BIG NEW YORK.

GENERAL REVIEW OF THE WEEK'S EVENTS.

The Molineoux Trial-Cost of Big Dinners-Raids on Gambling Houses - Gay Scenes Gotham.

New York, Oct. 25 .- Any attempt to predict just now what the outcome of the election next month will be would be idle folly. It is certain, however, that the contesting parties are leaving nothing undone to win victory for their respective sides. Republican managers are trying to make political capital out of the fact that Mr. Coler, the democratic candidate for governor, is making no speeches, while their candidate is discussing the issues the campaign with people in every part of the state. They forget, however, that Governor Odell himself, in his first campaign for governor, did not go upon the stump. He made very few speeches indeed, and 'spent most of his time at work in the party headquarters. The speaking candidate has not always been the successful candidate, as shown in many a previous campaign in this and other states. On the other hand, in spite of fact that the strike is over, the publicans have hard work to offset the effect that it has had on the and the democrats are taking best possible advantage of their barassment. The two hundred fifty speakers put on the stump instructed on the way they are to present the issues to the people. Optimistic views of things must predominate. Special emphasis must be put on prosperity. The cause of the coal the efforts made by republicans to end and reference is frequently made to President Baer, of the Reading railroad, now popularly called "Divine Right Baer," as a democrat, to show

If there is an attendance of 500, the total outlay of this feast of commerce will be $25,000. There have been many private banquets held in New York which, in proportion to the number of guests, represented a greater cost, but only one public banquet. That was held nearly twenty years ago on the occasion of the Yorktown celebration. That was also given by the Chamber of Commerce and the assessment on each subscriber was $66. It must not be supposed that all this money is spent for food and wine; only a small part of it is. The great cost represents the expense of entertaining distinguished guests from abroad, the production of souvenir menus, memorial medals and the like. The coming dinner of the Chamber will be probably, the most notable in the long line of its banquets, but the dinner committee is not ready as vet to announce its pro-
