

A CAUSE OF HEADACHE.

One Very Common Cause, Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom.

Headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head, and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of headaches and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the headaches.

There is at present no treatment for catarrh so convenient and effective as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new internal remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like red gum, blood root which act upon the blood, and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural channels.

Miss Cora Ainsley, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headaches and endorses Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered daily from severe frontal headache and pain in and back of the eyes, at times so intensely as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh, more or less for years, but never thought it was the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the case because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure and after using a few fifty cent boxes which I procured from my druggist's I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package, under the guarantee of the proprietors that they contain absolutely no cocaine (found in so many catarrh cures) no opium (so common in cheap cough cures) nor any harmful drug. They contain simply the wholesome antiseptics necessary to destroy and drive from the system the germs of catarrhal disease.

MILITARY BALL HELD IN THE ARMOURIES LAST NIGHT.

The Decorations were the Grandest Ever Seen Here—Four Hundred People were Present—A Night of Merry Making.

The first annual military ball given by the band of the 14th Regiment, Princess of Wales Own Rifles, took place in the armouries on Wednesday night, the attendance numbering four hundred. Never have such extensive decorations been seen in a ballroom here as those which draped the large drill hall. In all, 1,600 bannerettes and flags were used, besides crests, etc. Many of the bannerettes were those used by the city when the Prince of Wales visited Canada in 1859. They had been lost track of, but recently were discovered. The crests were painted in England, and were also used for the royal visit in 1860. To William Shea, the veteran bandsman, belongs the credit of the splendid arrangement of the myriads of colors.

Dancing began at half-past nine o'clock and continued till two o'clock in the morning. A strong orchestra of the 14th Regimental band furnished choice music. Prior to the dancing, the band gave a short concert. A large portion of the drill hall floor was laid over with canvas, and on this the merry throng tripped to the sweet dance music. In the rooms of the balconies, those more skilled with the hand than the foot enjoyed themselves at various games. Refreshments were served in the lecture hall from 11:30 o'clock, the caterer being W. J. Stinson, of the Delicatessen.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Arizona" Was Fully Equal to All Said About It.

There was a fair audience at the Grand Opera house last night to witness Kirke LaSalle's presentation of Augustus Thomas' powerful play, "Arizona," and they were not disappointed. It is a play that gathers interest as it unravels and intensifies up to the last word in act four when the curtain is rung down on the revelation of a wife beloved and the vindication of a true soldier. The drama is well balanced, save for the first act, which is somewhat flat and does not forecast the excellence of the play. One would not suspect from the title that it smacked of military life, but it had also its complement of western ranch life, ranchers and cowboys.

The play centres around a rich ranch owner named Henry Canby, who has two beautiful daughters, the elder being married to Col. Bonham, of the 11th United States cavalry. A designing captain in the same regiment had planned for their elopement, but was thwarted by a gallant lieutenant, true to his colonel, but who was caught in a compromising position through no fault of his, and allowed himself to be disgraced rather than implicate the colonel's wife. However, it is a positive pleasure to follow him until he clears himself of the stain and is rewarded by the hand of the younger daughter and is made half owner in the famous ranch. The scenery is from sketches made in Arizona, and the rooms shown in acts two and three are from actual rooms of the ranch and post.

Wedded Wednesday Evening.

A quiet wedding took place last evening at the home of Elijah Veale, Albert street, when his eldest daughter, Mary, was united in marriage to William George Pickering, street railway conductor, son of William H. Pickering, Rideau street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Douglas Laine, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of immediate friends of the contracting parties. The charming bride, becomingly attired, was attended by her sister, Edith, while the groom's wants were looked after by his brother, Thomas. The gifts to the bride were numerous and beautiful.

Kissing Must Remain.

"I object to carrying prohibition that far," remarked John McIntyre, K.C., when he read on the Whig bulletin board this morning that legislation was proposed in Virginia prohibiting kissing. "We will be satisfied in Ontario with the prohibition of the liquor traffic, but insist upon kissing remaining."

IMPERSONATORS ARRESTED.

Arrested at Instigation Of The Prohibitionists.

The prohibitionists conducted their part of the campaign to-day on up-to-date principles. In every polling booth they had blank warrants prepared, ready to be filled in with the names of would-be violators of the elections' act. They first found use for one of these at sub-division No. 3, Ontario ward, where they placed under arrest Edward Murphy, Wolfe Island, on a charge of attempting to personate W. J. Hutcheson, an absent voter. Constables Timmerman and Naylor were summoned by Alderman King and removed Murphy to the police cells.

A few minutes later Dr. Anglia drove to the police station and took constable Timmerman to sub-division No. 4, where William Burton had been placed under arrest for attempting to impersonate an absent voter named Randolph.

KEPT HER CHILDREN.

The Right Food Brought Them Back To Health.

Food purchased from curiosity saved the lives of two children in a family in Ullysses, Wis.

