TREATMENT OF DISEASE.

The scourge of tuberculosis is being dealt with in a scientific way. The fact being established, to the satisfaction of every one, that the disease is infectious, that it can be spread by contact with the sufferers, the movement towards isolation is becoming general.

Every city should have its consumptives' ward, and every hospital its consumptives' ward. Toronto leads in its attempt to provide for the sick. It aims at erecting outside the limits—away from the dust and tumult of the city—a resort which will be gladly taken advantage of by many consumptives. Sometimes cures are effected by prompt and effective treatment.

The campaign of the New York Charity Organization Society is highly commended. Its representatives visit the poor, in the congested quarters, and instruct and educate them in regard to the disease. Only a general movement under scientific and competent direction, can secure the protection which is desired, and reduce the dreadful mortality from tuberculosis. The experience of France is suggestive of what can be done in any country where the people receive the education which they need.

MR. WHITNEY TALKS ROT.

Mr. Whitney disappointed his political friends at London. It was a great occasion, and he was expected to make a great speech. Instead of doing that he revived some of the old slanders. He repeated, and with all the unctious truthfulness, that an organized attempt had been made to destroy ballots in every polling subdivision in Ontario. He had no evidence of this and did not essay to prove it, and yet he offered the remark with all the assurance of one who was dealing with the facts. Strange that a man who believed this, who had any regard for political purity, would allow protest after protest against elections to be dropped without a word from him.

A POLITICAL WEATHERCOCK.

Donald Sutherland, representing one of the Oxford's, was the star attraction at the banquet which the conservatives gave to Mr. Whitney last week. "He filled a long-felt want," to use a homely phrase: The parties, as a result of the election, were nearly even in their strength. At one time, with the majority of one, Mr. Ross seemed to be in a helpless position. The accession of even one, at that time would have been a significant circumstance. Had the banquet occurred at this juncture, and Mr. Sutherland announced that he had been approached, there would have been a commotion. As it is, with the majority doubled, and the prospect that it will grow larger as the bye-elections take place, it is scouted and doubted.

Something more has happened. Mr. Sutherland has been called to account for his loose and senseless talk. He has been reminded that it comes badly enough from one who, in his anxiety to be elected, posed as an independent and canvassed liberal electors as one who thought very kindly of the liberal government. Under these circumstances it would not be remarkable if some of his supporters enquired what he was going to do when the political situation became intense. "When," says the Woodstock Sentinel Review. "Mr. Sutherland compares the Ross government to Tammany, he offers an insult to the liberal party, and belies the professions of independence and fairness which he made in order to secure liberal votes. Mr. Sutherland has surely been ill-advised in making this grave charge against the Ontario government and in heaping abuse on its friends. The evidence at the trial showed that he himself and two friends went to a hotel where the latter made most reprehensible efforts to influence the evidence of one of the witnesses. From a professedly independent candidate, Donald Sutherland, M.P.P., seems to have drifted very rapidly into an extreme and violent partizan. We confess that we did not expect it of him."

There is evidently some fun in store for Mr. Sutherland. At London, in the banquet hall, surrounded by applauding partizans, he was a great fellow, a conservative of the conservatives, the resenter of influence for his political conversion. In Oxford he was the independent whose efforts to please everybody had been attended with some performances which he did not desire to have discussed. His boasting will not do him any good.

A TIMELY LESSON.

The magistrate, by fining a couple of loiterers on Princess street, has taught a timely lesson. The law very emphatically forbids the obstruction of the walks. In the cities the people are kept in motion on the streets. A few may halt at the crossings while waiting for a car connection, but no one thinks of loitering for the pleasure there is in it. The practice has been too long tolerated in Kingston. Sunday has been desecrated by the scores that hang about the corners, to jest, to expectorate tobacco juice, and to indulge in doubtful language. The magistrate is determined to make an end of this, and so the police have been directed by their chief to carry out the law, to move all idle and unoccupied persons, and to summon to court those who persistently and defiantly transgress. The one lesson, that of Wednesday, should be sufficient. It was very timely, and it promises to be very effective.

EDITORIAL VIEWS.

Mrs. Roland B. Molinex is now in St. Louis, seeking a divorce from her husband. The grounds for it are not stated.

