TOLD IN THE TWILIGHT

About fifty years ago a present resident of St. Louis visited Kingston, and the late Dr. Yates pointed out a cottage, which the poet Tom Moore had in view when he wrote:

"I know by the smoke which has curled
Above the green elms that a cottage was near."

This gentleman now asks if the cottage exists. He cannot find from the published biographies or works of Moore that he ever visited Kingston. It has been confidently asserted that he did, and that the cottage in question was known as the Cunningham homestead. Who can offer testimony or records on these points?

A New York clubman claims that Gotham's maidens are rivals of Paris dams, in dressing the head and feet and in variety of smart costumes. They are not tawdry or bedizened, but contentedly a la mode; nor do they seem to be dressed within an inch of their lives. They are thoroughbred, to use a man's phrase, being healthy, happy and wholesome. A dozen or so together do not give an effect of a job-lot rush for hats, shoes or gowns. In half an hour on a fine day, on Broadway or the Fifth, the whole, infinite kaleidoscopic whirl of the milliner's and modiste's illustrious fancies can be seen.

The Bishop of Ontario completed two weeks of toilsome visitation on Monday and left on Tuesday for Montreal, to conduct a quiet day at the theological college, for which his intensity of feeling and warmth of expression are so well fitted. With His Lordship there is no relaxing of purpose or energy and on Saturday he will begin a tour lasting throughout October and punctuated with an average of two services daily.

Wolfe and Simcoe islands have received their summer sojourners, but Milton still attracts by autumn pleasures. Summer has been for several years in succession a month of mildness and comfort, and the business, school and college resumptions seem almost to have been an intrusion on nature's kindliest mood.

St. George's cathedral congregation resumed its activities in hearty form this week, no less than three afternoon gatherings for ladies having been appointed. Daily prayer service is also being held morning and afternoon.

Lieutenant A. C. Caldwell's removal to Ottawa is to be a permanency. He is connected with headquarters intelligence department, for which his experience with the British force in South Africa, has, in addition to his natural qualities, fitted him. His popularity with the Ottawa company of first contingent in Africa presaged hearty welcome to the Ottawa engineer corps as lieutenant.

Mr. J. Dixon, stationer, who has been assisting Rev. C. J. Young at Sharbot Lake, and who left pleasant impressions also in Westport and Clarence parishes, has returned to college.

A young Kingstonian, A. H. Smythe, of Bank B.N.A., Brandon, has been promoted to the Winnipeg branch.

And now felicitations are in order over new-found happiness of Mr. A. J. Small, lessee of the Grand opera house. May the stage present no more charming romance than will be Mr. and Mrs. Small's good fortune in a long and happy life.

The captivating goddess has shiffs for all ages, and rumor speaks of a prospective union between a widower, by brevet, who has made Kingston his home, and a fair young widow.

"The better to have loved and lost than never-to have loved at all, when it leaves the heart still young, with a faith strong in the devotion of women."

Engagements: Edith Laura, daughter of Lord St. John, of Bletsoe, to Mr. George Johnston, son of Mr. Lawson Johnston, formerly of Montreal, Miss Rose Lechtenheim, Toronto, to Mr. Leon Goldsmith, Cincinnati.

The marriage of Miss Edna McLaughlin, of Guelph, to Mr. Edward Seagram, of Waterloo, will occur October 8th, at St. Andrew's church, in the royal city.

Capt. Duncan MacInnes, R.E., who was one of the defenders of Kimberley, has arrived from England for his marriage with Miss Millicent Thomas, daughter of the late Wellerston Thomas, of Montreal, on October 20th.

The colony of young married ladies at Dawson has received a bright addition through the marriage of Miss Annie Forbes, of Woodstock, and Mr. John McKay, barrister.

To-morrow, at St. George's church, Trenton, occurs the marriage of Mr. J. Heriot Redpath, Montreal, to Hazel, second daughter of Mr. David Gilmore, Trenton, and niece of Mrs. W. S. Clouston, of Montreal.

Church notes from Bath contain this proclamation: "Have you called on the bride? There is almost as much religion in calling on a bride as in going to church regularly." Explanations are in order.

A ladies' golf team from Quebec is to visit Ottawa on Saturday for a match. They will then journey to Toronto for the Dominion championship games, under auspices of the Ladies' Canadian Golf Association. Miss Hora will attend from Kingston.

At one time no Kingston lady who cared for public respect would attend a musical performance, but gradually the programmes have been toned down, and the attendance of fair ones has grown, until it was an ordinary musical entertainment on Wednesday evenings. The thoroughly good and clean entertainments the Guy Bros. gave has gained fresh confidence for minstrelsy.

A recent visitor to the Limestone city, Mrs. E. Taylor Wood, wife of the acting commissioner of the Yukon territory, gave an "At Home" at Dawson to a hundred of her friends. A marquee was erected on the barrack square for the reception, and the mounted police band was stationed near. After luncheon, and upon Mrs. Wood's invitation, a rugby football match was played, the teams representing England and Canada. Eddie Senker, hero of many eastern matches, captained the Canucks, and they won, 11 to 8, their second victory over the dear old mother land, which is not respectful, don't you know.

