

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble, by Getting Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent western cities by the close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, finally in the form of chronic stomach trouble; the failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my form to its normal condition and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another. I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass of beer, but without any marked improvement.

"Friends had often advised me to try a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy but never took any stock in advertised medicines nor could I believe a fifty-cent patent medicine would touch my case.

"To make a long story short I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two of these tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort.

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement in my appetite and general health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia.

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained and they replied that the principal ingredients were aspartic (government test), malt dextrin and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach.

"The root of the matter is this, the digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourishment which can only come from food stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a feigning strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach trouble.

A SUNDAY FIRE.

FLAMES DROVE BACK THE FIREMEN.

Buildings Were Old And Dry And Burned Rapidly—Firemen Had a Difficult Task to Perform—Did Good Work.

Shortly after twelve o'clock Sunday noon the fire brigade was called out to extinguish a fire which had started in some frame buildings on Upper William street, in the rear of Mrs. Nesbit's grocery store. The alarm was given at the station by "Alice" Pierce, who saw the blaze and hurried to the station with the intelligence. The brigade was promptly on the scene, but the fire had gained great headway before the brigade was notified. The small frame buildings were dry, and burned very rapidly. Enclosed as they were between brick residences, the firemen had great difficulty in getting at the fire. Several times the fierce flames drove them back. A stiff wind was blowing, and sparks were flying in every direction.

The gate-end of Mrs. Nesbit's house caught fire, but by hard work this was extinguished. Three lines of hose were in use, and the pressure was good. The small sheds were burned, and a frame house occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Donoghue, was badly scorched. The great deal of the latter's furniture and household effects was damaged by being thrown out of the window before the brigade arrived. The sheds burned were insured for $300, which does not cover the loss. Mrs. Donoghue carried no insurance on her property.

While the firemen were engaged in fighting this conflagration, sparks from the burning buildings had been caught by the breeze and had set fire to the roof of the Imperial laundry, Barrie street, near Princess street. Part of the brigade was dispatched to extinguish the new fire, which they successfully did. Immediately after the work of Capt. Charles Staley's hose, Maple Row, Barrie street, caught fire from flying sparks; this fire was promptly extinguished before damage was done.

The brigade deserves great praise for its splendid work. The men fought hard to confine the fire. The strong wind fanned the flames with great vehemence, and it was only by the hardest and most skillful work that the fire had not spread and wiped out the block. Chief Elmer handled his men well, and his efforts met with success.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It started in a small shed belonging to Mrs. Nesbit while she was at church, and she has no idea of its cause. The other sheds burned and the small house, which was considerably damaged, belonged to T. R. Lavery, Newton road, Ireland, a son-in-law of Mrs. Nesbit. Flying sparks also set fire to the roof of Rev. E. Crummy's residence, corner Barrie and Johnston streets, and to several other residences.

BASEBALL FRICITION.

Ponies Have Entered Suit Against Gannaque.

Gannaque baseball management will find that it doesn't always pay to go into the game shoe business. This fact will dawn upon them after the next sitting of the Division court in their little town. Ponies have put the matter in the hands of Lawyer Nicksle, who will enter suit. The evidence will reveal the financial condition of the Gannaque club, and how much back salary is due several players.

When trouble arose out of Burke garnisheing Gannaque's $324 on the fair on August 27th, for unpaid salary. No proceedings being taken by Gannaque, the fair directors gave Burke his $20 claim, and handed the balance to "Chancer" Elliott, who turned this $15 over to first baseman Brennan, as manager of the Gannaque team. It happened that Brennan also had been unpaid for his services, and so he very wisely pocketed the money; now Ponies are to suffer on behalf of Burke and Brennan. But it will be only for a time, as no court would uphold such a ridiculous claim as that made by Gannaque management, which took $225 guarantees and also asked "Chancer" Elliott to hand over $10 more. There will be no back down on the part of the Ponies, who will fight the matter to the bitter end, regardless of cost.

THE BOYS LET OFF.

In the absence of magistrate Duff, Mayor Shaw sat in judgment at the police court this morning. The two Barrie street boys appeared again, charged with stealing apples. The property on which the boys are located is owned by John Grey, who told his worship that he had informed both families in the dispute that they could have the apples. The boys were, therefore, not stealing them. The mayor let the lads off on suspended sentence, cautioning them to behave in the future.

A cat will refuse to drink coffee, but will drink and thrive on Postum Food Coffee.

Mrs. Alice Gould, of Maywood, He says: "Coffee drinking made me very much run down, thin and nervous and I thought I should have to give up my work."

I was induced to try Postum by a friend who suffered four years from severe sick headaches lasting for several days at a time, who said that since using Postum Coffee she had been entirely free from an attack. I found that by making Postum according to directions it was equal to coffee in flavor.

It is now six months since I began drinking Postum, and I have gained eighteen pounds in weight. It has built me up and I feel like a new person.

We all drink it now, even to the cat, who is the pet of the family, and it is happy to see his drink his bowl of Postum Food Coffee every morning.

We often try to get him to drink of coffee but he has the good sense to refuse it.

KINGSTON WAS OVERLOOKED.

Rare Scenes Missed by the Moving Picture Man.

"I have been looking over the catalogues of moving picture and stereoscopic slides," remarked a citizen Saturday, "and I have never yet been able to find one view of Kingston. I suppose I have seen the catalogues of every slide company in the world; I know for a fact that I have carefully gone through fifty of them, but never a picture of this historic city have I seen. This is all the more strange because of the fact that since the South African war broke out at least twenty photographers have been sent here by the largest of the companies. These men travelled from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and carried scores of negatives home with them. The catalogues show that they visited the eastern provinces, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, and I have never seen a picture of Kingston. I cannot understand why Kingston was so neglected.

"This neglect is a matter of much more importance to Kingston than many people would think. These views are used in hall, in church, in lecture and in theatre, all over the world. It forms a great advertisement for the city. One splendid view might be the means of inducing tourists or capitalists to visit Kingston. Or, again, it might be the means of causing desirable emigrants to locate here. In my opinion it would be well worth the city's while to send a few good negatives to some of the large slide manufacturing concerns."

Are Courting Death.

A citizen who visited the outer G. T.R. depot yesterday afternoon expressed his wonder that more children are not killed there. "Scores of boys hang about the yard," he says, "when a freight train comes in they climb upon the open box cars or on top of the engine. I even saw them riding on the cow-catcher of the engine. And all this is done while the cars are in motion. The train officials are not numerous enough to chase the boys away, and, besides, the officials have other work to do. It is a wonder that these children are not killed after their children, a policeman should be detailed to arrest them."

Good Supplementary Reading.

A great deal of supplementary literature has been placed in the public schools this year. The course of "Nature Studies" demands this, and a most instructive course it is. There are few things more interesting to children than the study of nature, and there are few, if any, studies more beneficial. The books, which are largely of the Seton-Thompson variety, deal with animals and their habits, with plants, flowers, trees, etc.