The old trouble is long experienced. Toronto, as a city, desired to purchase some hard coal at Buffalo, and the agents refused to sell it. Why not apply to the miners direct?

The Hamilton Herald says that "men are being ruined every day by attempting to get rich through the bucket shop." But the game is fascinating. They cannot resist it.

The peat that can be manufactured for $1.50 a ton, in Ontario ought to have a ready sale. In grades of a certain make it burns and glows much better than some brands of soft coal.

There is a danger of the best root sugar business being overdone. The Wallaceburg factory alone will make this season 10,000,000 lbs. It is one of the several factories which will be located in the west of Ontario.

The American locomotives that were purchased by the English government and sent to India have turned out badly. After only four years' service they have been sent to the repair shops. The experience is having its effects on American production.

Dr. Parker, of the City Temple, London, is laid aside by illness and may not preach again. He has ranked with Beecher as a pulpit attraction, but not as a philosopher. Like Beecher, too, he has filled a place peculiarly his own.

La Patrie says the people of Maisonneuve are likely to let Mr. Prefontaine be elected by acclamation, because he is protectionist in his ideas. Oh, no, not that. The conservatives propose to let him go in unopposed because they see the uselessness of objecting.

A conservative paper pictures the campaign now on as one which directly interests the liberals only. "Of course," it remarks, "there is nothing to prevent the conservatives taking part in the melee if they are inclined." So only the liberals are deeply interested in moral reforms? Is that it?

There is a general scarcity of cars, notwithstanding the large additions that are being made to the rolling stock. The Perth shops are turning out ten forty-ton cars a day, and the daily shortage is about three hundred. The trade is increasing faster than the facilities to meet it.

The Mail thinks the St. Louis corruptors who are going to jail, will be sorry that they did not operate in Ontario. Perhaps some of them did. Mr. Whitney is understood to have appealed to some of them for aid, and of course they responded. The torials had plenty of money in the last election.

An Asylum Abuse.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Hon. J. R. Stratton has drawn the attention of Attorney-General Gibson to an abuse which he thinks calls for special legislation. He asks that physicians throughout the province be made to exercise greater care in giving certificates in connection with the sending of persons to the various insane asylums. There have been recently discovered a number of cases where persons have been sent to the asylums who were not insane, and who were sent there only to relieve their friends, or the house of refuge, or some similar institution.

Alfred Labelle was formally nominated by the conservatives of Maisonneuve as their candidate for the commons in opposition to Hon. Raymond Prefontaine.

HIS REAL LIFE.

DIVORCED MAN STARTED A BETTER LIFE.

Winning Friendship of Former Wife and Her Second Husband—She Nursed Him in His Last Days—'Twas a Sad Drama.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 20.—Lee Bradley, whose remains were buried from the undertaking rooms of the Maul Davis company, was one of the principals in a singularly sad drama of life.

He was married at Grandview, Ill., eleven years ago, and with his wife removed to Omaha. For four years they lived together, during which time they became the parents of a daughter. Bradley fell a victim to the drink habit and Mrs. Bradley secured a divorce, and the custody of their child. A year later she was married to William Cameron, at present a member of the West minstrel troupe, playing in Washington. The marriage of his former wife prompted Bradley to a better life, and for many years he gave up the drink habit. During this time he was permitted to visit his daughter, who was making her home with her mother and Cameron.

During these visits he became acquainted with the present husband of Mrs. Bradley. The marriage of Mrs. Bradley to Cameron was a happy one, and she nursed him in his last days. It is also stated that the ship was in constant communication with Poldhu on the voyage out.

His wife. The two were congenial, and soon became good friends. Bradley's visits then became regular, and Cameron's visits to Bradley at the Thurston hotel, in this city, were just as numerous. Recently Bradley was taken sick, and with her husband's consent and on his advice, Mrs. Cameron moved with her daughter to the hotel to care for him. For days she tenderly nursed him, and as he grew worse she never left his bedside. She was with him when he breathed his last. Mrs. Cameron, with the consent of her husband, will leave for Grandview, the old home from which she and Bradley started out in life together eleven years ago, there to return the body to his relatives.

