USE OF COARSE WORDS.

Mr. Borden, the conservative leader, has not been fortunate in his choice of associates for the western tour. This one judges from the castigation of the Kootenay Mail has been called upon to administer to Mr. Powell, the late member for Westmorland. According to our contemporary he has been very abusive. In a speech at Kootenay he referred to the intercolonial railway employees as the 'scum of the earth,' to the post-office as being recruited from the criminal classes, and to the French-Canadians in an insulting way. 'Perhaps,' says the Kootenay Mail, 'Mr. Powell thought as he was away from home he could say such things with impunity.' He forgets that the press is represented everywhere, that news travels quickly, and that public speech becomes public property. He will have the opportunity of explaining what he means when he returns east, and the sooner he makes his peace with the railway and post-office officials the better. As for the French he is not probably aware that they are so highly esteemed, at present, that his party is bending in adoration before Mr. Tarte, and that it is repenting, in sack-cloth and ashes, all the coarse things it ever said about him.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

The Whig, a few days ago, discussing the tax which has been levied on the school supporters of this city, said: 'The time has apparently arrived for a reconsideration of the whole question. Kingston's school supplies are costing too much by 50c. per pupil per annum.'

The Belleville Intelligencer, by a strange perversion of the truth, quoted the remark here cited and called it a frank confession and very refreshing. 'Coming from a strong supporter of the Ross administration?' What has the government, pray, to do with it? Absolutely nothing. It is within the power of every school board to ask the council for an appropriation with which to purchase school text books, and school supplies, including copy books, note books, exercise books, drawing books, and stationery.

This right is possessed by the Kingston school board. It is not exercised, however, for the reason that the trustees have not deemed it expedient. Instead, some years ago, it undertook to buy the school supplies at wholesale and distribute them among the scholars at actual cost. The expense is deemed excessive because the quantity used is 'beyond all reason, and it is against this wastefulness that the people are crying out. The goods are cheap enough, but the quantity is annually increasing, and with a consequent addition to the burden laid upon the ratepayers. A grievance, and a serious one, is the fact that the scholars are provided with note books in which to preserve dictation, which is supposed to take the place of text books, and in many cases the text books have been suggested by the teachers, so that the plans of the school management committee are openly and deliberately defeated. The subject is receiving the attention which is its due, and it is a purely local one, and having no connection whatever with Mr. Ross and his administration.

THE C.P.R.'S ENTERPRISE.

The proposition of the Canadian Pacific railway company, in regard to a fast mail and freight steamship service on the Atlantic, has been made public. The company expects from the government, for the mail service, the boats to be of the newest type and capable of making twenty knots an hour, and a freight service, the boats to be adapted to the Canadian trade, and capable of running twenty knots an hour, a subsidy of £265,000, or, in Canadian currency, over a million and a quarter dollars a year.

It is very desirable that the mail service, which affects general business, the more so as this business is developed, should be as fast as possible, but it does not appear that the Canadian interests demand a service of the kind described and at so great a cost. There appears to be a good deal of sentiment about the subject. A fast service is desirable, at a reasonable cost, but not at any cost. To many people there is more need of a fast freight service for the need of perishable goods and to the end that they may be carried across the ocean and marketed as soon as possible. A subsidized line would run according to the dictation of the government and in obedience to the public requirements. Even though it is a question whether the time has come for an undertaking of the kind referred to.

The Canadian Pacific company contemplate the establishment of a line of freighters for the protection of its business. A great transcontinental line has occasion to make quotations for through freight, and it is handicapped so long as it is dependent upon another company for services, and rates. The C.P.R. is going to be independent and at the same time free to launch out into any enterprise which affects transportation by land and sea. Its Pacific steamship service is a great success. There is no reason to doubt that its Atlantic service will be the same, and it will be a first-class service in order to win the favour for which it is bidding.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sutherland offers a sample of anthracite coal with every pair of boots he sells. Happy thought!

