

HOW TO DRINK MILK.

Why it Disagrees With Some People.

When one needs a reviving stimulant after exhaustion nothing can ridal the effects of hot milk sipped slowly.

Some people say they cannot digest milk and these are the people who drink it down quickly so that the digestive acids, in playing around it, form large curds which give trouble before they can be absorbed.

The right way is to sip the milk in small amounts, so that each mouthful as it descends into the stomach, is surrounded by the gastric fluid, and when the whole glassful is down the effect is that of a spongy mass of curds, in and out of which the gastric juices course, readily doing their work of turning the curd into peptones that the tissues can take up.

To make sure of complete digestion take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets afterwards, as the pepsin and diastase they contain increase the quantity and efficiency of the gastric juices and supply the natural digestive ferments which all weak stomachs lack.

Miss Anna Folger, a professional nurse, speaking of the value of Stuart's Tablets in convalescence, says: "In adult patients recovering from severe illness and especially in children where milk disagrees, one or two tablets overcome any difficulty and seem to strengthen the stomach in a remarkably short time. I myself have used them daily for years, when my own digestion has suffered from the irregularity and loss of sleep consequent upon my occupation."

Not only children and invalids but professional people and others whose meals are necessarily hurried or irregular will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets of the greatest value in keeping up the tone and digestive vigor of the stomach.

They contain the active digestive ferments, the lack of which is really the only cause of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the regular daily use of them after meals will probably cure any case of stomach trouble except such as arises from cancer or ulceration.

Many druggists have said that they sell more Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than all other stomach remedies combined.

WOOL ART SQUARES

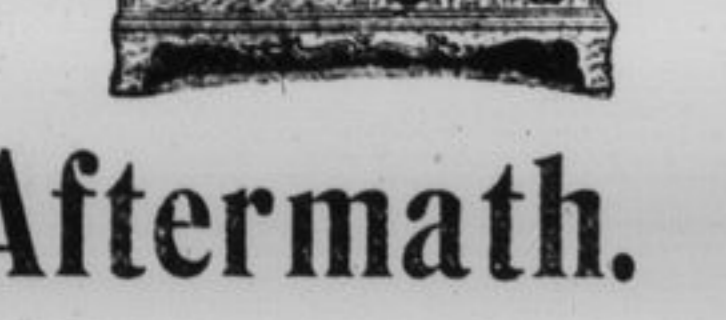

For bedrooms, sitting rooms, dining rooms, in fact for any room in the house. In these cold winter days there is some satisfaction in the feel of a good wool square under the foot. It makes a room seem so warm and cozy.

If you have a dining-room with oil cloth or linoleum on the floor put a wool rug over it and you will find it money well invested, and the price is surprisingly low.

NOMINATIONS.

THE CANDIDATES FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Mayor Shaw Reviews the Work of the Year—Names Proposed for Office—The Candidates in the Various Wards.

Old Father Time gave the municipal wheel one more turn and this morning again brought the electors together in the city hall to take part in the important duty, as citizens, of listening to what the different mayoralty candidates had to say regarding what they proposed to do if elected.

On the platform were seated, when the city clerk opened proceedings, Mayor Shaw, Ald. Graham, Bell, White, John Nicolle, W. Spencer, Dr. Ryan, J. Dennison, J. Maloney, A. B. Cunningham and a few others.

The all important proceedings were opened by ex-Mayor Ryan nominating Alderman Bell, referring to his candidature's six years as an alderman, as a member of all important committees and chairman of three of them.

John Nicolle next nominated Alderman White, referring to the fact that he had always admired the free and independent course of his nominee, whom he asked the electors to return at the head of the poll.

Ald. White's seconder was James Denison, speaking of Alderman White's high qualifications for the office of mayor. He had never missed a meeting of council in the four years he sat in that body.

Ex-Alderman A. B. Cunningham brought forward the name of Alderman Graham for the office of mayor. The speaker had sat in council for two years with Alderman Graham and had watched his course for two years afterwards, and he had always found him a man of independence and straightforwardness.

