THE LATEST DESIGNS AS SEEN IN NEW YORK

To Be Well-Gowned This Season Requires Genius as Well as Money and Taste—Some of the Latest Gowns and How They are Made.

New York, Oct. 25.—To be well-gowned this season requires more than money and taste; it requires genius. Nothing short of genius will enable a woman to distinguish between the many wonderful gowns shown and select those whose style and beauty will remain proof against the changes of the season.

Never were the modes so changeable as now. Even the tailor-made gown which at the beginning of the season showed a few traces of the Eton effect is returning to this feature as a trimming and the profuse elaboration of advance-autumn frocks has given away to a simplicity almost girlish.

These youthful creations lose nothing in cost by their absence of ornamentation, however, for the few touches of trimming that are used are selected from patterns just novel and rare enough to bring them up to the required standard of luxury.

With musicals every afternoon and matinees sandwiched between the fashionable Gothamite finds herself particularly in need of afternoon frocks and separate bodices just now.

The eccentricities and caprices of fashion find expression to the full in the fancy bodices prepared for the season. The softest, sheeniest and most graceful fabrics are employed, because a material which does not lend itself to the draperies and folds of the day finds no favor with the ultra-smart women.

Some of the simplest waists have only a yoke and collar of lace laid over pale blue, cream of pink crepe de Chine and the effect is becoming indeed.

Others are trimmed with tucking, or bands of velvet ribbon, without any trace of lace. There is scarcely any design that holds its own better than the blouse. This is pretty when it assimilates with the rest of the dress or has it an accompanying jacket, but in vivid contrast to the skirt, the harsh junction line at the waist is anything but elegant.

There is creeping in a most unbecoming fashion of wearing a short jacket showing a full blouse beneath the waist and the sleeve ending above the elbow to the wrist. This idea is pretty for demi-toilette, but unsuitable for out-of-door wear.

A well-made gown of black and white tulle stands out in bold relief in such company. It is cut on the cross with soft flouncings at the hem, intermixed with pyramids of tiny tufts, headed by a wavy line of lace insertion, vandykes of the same lace appearing below and accompanied by a bolero with a cascaded flounce and a large cabbage bow on the front of the bodice.

A very dainty conceit for afternoon wear is an adjustable collar of brown silk cord passanterie and delicate rose chenille embroidery fastened with dangling ornaments and tassels. It is not an expensive detail and completely transforms a plain waist into a dressy bodice.

In point of service there is nothing to equal the tailor-made gown. Whether the material used in its development be expensive or not, if the dress is carried out upon artistic lines, it is approved for almost any occasion, certainly for any day function where strict formality is not required. Brown in all the darker shades stands in the forefront of fashionable autumn colorings. A smart tailor suit made in wood brown cloth with clinging effect attracted attention at a recent matinee.

The skirt was made with a yoke from which depended fine plaits. A panel, made of broderie Anglaise, worked in cream silk on brown tulle ran down the front from the belt to the bottom of the skirt. The plaits extended well over the belt, which was of creamy green tulle.

Cream cloth formed the collar on which there were several rows of the same colored green bebe ribbon. The sleeves began from the neck and at the elbow were very bouffant, the cuff being finished off in broderie Anglaise.

It may seem almost incredible, but it is nevertheless true that so much stress is laid upon the sleeve this season that it actually makes or mars a toilette. Its variety has never been equalled in the history of dress. There cannot really be said to be any change in the general outline, which is that the sleeve be tight fitting from shoulder to shoulder to elbow, where the graceful bagging begins, but this is the only feature of similarity.

The fulness of the sleeve is caught in at the wrist with a long or short cuff or gauntlet as the fancy chooses. All sleeves have a most coquettish air, and they are at the same time graceful and picturesque, becoming alike to stout and slender figures.

Black holds its own despite the furor for the season's new colors. A very chic princess gown in satin faced black cloth, and though absolutely plain and fitting the figure a merveille, it is of a cut that stamps it as Parisian of the highest order.

A lovely black silk and worsted braid almost covers the entire gown in a wide open device giving long lines to the front, and finishing at each side in triangles relieved by falling fringes of silk, the bodice braided en corselet, a bright touch given by the glint of the gold galon collar and cuffs seen through the strands of fringe which encircle them.

There is a perfect craze on in Gotham for worsted embroideries, and it is wonderful what a style they impart to the simplest gown. But they require to be applied with the greatest taste and discretion. Oriental embroideries are also much in demand and the happy possessors of real Japanese and Chinese embroideries can not do better than have them arranged on their autumn gowns if they desire to be quite a la mode.