Hamilton is not having the increase of population which it desires, but it is ambitious all the same. Good thing.

'Stop complaining and saw wood,' says a friend. The advice is as un-sound as some of the material which is in demand as fuel just now.

The coal barons, in the mind of Mr. Ewan, writing to the Globe from Wilkesbarre, have no notion of a surrender. Kings Hunger and Frost are believed to be working on their side.

The Liberator announced a revelation in this week's issue! Revolution is the better word, for the insinuation that the press of Ontario is selling out to the liquor party is a downright insult. The referendum campaigners must be careful.

A great union of the Jews of the world is anticipated. It is quite impossible, however. There are quite many dissidents among the Hebrews, as among any other class. The Kingston party has had a split.

Brockville rejoices that it possesses the gas plant as a municipal enterprise, and that it has fuel gas at $1 per 1,000 feet. Kingston has that though the plant still belongs to a company. A reduced rate should follow the transfer of the property to the city.

St. John, N.B., Telegraph. 'His sister and then shot himself,' says a contemporary in describing a Truro suicide. This of course is better than if he had done the shooting first, but the sister had cause to complain, for the headline makes it look like a case of cause and effect.

Not Equal To Laurier.

Ottawa Free Press. The shah of Persia did not rouse half so much interest in Paris, nor was he half so much written about, as the premier of Canada. True, Sir Wilfrid was more of a novelty to Paris. The shah was there only two summers ago, when some crazy anarchist tried to murder him. This time there was not even that much interest taken in him. He was allowed to go about as he pleased, and visitors at his residence were more in the line of contractors than diplomats. He is devoted to the Bois de Boulogne and on one occasion got mixed up with a wedding breakfast party taking a honeymoon breakfast in a kiosk of the Bois. The shah was delighted and presented to the little bride-most French belles are little-a gold medal leaving his own ally.

Canadian Woman's News Letter.

From the Canadian Syndicate.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.-The path of those who attempt to educate the public is set with difficulties, and with such subjects as art and music the task does not become easier. This is being illustrated in Ottawa, by the troubles of two prominent organizations, the Women's Morning music club and the Women's Art association. The affairs of the latter are decidedly embarrassed. The cost of keeping up a pretty studio on Sparks street for members has been considerable, and during the past season much difficulty was experienced in meeting expenses. The officers, not unnaturally, have grown a little weary of this struggle and are asking themselves if it is worth while, for it is said there has been more tea than art at many of the society's meetings. The Morning music club, on the contrary, is prosperous financially but has sustained a succession of other misfortunes, which have occasioned the executive anxiety. The worst difficulty is the want of a place to hold concerts, the former hall, the only really suitable place in the city, having been diverted to uses more profitable to the owners than music. Then the president, Mrs. C. A. E. Harris, is absent in Europe, while the musical director, Mrs. D. Bentley, who gave a large amount of her time to the work last winter, has resigned.

On the other hand, however, much interest is being awakened by a new artistic movement. The idea came from Toronto, where it is already in operation, and the object is to cultivate the artistic taste in the rising generation, by putting good pictures and music into the schools. This movement, which is not of feminine origin, has been endorsed by the presidents of the Local Council of Women and of the Woman's Art association, and the latter declares that such an organization would be more useful than her own society, which, at its best, only appeals to a limited circle, while, in the present school art league would place the best art within the reach of the people.