John Maloney seconded the nomination. The Mayor's Address.

Mayor Shaw, in giving an account of his stewardship, said: "Following the example of those who preceded me, I am here to-day to give you a short statement of the year's proceedings, as it is something called give an account of my stewardship."

"While the year has not been particularly an eventful one, it has been an interesting one. My associations with the aldermen you have elected have been of the pleasantest nature, and they have given me support on all occasions."

"It was my privilege to hand over to Queen's University the magnificent building which you so generously gave to that great institution. At the first meeting of the council I urged upon the aldermen the necessity of keeping within the appropriation and am glad to say this has been done by most of the committees. The board of works under the able chairmanship of Alderman McLeod, with the assistance of the city engineer, has kept within its appropriation, and considering the small amount at its disposal, the streets and walks of our city are in good condition. During the year a large number of asphalt walks have been laid, taking the place of plank ones, and I feel certain they will prove more economical."

"While some of the committees have, to a small extent, exceeded their appropriations, I am pleased to say that we have the smallest deficit in years. I will now read the appropriation statement: Appropriation statement of floating liabilities, as on 31st December, 1902: Liabilities—Interest and debentures, (due December 31st, 1902), $25,328.50; bills payable, $50,000; Light, Heat and Power company, $2,200; trust funds, House of Industry, $1,000; Board of Education, $1,500; making, $31,000; drain deposits, $164,917; personal accounts, $685; total liabilities, $81,788.50.

"Assets—Cash, $10,673.60; bills receivable, $50,250; arbitration account, $1,047; broken stone, asphalt, etc., $9,200.99; personal accounts, $809.57; bond investments, $236,96; drafts, $1,884.78; water, $7,237.75; making, $12,271.71; total assets, $81,195.80; balance deficiency, $292.61.

"When you consider that we figured on a revenue of $750 more from Oct. 1st licenses than we received, you will see that had the law been enforced or carried in the early part of the year, we would have had a surplus."

"I fought strongly against the city going into the purchase of wood and coal for distribution, and am glad the council did not purchase either, as if they had, I feel certain we would have lost heavily."

"Gentlemen, I will close by just referring to one matter that I believe is of great importance, and for fear I may be understood, I wish to say that under no circumstances will I be a candidate this year. I think it would be gratifying to the city's interests to elect your mayor for the second term, because he has just got a good grasp of civic affairs when he has to vacate the chair. So I suggest to you that the mayor elected this year, whoever he may be, should be re-elected in January, 1904.

"Now, gentlemen, I thank you for having placed me in the position of mayor of my native city, and I wish you every happiness and success in the coming New Year."

When the hour of receiving nominations passed, the city clerk retired, after having moved that Mayor Shaw take the chair, which arrangement was carried out.

Speeches of Candidates. At the suggestion of Mayor Shaw the candidates began their addresses. Alderman Bell was the first, Alderman White second, and Alderman Graham third. Each candidate had a number of admirers present, but most enthusiasm was shown Alderman Graham throughout the proceedings.

Alderman White's speech was short and pointed. He referred to his chairmanship of two committees, his service on all important committees, and his independent course on all questions. He said that if elected his course as mayor would be characterized by the same fearlessness and independence.

Alderman Bell in replying to Alderman Graham, showed that the last named had a deficit of $12.26 as the chairman of parks. The speaker said that Alderman Graham was wrong in saying that the budget of this year showed a deficit of $750; the butchers' license fee was raised, he said, because the butchers requested it; the high license fee was reduced because of the scarcity of meat; and if Alderman White had not returned the other $1 he had not returned; he surely was good for that amount. Dr. Bell was trying to make out that the speaker was dishonest, which was unfair and untrue. He had put through council more important legislation in his four years he sat in council than had Ald. Bell in his six years; the only measure that Alderman Bell had put through was a mill by-law, tax, which everybody who kept a cow. The speaker was not afraid to face any question brought before council and never shirked a vote.

Frontenacs' Course Reviewed—Princeton and Yale, Strongly Amateur, Play in Pittsburg, Pa.—General Sport Review.