On gowns of cloth the Russian and Bulgarian embroideries are effective, while the new braids and galons are associated with tweeds and friezes. A dark blue-tweed was selected by one of New York's society matrons sailing for Europe recently. The skirt had a flounce sun-ray plaited at intervals, the upper part fitting closely in pipled bands. The quaint bodice was arranged in folds slashed up on each side over a bright silk tartan and strappings of narrow velvet, the tartan and strappings of narrow velvet, the tartan at the back finishing in two long sash ends, a black chenille tie dropping from the throat. Over this gown was worn a dark blue travelling coat, its deep turn-over collar and revers of white cloth braid and tassels.

As the season advances wraps of all kinds grow prettier and seem to take on the elaboration eliminated from gowns. At the theatres, some extremely rich confections are seen. One particularly chic has the top part composed of heavy Irish lace, representing a hood, and where it falls over the shoulders there is a band of sable. From the shoulders depends a plaiting of rose velvet and this opens over two narrow ruffles of mousseline outlined in sable. The low collar is of sable, fur tails finishing off the neck fastenings. The entire affair is built on a foundation of rose mousseline tucked and puffed, with a ruffle at the hem. Almost every wrap is trimmed with fur, and the more expensive the trimming, the smarter the wrap.

THE MODERN MOTHER Has Ways of Caring For Baby That Our Grandmothers Never Knew. Many, almost sacred traditions of the nursery have been cast aside by the up-to-date mother. Even the once essential cradle is now seldom found in the house blessed by baby's presence.

The modern baby is not fed every time he cries, but when the clock announces the proper time. The doctor approves of this and baby is better for it, but despite regular hours for feeding, nearly all the disorders of infants are caused by derangements of the stomach and bowels. Mothers' greatest problem is a treatment for these ills that will be gentle but effective, and above all safe.

Mrs. J. W. Bailey, of Head Lake, Ont., writes from the fullness of experience when she says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my six months' old baby who was troubled with indigestion. The results were beyond my expectations. Words cannot convey to those who have not tried them the worth of these Tablets. I will never again buy any other preparation for the baby, as I am convinced there is nothing so good as Baby's Own Tablets."

These Tablets are a gentle laxative and comforting medicine for infants and children. They are pleasant to take and are guaranteed to contain no opiate. If your druggist does not keep Baby's Own Tablets send 25 cents to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y., and a full sized box will be mailed, post paid, to your address.

Bear Has the Photograph Habit. Denver Post. Bears have exhibited many strange characteristics, many of which have been described by persons who are intimate with them in his native lair, but State Game Warden Harris, through Deputy Warden James Bush, has found a bear in Koutt county that is vain of his appearance. He is a silver tip, too, but he is quite tame, and never strays from the property of Elliott Hawarden, the strange hermit who refuses to allow any one to harm any of the wild animals that live on the two sections he owns.

This particular bear has had his picture taken so often says Warden Bush, that he knows just what is required of him, and tourists who stop at the Hawarden ranch have only to find Old Graybull to get a first-class bear picture. The old fellow steps short and poses whenever he sees a camera pointed at him.

No one knows just how old this bear is, but Warden Bush declares he is at least old enough to vote. By associating with some dogs a few years ago he caught the mange. Hawarden during that same season was obliged to feed him to keep him from starving to death, and at length he became "so tame" he would come right up to the cabin door. While the brain was eating the old man sprinkled him with fluid which is a cure for mange and the bear has ever since been most grateful for his cure.

The Golden Rule. The true rule in business is to guard and do by the things of others as they do by their own.—Hindoo. He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.—Egyptian.

Do as you would be done by.—Persian. One should seek for others the happiness one desires for oneself.—Buddhist.

What you would not wish done to yourself, do not unto others.—Chinese. Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself dislikes to be treated.—Mohammedan.

Do not do to a neighbor what you would take ill from him.—Greek. The law imprinted on the hearts of all men, is to love the members of society as themselves.—Roman.

Whatever you do not wish your neighbor to do to you, do not do to him.—This is the whole law, the rest is a mere exposition of it.—Jewish. All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.—Christian.

To Snuff Volcanoes. Volcanoes can easily be extinguished, a native of New Zealand claims, and there are many persons in Sydney who agree with him. A Maori this man is, and he says that after many experiments he has at last discovered a liquid by means of which volcanoes can quickly be extinguished.

