Hard Times Experienced in the Far-Off Sister Colony-System of Finance Said to be Rotten to the Core.

New York Times.

t since the collapse of the bootn, which wrecked so many banks and other financial institutions, and reduced so many people from opulence to poverty, have times been so hard as they are now, writes a correspondent from Melbourne. Seven or eight seasons of successive drought in the arid regions of Australia have led to an enormous loss of stock, which will seriously affect this year's export of wool and frozen mutton. Locally, the immediate effect has been to increase the price of beef and mutton enormlously, and so many people are out of work that both articles of consumption have got beyond their reach. The unemployed can be counted by hundreds in all the cities and towns of the continent, especially in Victoria, South Australia, New South Wales, and Queensland. The cities of Adelaide, Melbourne, Sydney, and Brisbane, are full of able-bodied men who can find no work to do, and the whole outlook