The executive of the Frontenac Hockey Club have brought matters to a terminus, so far as connection with the O.H.A. is concerned. For years past, Kingston clubs have been in the habit of visiting Pittsburg and playing exhibition matches. This month the Frontenacs, before the O. H. A. mandate was issued, entered into a contract the same as last year. Their request to O.H.A. executive to treat their case with consideration resulted in a wa-ve of energy, as that body, which has yearly been paying from $200 to $300 for an "amateur" secretary, could not think of permitting their clubs to become contaminated by going to Pittsburg and playing against "professionals" who, from all accounts, have to work pretty hard at their various mercantile employments, hockey being their nightly pastime.

The Frontenacs had no other alternative but to resign from the Ontario association. The latter has now no authority over them, and as the Frontenacs will make sure to play against no officially declared professional, while in Pittsburg, consequently no organization in Canada dare professionalize any of them. The Frontenacs are now accountable only to the officers of the Quinte District Hockey League, and if its president decides to give the Frontenacs a permit to visit Pittsburg, his authority is as absolute as that of John Ross Robertson; and each player will return as Simon-pure an amateur as when he left.

It is worth mentioning that the Princeton university hockey team played in Pittsburg on Saturday. At that and other United States universities, amateurism in sport reigns supreme. Will the O.H.A. executive say that Princeton is any the worse? Yale, too, is soon to play at Pittsburg, and then Queen's and Yale will play in New York. What will the O.H.A. say to that? It will be noticed that Toronto "Varsity" is to play in Houghton, Mich. Now that Varsity will afterwards play O.H.A. teams and later on begin its intercollegiate season, what will the O.H.A. executive say to that? By the middle of January, Mr. Robertson's hockey institution will have congestion of the brain.

Permission Granted. J. T. Sutherland, manager of Frontenac hockey, this morning received a letter from Harry E. Smith, Napanee, president of the Quinte District hockey league, in which he says: "Replying to your letter of the 26th inst., as president of the Quinte District hockey league, I grant the Frontenac hockey club permission to play in Pittsburg on January 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th next. Mr. Smith asks the Frontenacs to play against no known professionals, which will certainly not be done if the Kingston team decides to go. All care will be exercised in that regard."

General Sport Review. The Montreal Mascotte baseball club wants to join the Northern New York league.

At Edinburgh on Saturday, the Canadian Rugby team played a tie match with the Wanderers, both teams failing to score.

In the Ontario curling association schedule, Kingston is in group 5, and plays Oshawa at Port Hope in the first round.

Indoor football was played at Deerpark on Christmas day, but the tankard used on the floor was not palatable, as it nearly choked the players. A Quebec province baseball league will be formed next spring, likely with Quebec, Three Rivers, Hull, Montreal, St. Johns, St. Hyacinthe, St. Henri and Ste. Ceneogone.

In last week's hockey match at Pittsburg, the P.A.C. Kingston team defeated the Keystone boys by 4 to 1. Victoria's lead the league, having one more win than the P.A.C.'s.

In the eastern section of the O.H.A. senior series, Smith's Falls and Cornwall will play home and home matches. Next season will certainly see these two teams out of the O.H.A.

The best thing for the Pittsburg, Pa. clubs to do, they are paying salaries, is to change the name to "honourarium." Then they will be on the same level with the O.H.A. executive, and all will be peace.

A hockey team from Queen's will play in Belleville to-morrow night. It will likely be composed of these players: Goal, Mills; point, Macdonnell; defencemen, Gledhill, centres, Knight, Wilson; wings, Brock, Walsh. The same team will play in Cornwall on New Year's night.

The Hamilton Tigers who won the junior O.R.F.U. championship from Kingston Limestone by the big score of 2 to 1 in their own jungle, have come out of retreat, and seeing no one snickering at them, have begun to actuate for a banquet at which some strangers might congratulate them on their victory, seeing that no one else did.

