IN COAL MINES LIFE THERE AS SEEN BY FRANK NORRIS

Conditions Vary—Many Miners Comfortable, Others Wretched—Some of Them Earn $150 a Month.

Frank Norris, the author of "The Octopus," continues to everybody's Magazine for September a study of the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania in strike time, which is of unusual interest just now.

And the ex-miner, who was my guide, told me, if you please, that for the most part these down-trodden ones own two or three and let them out at fifteen, eighteen and twenty dollars the month.

But no doubt this class of miner must work double tides to reach and maintain this pitch of prosperity.

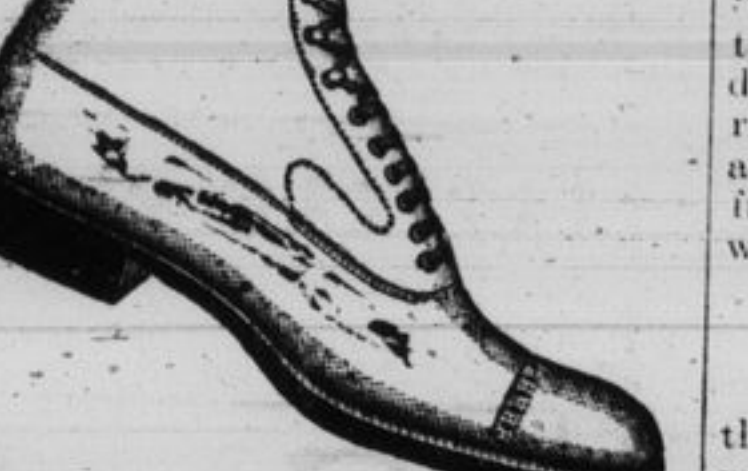

Work over at eleven o'clock in the morning after seven hours of drilling; $150 a month, free medical treatment in case of accident, fuel during the winter at a price ridiculously small, a good home free of mortgage, an assurance of steady work—and yet a strike of almost unprecedented magnitude.

Into the merits of miner versus operator, I will not enquire. The rights and wrongs of the Wilkesbarre collier are not under discussion here.

And chiefest among these latter stands forth the fact that the average coal miner in the Wilkesbarre country can earn at any one time about treble the amount of money per man per month that remunerates the work of many successful dramatists, most novelists, and all poets.

Just what is the direct, immediate, actual cause of the strike is not at all easy to determine. Each man is out to promote a different grievance.

Most, however, seem to unite in declaring that the cause as they come

BOXED HIS EARS

SERVIAN RULER AND HIS CONSORT QUARREL

He is Short of Funds, Says a Correspondent, and She Won't Lend Him Any—Her $400 a Month Pin Money Cut Off—Violent Scenes Before at Court.

Vienna, Oct. 10.—The Neues Wiener Tagblatt's Belgrade correspondent describes a renewal of the domestic amities of the Servian royal pair.

King Alexander, owing to financial difficulties, recently stopped Queen Draga's pin money, amounting to $400 a month.

Despite this the queen persisted in her refusal to lend him money. Instead she abused him coarsely, and revived the old accusation that he was carrying on a liaison with her younger sister, Helena.

Finally, the queen boxed her husband's ears and he, in trying to parry the blow, struck her violently on the arm.

GIRL DROWNS HER RIVAL. Pushed Another Girl Into River, Causing Death.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Rodella Bain has confessed that last Monday evening she pushed Gay Smith, her rival in the affections of Henry Nolan, into the Ohio river, thereby causing her death.

"I looked to see how far we were from the water," said the Bain girl. "I pushed her hard and she fell over and never screamed." The young woman is guarded by police.

KILLED IN DISPUTE. Whether it Was Rye or Bourbon.

New Orleans, Oct. 10.—Dr. G. R. Crawford, Leake, La., killed John Vickers, bartender at Hagan's saloon at Shreveport, over the question whether the whiskey served him was Bourbon or rye. Vickers insisted that it was rye, Crawford that it was Bourbon.

The Very Latest. The latest idea in cakes and the most skilled baking are to be found at T. H. Ferguson's, King street, Charlotte, N.C., chocolate eclairs, cream puffs—all filled with whipped cream.

An Enormous Moose Shot. Fredericton, N.B., Oct. 10.—One of the biggest moose ever shot in New Brunswick fell before the rifle of N. T. Deveraux, New Albany, Indiana, on the southwest shore of this week. It had an antler spread of sixty-three inches, with thirty-two points. Another moose with an antler spread of sixty inches was shot this week on the Tobique by a Boston sportsman.

A practical proof of the efficiency of the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been offered by the success of the new loan. This was put on the London market at much higher figures than the previous Japanese loan, and the subscriptions have been large and satisfactory.

The Hamilton longshoremen have decided to ask an increase of five cents a ton in their wages for unloading coal at the docks.

Expected To Retire. Washington, D.C., Oct. 10.—Justice Shiras to-day completes ten years' service on the supreme bench and thereby becomes eligible for retirement on his full salary of $10,000 a year.

Hats. Oak Hall. The style and price of your hat depends upon where you buy it. Come here, and you won't go wrong. Hats 1, $1.25, $1.50 and $2. The H. D. Bibby Co.

Other Side Of The Shield.

Then came Hazelton. The moment the town itself was left behind, the moment the creaking, rapid travelling buggy began to draw near the colliers, the sensation of a different atmosphere, of different conditions, of different ways and means and modes, and manners began to make itself felt with the distinctness of a whispered word behind the ear.