He intends to offer his services to the government of New Zealand, as well as to other countries which are afflicted with volcanoes, and the only question is whether he will be able to obtain the price which he wants for his alleged discovery.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—His Excellency the Governor-General returned this week from a visit to Dr. and Mrs. Seward at the Shelbourne Farm. He was accompanied by Lady into, Lady Eileen Elliott, Capt. Bell and Mr. Guise. The matter of the Montreal visit is still in abeyance. Several other short visits are also spoken of, but no plans have been given to the public as yet.

Lady Henry Somerset, who will be the chief speaker at the Provincial W.C.T.U. convention in Toronto next week, belongs to one of the most illustrious of England's noble families. One of her ancestors, Lord Somers, was chancellor of the exchequer in the reign of William III., and was one of those who had most to do with the establishment of the Protestant succession. Her great grandmother was maid of honor to Marie Antoinette; her sister is the Duchess of Bedford, and her only child the prospective heir to the great dukedom of Beaufort, descending in a direct line from the Plantagenets. Lady Henry's mother, the Countess of Somers, was granddaughter to the French Grande Dauphin, and her picture, painted by Watts, was so beautiful that Lord Somers fell in love with it, and sought the acquaintance, and ultimately the hand, of the original. This French strain in her blood is very marked in Lady Henry Somerset, and coupled with a decided dramatic gift, it enabled her once to visit her own castle of Eastnor as the Duchesse de Montmorency and to receive the oldest servants. Eastnor is Lady Henry's favorite residence and is one of the finest show places in England, being out-ranked, it is said, only by Warwick and Chatsworth. The estate comprises twenty-five thousand acres of land, and Lady Henry owns besides, the town of Rigall with another beautiful residence, and property in London upon which 900 people live.

Ottawa lady tennis players at a meeting this week organized into a club which will be in affiliation with the Ottawa Lawn Tennis Club, and will assist the gentlemen in raising funds for the purchase of their tennis grounds, which they purpose to erect and beautify, and for the erection of a new and larger club house. The Ottawa Ladies' Tennis Club has for its honorary president, the wife of the premier, and for its president, Mrs. Montzambert. The other officers and the committee are prominent society women, who are determined to be of much assistance to the older club. The two clubs are combining in the first efforts to increase the funds, a ball to be given in the racquet court on Halloween. The list of patronesses is composed of Lady Laurier, Mrs. Montzambert, Mrs. Clifford Swift, Mrs. Warren Y. Soper, Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mrs. S. H. Fleming, Mrs. J. W. Wood and Mrs. Echlin.

Mrs. Hoodless, of Hamilton, was in Ottawa this week, for the purpose of conferring with Dr. MacCabe and Miss Bessie Livingstone of the Normal School, in regard to the equipment of a model practice kitchen in the institution. The provincial government proposes to spend $600 on this kitchen, and Mrs. Hoodless acted as the representative of the minister of education, in visiting the capital. During her stay Mrs. Hoodless said to an interviewer that the new building which is being built and equipped in connection with the Guelph Agricultural College, would be opened next September, and that the Hamilton School of Domestic Science would then be merged in the former institution.

This new Macdonald school, Mrs. Hoodless said, will be the finest thing of the kind on the continent, and will include, besides a normal course in domestic science and art for teachers, a special course for farmers' daughters, and courses in nature study and manual training. The teachers' domestic science course will cover one year for Normal School graduates and two years for those who have had no such training. It is hoped that arrangements may be made, by scholarship or other means, to assist coming women of limited means to take the training. A residence in connection with the college will provide accommodation for one hundred women students.

The result of the "jam scheme," originated in Ottawa this year through the efforts of Miss Nicholson, a sister of Lady Ritchie, has been awaited with much interest, as on the success of the experiment depended its adoption as an annual arrangement for supplying the city hospitals with preserved fruit. Through the women's societies of the various Protestant churches, each family was asked to contribute one pot, only, of jam, the contribution to be divided among the hospitals, in proportion to the daily average of patients and nurses. The collections which were received and divided this week, amounted to nearly twelve hundred pots.

