congratulate ourselves that his noble spirit still remains to influence our lives and enlarge our hopes? If in his absence we find the university face to face with grave difficulties, let us recall his hopeful spirit and follow the example he always set us? Let us be patient and let our patience be combined with faith.

The chancellor then spoke of the close relationship which had existed for nearly forty years between himself and Dr. Grant, and concluded by declaring the stone to be well and truly laid.

The inscription upon the stone is in these simple words:—'This stone was laid by Sir Sanford Fleming, K.C., M.G., Chancellor of Queen's University, Nov. 6th, 1902.'

At half-past two o'clock the memorial service began. The convocation hall was draped in black as was also the oil portrait of the late principal, on the wall behind the platform. The hall was crowded when the academic procession entered, and proceeded to the main aisle to the platform. The chancellor presided. Besides the senate, and other university bodies, the following were chiefly noticed:—Bishop Mills; Rev. Dr. Cannon, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Campbell, Montreal; Rev. Dr. Wardrobe, Guelph; Rev. Dr. McTavish, moderator of the Kingston Presbytery; Rev. Dr. Campbell, Renfrew; Rev. R. Laird, Brockville; Rev. W. W. Peck, Nanaimo; Dr. Douglas, New York; Dr. Moore, Brockville; Dr. Drummond, Toronto; Rev. Dr. McTavish, representing Knox College, Toronto; Rev. Prof. Welton, representing McMaster University, Toronto; Archdeacon Carey, representing Trinity University, Toronto; Prof. Herrington, representing McGill, Montreal; Hon. William Hart, M.P.; Edw. J. B. Pense, M.P.; Rev. C. L. Starr, Canon MacMorine, Rev. E. Crummy, Mayor Shaw, and members of the city council.

Rev. Prof. Ross, Montreal. After prayer and reading of the twenty-third psalm, by the chaplain, Rev. Prof. Jordan, and the singing of 'Rock of Ages,' Rev. Prof. Ross, of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, delivered the first of the memorial addresses. He said he believed it was as one who sat under Principal Grant and as a member of the first class who graduated after his appointment as principal that he had been asked to speak. The first flush of grief had passed, yet they remembered him with a vividness which was painful. It seemed strange to meet there without him. Yet he dared say it seemed to many present that his spirit still hovered around the scenes of his trials and his triumphs.

After an analysis of the late principal's career, Dr. Ross said, perhaps the first thing that impressed a stranger about him was his consummate mastery of speech. He was an able and inspiring conversationalist, and it was an education to travel with him, to hear his keen characterization of men and measures, or to hear him discuss an original scheme with some specialist in political science or literature. As a preacher he was sought for far and near. His oratory was not of the retorted grandiloquent type, but of simple language, bearing a timely and original truth in a terse and emphatic way. It was however, as a debater, that the real force and originality of the speaker appeared. Principal Grant's originality was especially manifested in the classroom, where he lightened the tedium of the work with apt illustrations and encouraged the students to break from the conventional replies to questions. He was a man of strong likes and dislikes, and it was not always easy to see upon what qualities his preferences were based. He was candid, and on any and every matter, failures in duty, neglect of opportunities, were pressed home upon heart and conscience with great straightforwardness and honesty. His powers as an administrator were such that he might have won astonishing success in almost any department of mental activity; but his real greatness was shown in the position of principal of Queen's, where, with intensity of spirit and indomitable energy, he flung himself into the work, and no doubt it was that intense activity which sapped the foundations of his vitality at a comparatively early age.