Speaking of Bradley, Mrs. Cameron said: "Since my marriage to Cameron Bradley has been a constant visitor at our home, and he had the confidence of myself and husband. The two were warm friends, and we three spent much time together. Since our divorce Bradley never, by word or action, referred to our married life, and at all times treated me with the utmost respect. In his death my husband and I have lost a good friend, one whom we both loved and admired."

LAND FOR VETERANS.

Preparing For a Large Influx Next Year.

Toronto, Nov. 20.—In speaking of the opening up of lands in New Ontario, Hon. E. J. Davis says in an interview—

"We will go into the surveying business in New Ontario on a hitherto unheard of scale next year, and probably thirty townships will be divided into lots. The people are coming in very fast now, owing to the efforts we have been putting forth in our colonization branch, and next year, with the veterans looking for their locations and with this new colonization company, it will be necessary to survey on a very extensive scale. Even though there are a great number of townships open at the present time, I am having a plan prepared showing where the surveying of so many townships may take place most satisfactorily, having regard to the quality of the land, the nearness to transportation facilities, and the timber licenses. We will send our men out just as soon as they can go into the bush in the spring."

It may not be realized what a large area the veterans will be spread over. The bill provides that not more than one lot in every four—that is, one in every square mile—shall be given a veteran. That is, there will be only thirty-six veterans in a township; 3,600 of them will spread over 100 townships, and the indications are that there will be almost twice 3,600. The lands to be sold through the new colonization company will be open to the veterans.

The trial races at Rochester early in the season will, it is announced, be thrown open to outside clubs, and Chicago which has been intimately associated with the Canada's cup throughout the history of that trophy, is planning to send a yacht to the Rochester contests which will be chosen challenger and race against the defending yacht at Toronto in August.

The Seawanhaka cup is the second trophy fixed upon.

CATSUP, NOT BLOOD.

Happy Ending to Supposed Attempt at Murder.

Chester, Pa., Nov. 20.—Intense excitement prevailed for a time at the little town of Lepperville, just outside of this city, by the report that a horrible tragedy had occurred in the home of William Connors, and that Mrs. Connors had been shot and killed.

The Connors family were at supper when there was a report, like a pistol, and Mrs. Connors sank from her chair to the floor, screaming, "I'm shot." In the excitement that followed a lamp was upset and darkness added to the confusion.

One of the members of the family hastened to the rectory of St. Rose of Lima church and summoned Rev. M. J. Rafferty, while Dr. Frank J. Evans and County Detective Berry, of this city, were also notified.

When the physician arrived at the house he made the discovery that instead of being covered with blood, Mrs. Connors was besmeared with catsup and the sorrow of the household was turned to joy. A bottle had exploded and part of the contents, together with a particle of flying glass, had struck the woman on the head. The shock was too much for her nerves.

RIVALRY PROVE TO BE SISTERS

Discovery Made in Paris Station After Arrest.

Paris, Nov. 20.—Louise Leprez met her lover with another girl on his arm, and in a fit of jealousy attacked her rival with a pair of scissors, stabbing her several times. Her sweet heart cleared out, and the two young women were taken to the lock-up.

When they gave their names to the commissioner it was discovered that they were sisters who had been separated for long years. They fell weeping into each other's arms, and subsequently discovering from the police records that the young man both admired was unworthy of their love, both abandoned him.

It seems that fifteen years ago the girls' father and mother decided to live apart, the father taking one daughter, Louise, with him, and the other taking the other daughter, Claire, with her. From that time the girls had not seen each other until their meeting on the street.

A Pleasant Social.

Godfrey, Nov. 18.—The lecture given in the Methodist church last Thursday night by Rev. Mr. Moore was not well attended owing to bad roads. The box social at the residence of Mrs. C. H. Godfrey last Friday night, in aid of the Presbyterian church, was a successful and pleasant event, the proceeds amounting to $12.

Much credit is due to Miss Godfrey as she fully sustained her reputation as an entertainer. T. J. Necey is loading a car of grain. R. A. Hamilton is also loading tan bark. F. Hamilton has returned from the North-West. Archibald Leslie has gone to Tichborne to take charge of the railroad section as foreman. Miss Emma Campsall has gone to Toronto for a few months.
