The first, the church's glorious hope, for which she should be looking with outstretched neck and eager eyes, is the appearing of her Lord and Saviour. For this she should wait and watch and pray, preparing herself now by personal devotion, personal surrender, for the blessed time when she shall 'see the Bridegroom face to face. While dealing with the last divisionthe gospel's constraining motive-the bishop said it was his belief that in the final day of account there would be fewer souls lost than man supposed, for the compassionate love of God was ever reaching out to seek and save. The result was that the horse fell into an open cattle guard. Half the village turned out to help rescue the scribe's "cob" from is perilous position.