The mother says: "We had bought a package of Grape-Nuts, attracted by its pleasant, suggestive name, and found it a pleasant food. As my five months old baby liked it, I fed it to her and found it as satisfactory as—Baby Food, which I had been using and paying 50c. for a much smaller package."

Shortly after this, three of the children came down with the whooping cough, my oldest one was taken with pneumonia, and the little three-year-old strained her stomach in some manner, so that she vomited blood, and could not retain anything on her stomach. She continuously cried with hunger, and it was terrible to see her grow weaker and weaker, until she did not have strength to keep her eyes open. I was so overworked nursing all of them night and day that I finally woke up to the fact that a change must be wrought and that at once.

I shall always believe that divine inspiration whispered "Grape-Nuts." At first I did not give the solid part; I poured boiling water on it and let it stand until the water had drawn out some of the strength, and added some of the sweet cream, and gave the little one a few spoonfuls at a time. She kept it down and it nourished her, so that after a while I could feed her the Grape-Nuts themselves until she got stronger, and she is to-day as rugged as I could wish. Meanwhile, the oldest girl was unable to turn her head or swallow solid food, and for weeks her strength was kept up by Grape-Nuts softened in cream, given a spoonful at a time, until she got strong enough to take other food. They are both well and strong now, and I feel that I owe Grape-Nuts for two of my hearty, healthy children." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The list of fatalities in the United States rugby game reached fifteen this year, while 100 injuries, ranging from concussion of the brain to broken ribs, are recorded.

Dribbling seems to be one of the main features in the English rugby game. The Canadians will have to dribble in this, as in their game dribbling is seldom seen.

If required by the trustees to defend the Stanley hockey cup during the Eastern league season the Montreal club will forfeit the trophy, as there is a ridiculous rule prohibiting teams of the Eastern league playing any outside matches during the league season.

A meeting of the joint executives of Winnipeg Victorias and Roving Club hockey clubs, it was decided to withdraw from the Manitoba and North-West hockey association, and to form a new association, to be known as the Western Canada hockey association. This action has been taken by the Manitoba and North-West association has admitted the Rat Portage and Portage la Prairie teams to the senior series, without previous qualifications having been shown.

The Halifax Herald says of Saturday's All-Canada-Dalhousie game: "The collection in fine form, and made up in agility what they lacked in weight in comparison with their opponents. Their play was wholly a forward one, and in this they held their own in fine style. About the only point in which they outplayed the Canadians was in dribbling."

Some trade-mark in football phraseology in Halifax, and Saturday's dribbling counted much in her favor. A Pittsburg, Pa., paper says: "Bike" Young, cover-point, arrived yesterday. He says he was never in better condition and expects to play the game of his life. Young is a new recruit. He and Reynor were in yesterday's practice. Young is a well built chap and fast. He showed up well yesterday in shooting and the other players say he is a little better in this department than Alf Smith, of last year's team. "Pinky" Lamb, of last year's team, took part in the practice yesterday, being at goal. Lamb has retired from the game.

"Queen of the Highway," To-Night.

The title, "The Queen of the Highway," does not give one anything like an idea of what the play is. Instead of being of a blood and thunder nature, it is a well thought out play, with situations that are, many of them, worthy of being taken seriously.

Miss Charlotte Severson, plays the "queen" with a care and study of the part that is worthy of much praise. J. Louis Ungerer gave a conception of Indian character that was really very clever. Jack Sharkey made a pleasing hero. There is any amount of comedy in the piece, and the scenery and collection of Indians, ponies, dogs, etc., lends an air of naturalness to the scenes that is not often found in popular priced house attractions.

WELL KNOWN HERE.

A Sketch of a Man Who Tried Suicide.

A man named Fitzgibbons, well known to the Kingston police, has been trying to commit suicide in Syracuse, N. Y. A Herald reporter saw a son-in-law of the man and he said: "Ever since I have been in the family, some fourteen years, Fitzgibbons has been drunk with the exception of seven weeks in one year."

His daughter said of him: "In the last twenty-three years he has never brought home one whole week's wages."

Fitzgibbons began his interesting career of evil in Kingston, Ont., when he celebrated the arrival of one of his children by dragging his wife around by her hair. Then he was arrested for attempting to burn his house. When the case came to trial, Fitzgibbons was found guilty and immediately went into a cataleptic fit. It was his first attempt at this kind of faking, and it was remarkably successful. He became rigid, his eyes closed and he had every appearance of being unconscious. The prison doctors tried the usual tests. They burned him with irons, and poured ammonia up his nose. Although afterwards admitting that he suffered torments from the burns and was half suffocated from the ammonia, the man stood the test and was released as mentally irresponsible.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

The Late Dr. Grant Was Made Principal of Queen's.