Mr. Fairlie, of Merchants bank, Gananoque, brought home because of a serious attack of typhoid fever, is on the confident road to recovery. Rev. Mr. Fairlie, his father, has been a sufferer for a past week from blood poisoning in the hand, the injury having been incurred without knowledge of accident or danger.

Mr. J. A. Timmerman, superintendent, C.P.R. railway, Mrs. Timmerman and son, whose home is in Nova Scotia, spent several days, beginning with Friday, in Kingston and Odessa.

Master Grover, William street, has entered upon a course at Trinity college, Port Hope. Mr. George Grover is still with a government survey party in the North-West, and finding the oozes wholesome.

Archdeacon Carey visited Napanee on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ferrier, who has been a visitor at Bishop's Court and leaves tomorrow for Montreal, will, with Mrs. Ferrier, spend the winter in England.

Miss Dainty Yates is enjoying, with relatives, a railway tour westward by private car, to be supplemented by a coaching tour in New England.

Mrs. Frank Strange, leaves to-morrow for Brandon to be a guest at Sir Sandford Fleming's, taking with her Miss Marjorie Fleming, who spent the summer here. Mr. Hugh Fleming has returned to Ottawa with Mrs. Grace Fleming, and her mother, Mrs. Davis.

Rev. M. M. Harding left to day for Brandon, with friendships renewed and well fortified with good wishes for a happy return next general synod.

Miss Olive Bradshaw will leave for England next week.

Mrs. Lewis sailed for Liverpool on the 24th.

William Stewart, forwarding manager, Montreal, who can almost be claimed as a Kingstonian, has happily recovered from an abscess in the leg, which completely prostrated him, though pluckily from his couch he kept in touch with business through the telephone. He is in distinguished company, in having President Roosevelt for a fellow sufferer.

"Madge Merton" takes a philosophical view of the fuel famine. She reasons that health would be better if we provided our bodies with more fuel and our furnaces with less. Our homes are usually unbearably hot, for we men who don't take enough exercise to keep warm are many. More fresh air, more sensible clothing, more walking, more work, would make many a shivering pallid woman a racy-cheeked one, who couldn't believe she had ever been a victim to that chilly feeling.

Mr. John Charles Beatty, son of late Dr. Beatty, of Cobourg, died on Tuesday at Ottawa. He was a bachelor, superannuated from the civil service, and is mourned by five sisters, Mrs. (Hon.) Williams MacDonell, Mrs. Girouard, Mrs. C. A. E. Harrison, of Ottawa, Mrs. Dainty, of Cobourg, and Mrs. Egerton Ryerson, of Toronto.

The cabinet ministers and their families are returning to Ottawa for the weary season that stretches far into the next summer. Hon. Clifford and Mrs. Sifton, have left their St. Lawrence home with the pleasantest of impressions, and may be counted among the fast friends of the dimpled lake of the Thousand Islands.

The Hon. Justice Macaulay (from Belleville) and a party of a dozen, en route to Dawson, were royally entertained at White Horse by Inspector Fitz Horrigan, of the mounted police. A jolly dance, a drive to the mines, a jaunt to the barracks, luncheon and suppers were pleasurable breaks upon the tedious journey.

Thespians In Dispute. Two members of the "Hot Scotch Major" theatrical company, who have been inseparable friends for over five years, became involved in a dispute in a downtown hotel this afternoon. One of them "shish'd" an ink bottle at the other, but the missile missed its mark. However, it made its "Mark," as the ink bespattered the walls, ceiling and floor, while the bottle ended its flight by smashing a large pane of frosted glass in the dining-room door. The young man guilty of the damage paid up the loss.

Made Absolute. London, Oct. 1.—The divorce decree obtained March 21st, by Francis Hope, against May Yohé, was made absolute this morning.

"Bibby's" Oak Hall, "Bibby's," the author, has completed his recovery from the influenza, which attacked him some time ago.

James Ennis, after visiting friends in the city, returned to Chicago on Wednesday.

FAMOUS ASIATIC BELLE.

Her Style of Beauty is Full of Innocency.

In Asia there are no women more beautiful than those who have their homes in the Schan region, and the accompanying picture shows the young lady who is now the acknowledged belle of that district. Her style of beauty, as may be seen, differs widely from that of the European or American belle, and her costume and ornaments would certainly attract considerable attention if worn in public by one of her western sisters.

This young lady is the daughter of a local potentate and has many suitors. As yet, however, she has shown no preference for any one of them, and gossips say that the reason is because she knows that as soon as she marries she will cease to be regarded as the most beautiful girl in China.

G. Forrest Weatherhead, B.A., having passed his final examinations in medicine at Queen's, purposes studying with Dr. Moore, Brockville. The many friends of this popular young athlete join in congratulating him on his success.