At an entertainment to be given next month at Ottawa University by the Catholic Indian association, an interesting tableau, representing Kateri Tekakwitha, the 'Lily of the Mohawks' before the cross, will be presented. Many Canadians may be unacquainted with the story of the Indian Saint. She is a famous personage, nevertheless, and her cause for canonization was presented to the authorities at Rome by the last council of Baltimore, and is now under consideration. She was born in 1656 at Kendaquague (now Tunia, N.Y.), but through the unkindness of her relatives, Canada gained the honor subsequently of becoming her home. Kateri Tekakwitha learned of the Christian religion from a passing missionary and to escape persecution went to the Jesuit mission at Sault Ste. Louis (now Caughnawaga), where her brother was living. There she was baptized by the Jesuits and her saintliness became an object of remark. She never wore decorations of dress as other Indian girls did, and even while a pagan would not attend dances or celebrations after battle. Though her hand was frequently sought in marriage she refused all such proposals. She wished, she said, to be the spouse of Christ, and the whole of her short life was devoted to religion and good works. Among the Caughnawagas, known as the 'praying Indians,' she found a congenial home, and when her work was done she used to slip away to their little bark-covered chapel, or to a cross erected by St. Lawrence Indians, and spend hours in prayer and contemplation. Tekakwitha died at the age of twenty-four, and a handsome stone, the gift of the Rev. C. A. Walworth, of Albany, now marks her grave. The name of the 'Genevieve of Canada' was given her by the Marquis de Denonville.

'Crichton Lodge,' now the residence of the Earl of Dundonald, has been very quiet since the arrival of the general commanding and his sister, Lady Elizabeth Cochrane. Even the coming of Lady Dundonald will probably make little difference, for there has been a recent bereavement in both families. It is only a few months since the death of Lord Dundonald's mother, and but a few weeks ago Lady Dundonald's mother died very suddenly at her Welsh home, Gwyrch Castle. Lady Dundonald is not expected in Canada for some time; she may remain in England until after the marriage of her daughter, Lady Grisel Cochrane, whose engagement is announced.

The charming coteries of sisters of the late J. C. Beatty, of Ottawa, whose remains were taken this week to Cobourg for interment, are well known in Canadian society. She is the wife of Hon. William Macdougall, and mother of Charles A. E. Harris, the well-known English musician and composer, now residing at Earncliffe, once the home of Sir John Macdougall. The eldest sister, Mrs. Daigtry of Cobourg, on the occasion of the king's visit to that town, where her father, the late Dr. Beatty, was then mayor, had the honor of being taken to dinner by his majesty and also of being his partner in the first dance afterward. The fourth sister, son of Toronto, Mrs. Justice Girouard, and her husband, Mr. Justice Girouard, was in Toronto at the time of her brother's death and immediately left for Cobourg, Mrs. Harris is now on a coaching tour through Ireland, accompanied by her nephew, Dr. Westrope Macdougall.

It has been the custom of late years for Canadian society women to send their daughters to school in Europe for a year or two before they make their debut into the fashionable world. Several of the European schools are very popular with the Ottawa ladies only this summer an Ottawa lady who had just returned from a year's sojourn in Europe, where she had been to school, brought home her own daughter. One of the schools is in Dresden, and another in Switzerland. The latter won its Canadian prestige through Dr. Parkin, of Upper Canada College, who warmly recommends it, his own daughters having been educated there. A third is in Germany, in the pretty resort town of Carlsruhe, the home of Princess Elizabeth of Baden. There the musical conservatory has the distinction of being presided over by Herr Mottl, the best known living interpreter of Wagner. The school in Carlsruhe has at its head Fraulein Nodal, who became known in Ottawa during the Lansdowne regime, she having charge of the entire education of Lord Lansdowne's daughters, one of whom is now the beautiful Marchioness of Waterford and the other the future Duchess of Devonshire.

Rev. S. T. Bartlett arrived home yesterday after a month's visit with friends in London and in attendance at the Methodist conference, Winnipeg. Mark S. Pollard, son of Charles Pollard, arrived home from Halifax, N.S., where he has been for the past two years as a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment, which was last month disbanded. Mark is the envy of the boys in Napanee as he walks about in his natty uniform. He looks as if the life of a soldier agreed with him. A. T. Creighton, Duluth, Minn., is spending vacation visiting friends and relatives in the vicinity. Mrs. Finkle left last week to visit her sisters in Providence, R.I., and her son Harry, at Worcester, Mass. Mrs. E. H. Barnes, Toronto, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Bruyn, Dundas street. Mrs. John R. Scott, Virgil, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles Lane, Bridge street, and other friends. Miss Chinnick, Toronto, who spent the summer with her brother, F. Chinnick, left this week for Elora, to visit her brother there. Miss Laura Lockhead, Centreville, a former N.C.I. pupil, left on Monday to attend Toronto University. W. N. Gordon left this week to resume his studies at Queen's College.