Of Dr. Grant as a patriot, Dr. Ross said: "He was the most distinctive Canadian whom many of us ever knew, the most characteristic embodiment of the new national spirit, that of self-reliance and independence, which has grown up in this land in the last few years. With the growth of this new nationalism he had not a little to do, because it was the reflection of his own spirituality. He loved this land not for what he or others could make out of it but for this, that it furnished a new arena for the development of individual character. He regarded it as the last clear field given by a beneficent Creator in which the children of man could have scope untrammelled by ancient institutions to work out the best ideas in the experience of the past. On the cultivated skin on fire with eczema. Mr. McDougall was for twelve years a dreadful sufferer—now proclaims the virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Exema's itch is torture, the skin sears on fire with the burning, stinging humor; at times it becomes almost unbearable, and in desperation, you could tear the skin to pieces. You dare not exercise for fear of aggravating the itching, neither can you sleep, for no sooner does the body become warm than the trouble begins, and instead of restful, refreshing sleep, it is scratch, scratch, scratch all night long. There is scarcely a moment's respite from this maddening malady at any time. Of course you have tried nearly all the washes, salves, lotions, and medicated soaps, but like thousands of others have been disappointed and disgusted.

Alex. McDougall, postmaster, Front Cove Marsh, N.S., writes: "For twelve years I was a great sufferer from eczema on the inside of the leg. There was a raw patch of flesh about three inches square, and the itching was something fearful. One hallo of Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me, took away the itching, and healed up the sore. I have no hesitation in recommending it as a wonderful cure for itching skin disease." You may be sceptical regarding the ability of Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure you. Most people are, after trying in vain to get relief from a host of remedies, but Dr. Chase's Ointment will not disappoint you. You will be surprised at the marvellous control which it has over all itching, burning inflammation of the skin, and the healing powers which it possesses. It takes time to thoroughly cure you, but Dr. Chase's Ointment will do it. You will find relief after a few applications, and gradually and naturally the cure will follow. Besides being a positive cure for eczema, Dr. Chase's Ointment comes useful in a hundred ways in every home for every form of skin irritation and eruption, chapped skin, and chilblains. W. C. T. U. MEETS REPORT OF TORONTO CONVENTION READ.

Mrs. Macallum's Summary Very Satisfactory—The Reports Submitted Were Interesting—The President's Remarks. The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held Thursday afternoon, about thirty members being present. Mrs. Macallum, president, occupied the chair. She took as the basis of a few remarks, Esther iv, 11-17, dwelling briefly on the noble stand taken by Queen Esther, she being willing to suffer death herself rather than have her people suffer at the hands of their enemies. Such decision as hers is needed by all who hope to be victors, when they know their cause to be a righteous one, and for the good of humanity. Mrs. Sparks and Mrs. King led in prayer.

It was decided that during November a prayer meeting be held every Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the old collegiate building. There will be a children's rally in the City Hall Sunday afternoon at the close of the Sunday schools.

The educational half hour was taken up with reports of convention. Mrs. Macallum said that it was not an easy matter to condense the work of four busy days into a short half hour, but she did it very much to the satisfaction of all present. This convention has surpassed all others held in Ontario as regards the numbers in attendance and the interest manifested. There were nearly 300 delegates, and crowded meetings at most of the sessions. The reports of departments were intensely interesting, and she could only touch on a few of the more important very briefly. The reports of work among soldiers, sailors, Africans, Indians, and negroes, were deeply interesting. The press superintendent, Mrs. Emma Waterson, spoke of the immense importance of the press as a factor whose influence was so vast and far-reaching as to be beyond estimate. After speaking of the invariable courtesy of all those connected with the press, with whom she had any intercourse, and thanking them for their kindness, she asked that the W.C.T.U. pray that wisdom be given them to fulfill the high mission which is theirs.

A conference was held on the cigarette question, and it was decided that petitions be sent in during the next session of parliament, asking for increased legislation in this connection. The lumber camp work was especially interesting as the missionaries told of the work done by them in Muskoka and Algonquin. Mr. Leckie spoke also of the good done through the comfort bugs sent and wished that there had been more, and that every one contained a letter, for the camps are so numerous that he cannot visit them all. Miss Sproule told of the many miles she had walked, and the difficulties of her work in sparsely settled districts, but she was amply repaid by the interest taken in the meetings. Those who formerly looked upon her with suspicion, now gladly welcomed her and looked forward to her coming. The president's address was a stirring one. Mrs. Macallum said. The evening meetings were very largely attended. Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Howard being the chief speakers. The prize banner for the union, which had made the greatest progress during the year, was awarded to Bruce county. The crowning event of the convention was the reception of the world's president, Lady Henry Somerset, who arrived in Toronto on Friday evening, 30th. Her address, Friday evening, was grand. Her tribute to the late Miss Frances Willard was very touching. Several committees were formed for distribution of literature during the coming month, after which the meeting closed.—COM.

