A LOST CORSET

SEPARATES MAN AND WIFE, THEN REUNITES THEM.

Stays Packed in a Traveling Man's Trunk Caused the Trouble—The Adventure of the Missing Article.

New York, Nov. 29.—Hidden away in a drawer filled with the innumerable treasures of her trousseau, Mrs. Robert Livingston Beekman, the beautiful daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Samuel Thomas, has a dream of a corset which was the innocent cause of bringing the one shadow into the life of a happy married Brooklyn couple, which almost resulted in the unbending of the marriage knot.

A few years ago Mrs. Beekman, who was then Miss Eleanor Thomas, set out with her maid for a trip to the far west. The pride of her travelling wardrobe was a corset made of the richest kind of silk and trimmed with lace.

After leaving Cincinnati, Miss Thomas missed the corset and called upon the maid for explanation. The maid said she was sure she had packed it. Inquiry was made of the hotel people, but it had not been seen. Miss Thomas always was anxious to solve the mystery of the corset's disappearance, and when her father, Gen. Samuel Thomas, went to Cincinnati a year later, she asked him to inquire further at the hotel about it. He did so.

The clerk eagerly said: "What do you know about that corset?" Gen. Thomas told him. The clerk looked dazed for a minute and then burst out: "Then you don't know that that corset has separated a most devoted couple, and that a lawyer is now here getting evidence upon which to base a separation suit."

Gen. Thomas was amazed and eagerly listened to the story of the adventures of the missing treasure. When Miss Thompson left her room at the hotel her maid had left the corset in the wardrobe. The next day a traveling man from Brooklyn occupied the room. He was suddenly called away, and left orders with the clerk to have his trunk packed with all his possessions in the room and sent to his Brooklyn home. A porter, coming across the corset, packed that so that when the young wife unpacked the trunk in Brooklyn the first thing that met her eyes was the corset.

Explanations "didn't go" with the wife. There was a quarrel and she went home to her mother.

When Mrs. Beekman learned of this she wrote to the wife, telling her who she was and how she had lost the corset. The wife was obliterated, and would not accept an explanation until Mrs. Beekman called on her a short time ago and convinced her of her husband's innocence. The couple are now reunited.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Prohibitionists Will Have a Big Rally.

From the Prohibition Committee. The S. S. children, who are day school children, who are invited, with their parents, especially their fathers, to the monster gathering in the City and Ontario halls, at 3:15 o'clock, on Sabbath, Messrs. Meek, Laird and Brown will give short addresses. Mr. Milroy, the blind hero of South Africa, will also speak.

The large prohibition chorus of children will also appear, and for the first time on a Sabbath, The Salvation Army band, etc., will also be in attendance. TRACED THE WOMAN.

Police Were Not Allowed to Bring Her Back.

The police found little difficulty in tracing the movements of the woman who deserted an infant on Montreal street, near the Grand Trunk Junction, Thursday night. She came from Brockville that afternoon and remained around the station until the local train went west about eight o'clock that night. Her actions were most suspicious, as railroad employees remarked to each other. She was seen walking in company with a respectably dressed man, while the infant was left unattended in the waiting room.

The conductor of the train on which she went west, remembered her very well, as she inquired as to what time the train would reach Marysville.

GEN. DON JOSE TORRAL Y VELASQUEZ.

According to Madrid advices he has become insane. General Torral was the military governor of the province of Santiago, Cuba, and negotiated the surrender of Santiago for Spain. He was a capable soldier and regarded as one of the best fighters in the Spanish army.

near Deseronto, and told him she would have to drive four miles from the station. She did not have a baby with her then. She left the train at Marysville.

The police are inclined to the belief that the provisions of the law are not what she had been employed by the well-dressed man to get rid of it. They could have had the girl in custody Friday afternoon, but the question of expense seemed greater than it was thought the city could stand, so the founding remains a ward of the municipality, while those guilty of deserting it go free.

After the Dog Owners.

Dog Bailiff Conley is determined that the provisions of the dog-by-law will be respected. He had summonses served on thirty citizens for harboring dogs without paying the customary license fee. They appeared at the police court this morning and some were fined $1 and ordered to take out the license; some cases were enlarged and judgment in others withheld. Bailiff Conley had two policemen, a city official and a county official on the list, but they "got wind" of what was coming and paid the license fee before being served with summonses.

"Arizona," Wednesday.

Augustus Thomas' best dramatic effort, "Arizona," is acknowledged the peer of all American plays of western military and ranch life. The scenic production and acting company presented by Kirke La Shelle are kept up to the top notch of perfection and a thoroughly enjoyable performance is always assured. "Arizona" is quite the best piece of melodramatic tendencies that has been placed before the public in years and its popularity is proof positive of its merit. At the Grand on Wednesday.