How To Grow.

The proprietor of a small store in New York says his trade came from only a small section of the city until he began to advertise in a newspaper. Now he draws enough trade from beyond his old limits to more than pay for his advertising. 'Besides,' he says, 'I am sowing seed for the time when I shall have a large department store. The only way for my establishment to grow is by newspaper advertising.'

A SUMMER HOTEL. Opinions of Men as to Location at Kingston.

Mr. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central railway, says in a letter: 'I feel confident that such an hotel would be the means of attracting a large number of summer visitors to that beautiful old Canadian city, and I am also confident that whoever visits Kingston, will want to visit it again and again. I shall be glad to do all in my power to aid in bringing the new hotel and its attractions before the travelling public, and I am sure that you will have the co-operation of every one in the locality, in any way you may touch or can reach Kingston.' As showing what other hotel men think, Messrs. Hiram Ricker & Sons, of New York and Poland Springs, who have three summer hotels at Kingston and who know something about Kingston and the locality, and also are aware of the fact that there are a great many tourists during the summer months who pass through Kingston. Without doubt a good hotel run in proper shape would be a success.'

Topic Tips. Flowers are used to decorate the toes of slippers. 'Jet is being delicately introduced into mourning millinery. Velvet roses are to bloom abundantly on winter hats. Most smart millinery tilts skyward at the left. There is a regrettable weight of dresses on new skirts, and was quite at the French capital skirts are no longer as flat or tight-fitting as they were. At last the fulness of the sleeve is moving upward, indicating the sure return of the leg-of-mutton. Queer little trunks covered with hairy cowhide come in tiny sizes for the safe stowing of girdles. Many of the new girdles are straight narrow bands finished with two short loops and long-fringed ends.

Some Excellent Articles. In October North American Review 'Mr. Balfour and His Opportunities,' by Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P., is a study of the new British premier and the serious problems with which he must deal. 'The Work of the Friars' has done for the people of the Philippine Islands. Justice John Woodward, of the supreme court of New York, writes of the abuse of 'Expert Evidence.' Gertrude Atherton tells of the opposition of the Danish people to parting with their West-Indian islands. A feature of unique interest is a posthumous exposition by the late Prof. Schenck, of Vienna, of his theory of 'The Mechanical Development of Sex.'

Ladies And Gentlemen. We draw special attention to the visit of Prof. Hornswood to Kingston, who will be at B. A. Hotel, Thursday, October 5th, with a large selection of samples, styles in hair goods, such as ladies' and gent's wigs, toupes, bangs, long switches, etc. His hair coverings are worn everywhere, and the satisfaction obtained by those who adopt them, appearance. Don't miss this chance. Investigate the art hair coverings manufactured by Prof. Hornswood, whose skill in this line is world-renowned. They are feather weight, are easily adjusted, durable, and give a great protection to the head against cold, catarrh and other ailments, and give a much younger appearance.

THEY CLOSE TO-NIGHT. The Last Performance by Marks Bros' Company.

Victoria theatre was packed to its utmost capacity last evening, and many were unable to gain admittance. The Marks Bros' company are gaining in popularity. 'An Exile of Erin' was the bill presented, and was performed in a manner that stamped the company as artists. The play was well staged and every character was cleverly portrayed. The Irish character of the ladies and gentlemen in the role was very marked and the several scenes delineated were Irish in the extreme. Ernie Marks did his part cleverly and he was ably assisted by Helene Hucks and Dora Mitchell. The other members in the cast also did in a great measure to the success of the performance. The specialties were amusing and were warmly applauded. The company deserves a bumper house at to-night's performance, the closing one of the series.
