Sparrows And Earthworms.

"I noticed an article in the Whig last night," remarked a merchant this afternoon, "which referred to the scarcity of sparrows, in the city. I, too, have noticed that the great majority of these birds have disappeared. These little creatures are not fond of wet and muddy weather; they prefer to hop around on a snowbank. Perhaps their absence is only temporary and they may return with the coming of colder weather. I do not think that the disappearance can be taken as a sign of a severe winter. I notice that the earthworms in my yard are still coming to the top of the grounds, and that is an almost certain indication that mild weather will prevail for some time to come."

Intercolonial Manager Here.

D. Pottinger, general manager of the Intercolonial railway, arrived in the city by private car over the K. & P. railway this morning. He visited the locomotive works in connection with the engines being built there for his road. This afternoon, he left by G. T. R. for Montreal.

A Successful Supper—Married in Kingston.

Battersea, Nov. 18.—The turkey supper and concert, given by the Methodist church on Friday night, in the anniversary of the opening of the new parsonage, was quite successful. The tables were set at the parsonage and tastefully and beautifully arranged. Afterwards an adjournment was made to the church, where J. B. McKay, Kingston, together with Samuel Anglin and Mr. Karater, Queen's College, furnished a good programme. Besides having an enjoyable evening about $100 was realized to apply on the remaining parsonage debt.

A VETERAN ACTRESS.

Has Had Long and Varied Theatrical Career.

MRS. ANNIE YEAMANS.

New York, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Annie Yeamans, the veteran actress, who is playing a leading role at the Casino, today celebrated her sixty-seventh birthday, and the fifty-seventh year of her appearance on the stage. Her many friends in and out of the profession remembered the anniversary by arranging a benefit performance and at the matinee at the Casino to-day the venerable player found herself being roomed with floral tributes from her innumerable friends and admirers.

There are but one or two actresses of any note on the American stage, who are older than Mrs. Yeamans and none who have a longer, or more varied theatrical career. Born in the Isle of Man of Manx and Welsh parentage, she was taken when a baby to Australia and in that far-off land she made her stage debut. When still quite young she joined a circus and in the next few years went on a trip around the world with the show. When the circus stranded in Shanghai, Mrs. Yeamans got together a few of the performers and they toured all through the possible parts of China.

Subsequently she appeared in Singapore, Java and the chief cities of Japan. In 1868 she came to the United States and settled in New York. During her thirty odd years' residence in this country she has visited all the leading cities and been identified with many theatrical productions.

WANT A GRANT

To Help Defray Expenses of Quarantine.

On Wednesday afternoon, the county council received a deputation composed of Reeve Purly, Henry Meyer and John Martin, from the township of Kingston, who asked that the council give that municipality some compensation for the quarantine laid upon F. Gallagher's house last summer. It cost the township $365. The quarantine was a matter affecting the whole county. Reeve Purly pointed out that in a similar case at Sharbot Lake, the county council voted a larger sum to the township implicated. It was moved by Councillors Pillar and Sproule that a grant of $150 be made to the township. The warden ruled this out of order, as the matter had first to be considered by the finance committee. Councillor Pillar's motion that the matter be settled at once, was lost. The finance committee will deal with the question.

IS IT RIGHT?

LISTEN TO THE DICTATES OF CONSCIENCE

And Vote To Shut Up the Bar-Rooms—The Action Of The Presbyterian General Assembly.

Supplied by the Local Prohibition Committee. Let the prohibition movement be remembered in the prayer of those who attend the church prayer meetings this evening; and then vote as you pray.

Have the courage of your convictions; no one admires a coward. If you believe the bar-room is a curse, join the anti-bar-room crusade, and lend a helping hand. Cowardice asks, "Is it safe?" Expediency asks, "Is it politic?" Vanity asks, "Is it popular?" But conscience asks, "Is it right?"

Professor Goodfellow (Baptist) says: We have the same right to suppress the liquor traffic as we have the right to suppress any other evil. With the right to suppress has come the obligation to do so, and the opportunity to suppress will come on December 4th.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church has several times put itself on record in favor of prohibition. In 1896 it thus referred to the necessity of prohibition:

"That inasmuch as many are, through the influence of the liquor traffic, hardened to the appeals of the gospel and the arguments to the true interest of their fellow men, or the welfare of their country, it is necessary in order to protect the young, the weak and the unwary from intemperance and ruin, and to restrain the lawless, to invoke the aid of the law, so as to 'reduce, and, if possible, extinguish these evils by wise legislation.'"

"That whilst the restrictive and prohibitory features of existing liquor laws are gratefully acknowledged, it is the conviction of this assembly that no legislation short of prohibition, rigidly enforced by the proper civil authorities, will ever be sufficient to free our land from the terrible evils of intemperance, etc."

"We who believe in prohibition and the total suppression of the drink traffic, are sometimes called fanatics. What is fanaticism? Fanaticism is simply intense devotion to an unselfish ideal, and supposing that ideal to be the emancipation of your fellow-men from the most despotic tyranny that ever dominated the heart of man—such fanaticism ennobles and consecrates. Fanaticism elevates a man above the mere dust and drivel of ordinary existence, and that is why I believe fanaticism when it tells you that the reign of strong drink will be over soon."—D. Lloyd George, M.P.

Mr. Ferguson in Cooke's church on Thursday, and in City Hall Friday night.

St. Lawrence ward meets at anti-bar-room headquarters, corner Princess and Bagot streets, at seven o'clock to-night. Let every interested man report the "yes" voters that he knows of in this important ward. Councillors and Frontenac wards meet at headquarters to-morrow night. Rideau ward meets to-night on corner of University avenue and Princess streets, by order of J. A. Gardiner, chairman pro-tem.

AMUSING ACCOUNT.

The Romant of the City Hall.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Historical Society, Prof. Shortt gave a most amusing account of the early days of our city hall. It appears that in '41, when the seat of government was here, that it was thought advisable to erect buildings for the better accommodation of the legislature. No funds being available, the mayor of that time, to wit, John Coomber, was called on to negotiate a loan of $50,000, which he did at six per cent. This was put in the Commercial Bank, at two and a half per cent. It struck the worthy fathers of the city in time, however, that they weren't exactly coming money at this rate, and when the foundation of the building came to be laid in 1843, they decided to put the sum out again at five and a half per cent. Some more long-headed than their fellows were, struck at this juncture with a bright idea. "We are business men," they said, "capital is always a good thing to have in business; we'll just lend this money to ourselves. When this was called for, for building purposes, the worthy aldermen found themselves unable to pay up, so they borrowed some more at eight per cent., till the Commercial Bank would lend no more. They then issued paper money of their own, and when that was exhausted, they had dies made, and were going into the minting business. Unfortunately for them, Sir Charles Bagot got wind of this, and stopped the industry, and then the interesting part began. The Commercial Bank got excited over the issue of paper money, and its solicitor, a certain John A. Macdonald, who by this time had risen to a high eminence in the regard of the citizens, wrote a threatening letter to the finance committee of the council, which was received by himself as chairman of that body, and read by him with muchunction to his alarmed fellow-workers. People wondered what the outcome of this interesting situation might be, when two days later John A. sent in his resignation and became member for Kingston. It is needless to say that the old chiefnain got none of the money himself, but the most of those who did, left suddenly to pay a prolonged visit to cousins across the border, and left the City hall with its history and its debt.