Twenty-five years ago Friday, the 5th, the late Dr. Grant was installed as principal of Queen's University. The Whig devoted nine and a half large columns to the event. The academic procession to the then convocation hall was headed by the janitor, the late John Cornack, in his gown. Then followed the chancellor, (Rev. Dr. Cook) and Sir John A. Macdonald, the trustees and benefactors, Principal McVicar, of Montreal, the senate, the professors of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, etc.

Rev. D. M. Gordon, of Ottawa, the divine who is about to be called to the vacant principality, was chaplain on that occasion, and read Psalms XLVII and offered prayer. Rev. Dr. Cook, the chancellor, installed the new principal. In the evening, Principal Grant gave his inaugural address, which was eloquent and powerful. Ad dresses were presented to the principal by the medical faculty; the Aesculapian Society, of which the late Dr. A. N. Fenwick was president; and the Alma Mater Society, whose president was A. P. Knight. Principals Caven and McVicar spoke briefly as did also Sir John A. Macdonald, who added his congratulations.

The Opinion Of A Parent.

"It is fortunate for the children attending Louise school that the cold weather has come to harden the mud in that school yard," remarked a King street merchant this morning, who has two boys enrolled as pupils of Louise school. "My boys have been coming home every day covered with mud, which they gathered in the school yard during recess. I made it my business to go up to the school yesterday and inspect the yard, and I say that it is a disgrace to the Board of Education. The yard is nothing more or less than a mud hole. The boys cannot be blamed for getting muddy, because it is necessary for them to play and get exercise, and the only place they have to move about in is a mud patch."

The Supply Keeps Up.

"Kingston has contributed her share of sailors to the sacrifices demanded by the great lakes," remarked an old mariner last evening while commenting upon the Bannockburn disaster. "I have lived in Kingston nearly all my life, and ever since I came here there has been a continuous chain of sailors, a sailor a season went by without the loss of some Kingston sailors. But still the supply keeps up. One would think that a disaster such as that of the Bannockburn would have a deterrent effect upon the supply of sailors, but it has not, and next season the market will be overstocked with young men anxious to go sailing."

Bought More Hotel Property.

Alderman Harkness has purchased the Clarendon house, Brock street, for many years conducted by the late Lake Doney, but for the last year or two in charge of Thomas Sullivan. The property was sold by auction by W. Murray, Jr. The price paid was $3,150. The license is transferable to the new owner, Alderman Harkness also owns the property adjoining, on which is situated the American hotel.

A Very Serious Charge.

A non-commissioned officer in one of the local batteries of Royal Canadian Artillery has brought a serious charge against an officer of high standing. It is alleged that the officer saw a non-commissioned officer on parade in an advanced condition of intoxication and that he neglected to have the man placed under arrest. The charge now made against the officer is neglect of duty.

His Resignation Accepted.

At the last meeting of the Kingston Bicycle Club, D. H. Campbell, secretary, sent in his resignation, which was accepted with regret. During his term of office he did much to advance the interests of the club. Fred Lougher was appointed to the position. A committee is making arrangements for the regular monthly dance on the 10th inst.

Aboard the steamship Sicilian, which went ashore in the St. Lawrence river a week or ten days ago was a large consignment of cheese made by L. W. Murphy. A CASE OF BIGOTRY.

Reference Made To The Late Dr. Grant.

Toronto Star.

There is a spirit of intolerance evinced by some of the advocates of prohibition that drives away from the cause many who might otherwise be its supporters. Wherever there is zeal there is a measure of intolerance, of course, but the temperance cause has been carried on for so long a time that it is not by now have a broad enough platform for those not prepared to adopt the extreme views of its advocates. We have received a piece of verse for publication that breathes the spirit of the narrowest intolerance and the most brazen impiety. Quoting the statement of the late Principal Grant, made early in the present year, "I shall cite against provincial prohibition," the writer of the verses begins as follows:

How oft the first of time discloses, Though man proposes, but God disposes. "I shall," misled, writes Principal Grant, God sends death to say "You shan't."

The remaining lines enforce the opinion that God intervened and removed Principal Grant in order to prevent his voting against the liquor act. These verses are the expression of a bigotry which is not, we fear, confined to a few persons—a bigotry which tends to drive thousands to refuse to identify themselves with a cause in which they would be associated with many people entirely unguilted by reason, and ready to uphold people of the noblest qualities—such men as the late Principal Grant—who happen to disagree with them. The late Principal Grant led a life of the highest usefulness to the cause of religion and morals, and it shows an incredible perversion of mind in anyone who can suggest that he was removed from the sphere of usefulness which he occupied because he did not intend, had lived, to vote as this versifier intends to vote.

Home Darkened By Death.

To Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Moore, 35 Division street, general sympathy is extended in the sad loss of their youngest child, Gordon, a bright little lad one year and nine months old. About three days ago the little lad, while playing, upset a vessel of boiling water. His right side was scalded, though not to a fatal extent. The shock the child received caused his death, which occurred about ten o'clock this morning. He was a very bright and loving child, whose unexpected demise is sincerely regretted.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure, prepared for circulars, free, and F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.
