present without ever getting an office.

He has been snake bitten, dog bitten, poisoned and partially suffocated through rooming with customers who insisted on blowing out the gas. He has been scalped by ticket scalpers, license-taxed by populist legislators, has ridden unbroken mules and unbridlewise broncos and burros over impassable roads, has navigated unfavorable streams with double livey teams while astride of his simple trunk to keep his feet dry, has chased cannon ball trains and overtaken them, has pumped handcars many weary miles, has helped "jack-up" detailed freight cabooses, has piled stagg coaches out of mud holes, and still joyously survives.

He has been shot at and clubbed by "bad men from Bitter Creek," and they have not lived to gloat over his remains, but have frequently died as tributes to his inexhaustible vitality and readiness for emergencies. He has crossed the great American desert before the era of irrigation, has been sunstruck in Mexico, frost-bitten in Canada, struck by lightning on the summit of the Sierras, chased by Indians in Arizona, has been bitten by tarantulas in Texas, Gila monsters in New Mexico, and rattlers in Oklahoma, has made cold bug speeches in Massachusetts, and still lives to tell the tale, and tells it well.