QUEEN'S TRUSTEES. Committee Appointed to Consider Principalship.

Queen's trustees held a special meeting on Thursday evening. This resolution was adopted: "That the board of trustees heartily congratulate the chancellor on the completion of the Pacific cable. With this they connect the expression of their thankfulness for the fact of his having been enabled in so many ways to render service to the country, and they hope that for years yet, Canada may enjoy the benefit of his valuable counsel and efficient aid." Assistant professor Nicholson was made professor of philology and Sanscrit. Rev. Mr. Nicholson has been one of Queen's most efficient and faithful teachers for years, and well deserves the advancement.

Prof. Dupuis was appointed to act as vice-principal during the absence of Prof. Watson. Rev. Dr. Thompson, Sarnia, was appointed to give a course of lectures to the theology students next January on homiletics. Regarding the principalship, it was decided to appoint a committee to fully enquire into and consider this most important matter. The committee consists of the chancellor, Justice Maclellan, Rev. Dr. Herridge, Rev. J. Maclellan and Dr. R. V. Rogers.

It is understood that a letter was received from Rev. Dr. Patterson, of Aberdeen, declining to allow his name to be submitted.

Thinks He Has a Right. E. L. Coran, the manufacturer of name brooches, who is selling his goods at a Princess street drug store, visited the city clerk's office to-day to see if the by-laws compelled him to take out a license. He says not, as he does not pay rent, manufacturers all buy out goods and sell only his own handwork. He is a native of St. John, N.B., and his aged mother is with him here. The local jewellers complained to the city commissioner, that Coran was selling goods without a license. A police constable was dispatched to investigate the case, but his report has not yet been submitted. It is such a small matter, that it is unlikely any trouble will result.

What Scott's Emulsion Really Is.

The essence of nourishment—a predigested food. A condensed fat made palatable and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. The first food a baby receives, mother's milk, is an emulsion. Scott's Emulsion is the milk or cream of cod liver oil, and contains the elements needed to supply the nourishment that may be lacking in a mother's milk.

If a baby is fat it is comfortable and happy; a thin, scrawny baby is never quite well, never thoroughly comfortable. Its ordinary food may not contain the right nourishment. For such a baby Scott's Emulsion is intended. It supplies the needed nourishment as well as heat and fat; it makes babies comfortable. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion contains the elements that possess in the highest degree the principles of nourishment.

Cod liver oil has for years been known as one of the greatest foods in the world. It stands at the head of the list as containing, in a given quantity, the most nourishment of any food. But cod liver oil in its raw state is repulsive. Weak stomachs cannot retain it; delicate tastes rebel against it.

It was to overcome these objections and still retain the full value of the oil that Scott's Emulsion was introduced. But it does more than offer the full strength of cod liver oil in a palatable form. It combines with the oil other splendid ingredients—hypophosphites of lime and soda and glycerine. The proper and perfect combination of these, found only in Scott's Emulsion, represents a most valuable food-medicine.

The mission of the oil is to stop waste, supply the loss of flesh and furnish nourishment; the hypophosphites feed and sustain the nerve tissues and nerve centers besides stimulating the action of the blood; the glycerine furnishes bone material and marrow, upon which latter the blood depends.

How are these results secured? By the easy action and mild progress of Scott's Emulsion through the body. Being partly digested it does not tax the stomach; being perfectly blended it is quickly and easily assimilated, that is, distributed with exact regard for the particular need of each part of the body.

On every package of the genuine Scott's Emulsion there is a trade mark label of a man with a fish on his back. We will send a sample free to anyone on request.