Kingstonian's Advancement.

Atlanta, Ga. Journal. R. T. Conley, manager of the local branch of the Pittsburg Plate Glass company for twelve months, has left, accompanied by his wife and son, for New York, where he will be in charge of the largest warehouse of the company.

The press has been lavish in its praise of the scenic equipment carried by this company, and taken altogether, one may expect an enjoyable performance.

Santa's New Address.

Letters to Santa Claus, that grand old post agent of little children, are beginning to be received in large numbers at the local post office. One little youngster has found a new address for Santa, and so she addressed her letter yesterday to "Mr. Santa Claus, Jerusalem." No doubt that address will find him.

AS TO PROHIBITION.

A Kansas Newspaper Points Out Some Peculiarities.

From the Anti-Prohibition Committee. The Atchison, Kansas, Daily Globe says:

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka, who has acquired some fame by his writing and sermons, is to go to Canada to assist the prohibition party there in securing prohibition in Canada. There is something about this that to the ordinary mind is incomprehensible. Kansas has prohibition, constitutional prohibition and has had it for twenty years and more and yet in the town where Rev. Mr. Sheldon lives and works and preaches there is a saloon on every corner and frequent by an extra one in the middle of the block. The prohibitory law is given no more heed than if such a thing had never been heard in Kansas. The saloons are as open as they are in any city in the land. With such evidence as this right at his own door does Mr. Sheldon undertake to say that prohibition prohibits or that it is a success? Will he tell the Canadians that it is a success in Canada? If he tells them it is a failure how can he urge them to adopt it. He can tell them, of course, that theoretically prohibition is a good and great thing which it is, but will he not have to tell them if he tells them the truth that practically it is a failure. It is as clear and distinctly local opinion as though it were designated that way in the constitution and the laws prohibition does not prohibit in any town or city where the sentiment is in favor of saloons. Saloons could not exist even without prohibition. The constitutional amendment and the laws relating to it are dead letters in all places where the sentiment is for license or for saloons. Will Mr. Sheldon tell his audience in Canada this indisputable truth and if he does how can he consistently urge them to adopt a law that he must admit is a failure here in his own home? If Mr. Sheldon is conscientious he must tell his hearers up in the north country what prohibition ought to do in Kansas not what it does do in Kansas.

Mark X Under Word No.

On December 14th next the people of the province of Ontario will be called upon to answer at the polls the question, "Are you in favor of bringing into force the liquor act, 1902?" and the people of the province will answer in no uncertain tone that they are in favor of no such a thing. They know if they are to make men sober they cannot do it by simply keeping the cause from their hands. They know that it is surely infinitely better to see a man kept straight by his strength of manhood than by mere legal power and they further know that that is the only way to keep a man straight. They know that the liquor act, if passed, would create an army of perjurors, smugglers and spies, and, further, could never be enforced, thus bringing about a disregard for the law, the effect of which would be terrible to even think about. Education, and not the passage of an impracticable liquor act, is the remedy for the drink evil. Educate the man; show him the folly of drinking to excess; show him his own power and by a complete system of education—teach him to use it. That is the solution of the drink question and not the enactment of a law that deprives him of a certain amount of personal liberty and that would be a blot on the statute book and disgrace to the country by reason of the fact that its provisions could never be enforced. The miserable failure of the Scott Act is still remembered. The liquor act is the same, only that it applies to the whole province. The experiences and bad results of the former, which led to its being repealed where ever passed, will be repeated in the event of the passage of the liquor act. This seems to be generally understood by thinking men the province over, and accordingly the question, "Are you in favor of bringing into force the liquor act, 1902?" will next Thursday be answered by an emphatic "NO."

Vote No.

Let every man work and work hard on election day and roll up a big "NO" vote.

Do not be deceived by over-confidence. You must work after you vote NO. WORK, WORK, WORK, that is the watchword.

If you have sufficient interest in the welfare of your country you must record your vote on December 14th and VOTE NO.

Consider! The province would lose an annual revenue of $700,000, and be put to an annual expenditure of at least $300,000 for the salaries of 100 local inspectors. The prohibitionists have failed to devise any method of providing for this deficit. They expect the public to pay for their hobby.

Vote No.

Rideau ward and scrutineers meet Saturday, 7:30 p.m., at L.H.P.A. committee rooms.

General meeting of License Holders, Monday, 3:30 p.m.

All ward chairmen and committees meet Monday, Dec. 1st, 8 p.m.