A little Iroquois girl by the name of Kahentawake is coming to Ottawa from the St. Regis reserve, to sing at a concert to be given on Oct. 29th, in aid of the Catholic Indian Association. The child is said to have a remarkable voice and she certainly rejoices in a very pretty name, for Kahentawake, being interpreted, means "a field of grass waving," the motion of the grass being indicated by the syllable "waks" which is a frequent termination of Iroquois names. Another protege of the Indian association, who is now preparing to be a nurse and who will probably be the first Indian girl in Canada to enter that profession, bears the name of Katseslawaks, which is translated as "A bouquet of flowers shaking." After hearing those beautiful names, one is rather startled and somewhat disappointed to learn the prosaic significations of other Indian appellations. Kaientawake for instance, which is the name of another intending nurse, a cousin of Oronohatbekas, is translated as "a man's shirt being around," and seems quite unsuited to the clever and interesting young girl who bears it.

Eczema Cured by Ozone. Mrs. Ellen Smith of Montreal, was a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. She was tortured so severely at times she contemplated putting an end to her existence. Thanks to Powley's Liquefied Ozone, she did not do so because it cured her completely and for all time. Mrs. Ellen Smith Writes: "Having been greatly benefited by Powley's Liquefied Ozone, I feel it my duty to allow it to be known to the public at large. I had been a fearful sufferer from eczema for many years. The disease centered in both limbs, below the knees. The left especially, was swollen to alarming dimensions, while the inflammation, irritation, and hard, scaly condition, induced a degree of suffering which only the mercy of God prevented me from ending in suicide. I spent the best of three years on my back, besides different periods in three hospitals. Then at home I could not go as far as the next room without the aid of crutches, and altogether my case was considered past-hope, for I had had the best skill in the country to no purpose. I have now used five bottles of Ozone, and I rejoice to say that both limbs are reduced to their normal size, the burning is entirely gone, and I can walk alone with perfect ease, although I am now sixty years of age. The Ozone also cured an advanced stage of liver disorder, and I am willing at all times to tell my experience to other sufferers." (Signed) MRS. ELLEN SMITH, 31 St. Andre Street, Montreal. The Rev. J. Frederick Renaud's Corroboration. "To Whom it May Concern: I beg to state that I have known Ellen Smith for over twenty years, and for the past nine years she has suffered from a running sore but was unable to obtain any permanent relief until she tried Powley's Liquefied Ozone, to the beneficial effect of which she bears most grateful testimony." (Signed) REV. J. FREDERICK RENAUD, 82 St. Herbert Street, Montreal, P. Q. There is no other way of proving the value of a preparation, so valuable, so positive, than by investigating the statements made about it and finding out if the facts are just as they are represented. We always solicit the freest possible investigation of the claims we make for Ozone, and to widen the scope of such an undertaking by you, we suggest that you make enquiries of your druggist. Oftentimes cases come under his notice that he can refer you to. As these cases may not have had our attention, you will get an absolutely unbiased opinion of this great drugless preparation—Powley's Liquefied Ozone. 50c. and $1.00 a Bottle, at all Druggists. CURIOSITIES OF DIVORCE Are More Divorced Women Than Men. There are 30,000 more divorced women than there are divorced men in the United States, the official figures being 119,000 divorced men and 111,000 divorced women. The disparity is accounted for by the fact that men procuring divorces or from whom divorces have been procured more often remarry than the women under the conditions. The number of divorced men is largest in Indiana, which has 5,700. There are more than 4,000 each in California, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, New York and Pennsylvania. Texas has 3,500 and Massachusetts 2,500. South Carolina, the only state which has no law authorizing or permitting divorces, has 275 divorced men among its residents, and South Dakota, a state which has become noted by reason of the facility with which divorce is granted, has 563. New Jersey has, proportionately, a very small number, 750, and Kansas, a much smaller state in population, a much larger number, 2,165. In Utah, where plural marriages were the rule among the Mormons until recent years, the number of divorced persons is 335, a little below the average, and Idaho, with about half the population of Utah, and a considerable proportion of Mormons, has 400. The state in which there is the largest number of divorced women (not divorced and not remarried) is Ohio, with 7,700; Illinois has 7,600, and Texas 5,800. After Texas comes New York, and then Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, Massachusetts and California. All these have more than 4,000 each. In some of the southern states, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina and Tennessee among them, the number of divorced women is twice as large as the number of divorced men. In Alaska there are more divorced women than divorced men; in Hawaii there are more divorced men than divorced women. Indiana, with a population 300,000 less than Massachusetts, has 12,900 divorced persons, and Massachusetts has 5,000. Many of the wealthy men owe the success to the competency of his subordinates.
