TALK OF GREAT WORKS.

La Patrie is not enamoured of the scheme of continuing the Intercolonial railway across the continent, as Hon. Mr. Blair has suggested.

La Patrie wants to see a return for all the money spent in transportation facilities. It did not talk like this when Mr. Tarte had charge of the public works department.

And yet it was only a year or so ago since Mr. Tarte got the transportation question on the brain, and was enthusiastic over the French River route, the adoption of which meant perhaps a hundred millions if not more.

The Intercolonial is not going across the continent just yet, but it is quite as feasible a scheme as the French River route and the canal construction which it entails.

ADVERTISING THEIR HYPOCRISY.

The conservatives of Ward Two, Toronto, had what is called a symposium the other day. The occasion was the annual election of officers, and it began with some expressions of mutual admiration.

The notable addresses were delivered by Mr. Northrup, M.P., of Belleville, and Dr. Pyne, M.P.P., of Toronto. Mr. Northrup flattered those who were present by referring to them as very superior persons, as so much better than their opponents.

It is hardly necessary to say that talk like this was neither prudent nor wise. Men may have different ideas as to the drift of public issues, and the best way of dealing with them, and still be respectful in their bearing. The science of government, and the study of it, do not suggest nor imply rowdiness, roughness and coarseness.

Dr. Pyne was equally unfortunate in his oration. It was on the subject of purity and he has made himself the laughing stock of the province by challenging the liberals to prove a thing against the conservative methods. With this challenge still ringing in their ears the electors proceeded to ballot for an officer, and there were twenty-eight improper votes cast.

Ward Two should have a few more meetings in order that it may advise the conservative tilters, as they deserve to be, among the biggest hypocrites in the land.

Mr. Northrup has not believed in reputation for courtesy and common sense by his last talk in Toronto. It is to be hoped the Queen City has something more to boast of than that it is the "quintessence of Toryism."

THE FACTS IN BRIEF. The publications of both the Imperial and Canadian governments, the blue books, have made it clear that preferential trade of any kind, on any basis, is not obtainable under present conditions.

It will be remembered that an attempt was made to rush Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the short session which preceded his departure for England. The enemy's plan was to commit him to some line of action or argument, and he contended for a free hand in the performance of his mission.

It appears that he and his colleagues at the Colonial Conference asked for a preference in favour of Canada on the levy of a war tax on bread stuffs—the first chance the imperial government had to show, practically, its sympathy with the Canadian preference—and the proposal was resisted by the colonial secretary, Hon. Mr. Chamberlain. It was then suggested that for some substantial recognition along this line, for what Sir Charles Tupper would call a quid pro quo, the Canadian government would propose a greater preference in customs duties in favour of British goods and manufactures, and again Mr. Chamberlain objected.

This revelation is disappointing in two ways. It is disappointing to the liberals of Canada in that it manifests a non-application of the Canadian preference as it exists. It is disappointing to the Tories in that it puts an end to the dream in which they indulged and to the effect that Britain would give the quid pro quo, in preference regulations, for the asking of it.

What may be done in this matter, when parliament meets, remains to be seen. What has been done, in another matter—the proposal to tax Canada for Britain's defence—will be endorsed by the people. If Hon. Mr. Chamberlain was firm on one point Sir Wilfrid was firm on the other, and the issue in any event is beyond doubt.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

Hill is credited by the New York Sun with killing Coler, politically, in New York State. Yes, Hill, with the presidential bee buzzing in his bonnet, did it.

Montreal has a redistribution scheme of its own, and it is causing a lot of trouble. It involves the wiping out of some representatives, and they are not inclined to self-government.

A Kingston paper refers to the increase in mileage of mails carried last year, as compared with the mileage in 1896, as 169,000. Sir William Mulock said it was 4,161,109 miles. A wonderful difference.

The Presbyterian church is leading in many things, and notably in its aggressive work among the missions and young people's societies. A problem in the east, which this church is dealing with, is the establishment of classes in which to train teachers for the Sunday school.

Is there any man in Canada who is patriotic and courageous in the estimation of the Toronto Telegram? Our contemporary has been so unkind generally, and sometimes so unfair, to our public men that one is left to wonder if there is anyone who can line up to its requirements.

A woman in New York asked the Commercial how she might learn to become a stock broker. The Commercial did not answer, but a reader, "one who has been there," advised her to drop her ambition. "Any woman or man," he writes, "who plays the stock market in margins is an idiot." Their name is Legion.

There is one thing certain as a result of Tuesday's vote in New York. Tammany is all powerful again. Under Mr. Murphy, the new leader, it has swept the city and is ready for business when the next election comes. It does not make much difference what party rules in New York. It disappears. The Low government has not fulfilled expectations.

A ROMANTIC STORY.

Wedding After Being Fifty Years Apart.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—After fifty years of separation a couple who were engaged to be married in their youth were united in their old age. This happened at Lynnhurst, a small village near Brockville. The groom was Jonathan Bullard, who has attained the age of seventy-four years, and the bride Mrs. Eliza Nillock, aged seventy years. The marriage was performed at the residence of the bride's son. The couple formerly lived in the township of Kitley, where fifty years ago they were engaged to be married but were separated through a disagreement. Then Bullard went out to Iowa, where he married and raised a family of nine children. His wife died four years ago and Bullard revisited the home of his childhood, where he found