The Buffalo Express says: "Canadian athletes were stronger than usual last season. This they showed at the United States championships. Grant, running under the colors of the New York Athletic Club, captured both the distance races, while Orton, an other Canadian, was second in the half mile. Gray, the old-time champion, won the shot put, while the silent French policeman from Montreal surprised everyone by defeating both Flanagan and Mitchell in the 50 pound event. Morrow was second in the mile, while White, placed in both the sprints. Morrow must be made of Cadbury and his fellow townsman from Hamilton, Ont., who made such a fine showing in the annual Manhattan race given each year by the Boston Athletic Association. Cadbury holds the world's amateur record for the twenty-five miles, again indicating Canada's superiority in America as far as distance running is concerned."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Movements Of The People—What They Are Saying And Doing.

R. D. Baker, Ottawa, spent Sunday in the city with his family. Miss Jenkins, Colborne street, is spending a holiday in Napanee with Mrs. Boyle.

Isaac Bowden, Lethbridge, N.W.T., is in the city spending a few holidays with relatives. Alderman Behan, after a period of illness, was able to resume his duties in his office to-day.

Miss Galey, Belleville, seriously ill, is recovering. She is a graduated nurse of the Kingston General Hospital.

Miss Frances Troy who spent Christmas with her father and sisters, on Wolfe Island, has returned to the city.

Capt. Bloomfield is in Piton, visiting friends. Capt. Bloomfield may locate in Hamilton next season, and may command either the steamer Maracaibo or Majestic.

S. McNabb, tailor, in the employment of A. C. Waggoner, left to-day for Perth, having been summoned there because of the serious illness of his father.

On November 1th, at Karachi, Bombay presidency, Miss Leeds, daughter of the late Col. Sir Edward Leeds, Bath, Eng., was married to Capt. G. M. Duff, son of the late Lieut. Col. Duff, of this city.

Harry Wilson and wife have been spending their Christmas holidays with Mrs. Wilson's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Koushner, 260 Bagot St., and will return to their home in Hamilton to-morrow. Their old friends were pleased to see them again.

AN EMINENT TEACHER.

Of Eloquence—Prof. Stephen, Lecturer at Queen's.

A department in which Queen's requires a permanent lecturer is that of Eloquence. Each session a short course has been given on this important subject by specially appointed teachers, but as a time has the course been so appreciated as this session, Prof. J. P. Stephen, principal of the Montreal School of Eloquence, and lecturer at leading educational institutions, including McGill, was appointed by Queen's theological faculty to lecture this month, and during the two weeks prior to the Christmas vacation, was occupied with the divinity students in particular. So enthusiastic were they over his work and good results that they tendered him a testimonial address, and expressed the hope that he would return later and continue the course.

Prof. Stephen does not belong to that artificial school of oratory, but to the higher and real school. He endeavors to develop the accord between soul, body and voice—the three fundamental principles of real eloquence. A student may be scholarly and full of ideas, but lack the power of expressing himself. To develop this power is the work of the teacher of eloquence at a college. He endeavors to bring the mind, the voice and the gesture into perfect accord, and to do this requires a man of rare ability. Queen's did well in securing Prof. Stephen as eloquence lecturer this session.

The Death Of A Sister.

Early on Monday morning Sister Veronica, after over two weeks' illness from typhoid pneumonia, sank into eternal rest, aged thirty-six years. She was taken ill at Belleville, where she was engaged teaching. She was a graduate of Kingston and Toronto business colleges, and was an expert stenographer. Deceased, known to the world as Miss Maud Dennee, was a daughter of John R. Dennee, South Ferrisburgh, and a niece of John O'Hanlon, of the Inland Revenue office. She entered the House of Providence about ten years ago.

A solemn requiem mass will be celebrated at the chapel of the Mother of Sorrows on Wednesday, for the repose of her soul, at the conclusion of which the funeral cortege will proceed to St. Mary's cemetery.

Christmas In The Penitentiary.

Toronto Globe. The penitentiary officials say there is no truth in the report sent out from Kingston that more vigorous treatment of the convicts has recently been introduced, including the suppression of Christmas presents. The officials state that Christmas presents have been forbidden for many years owing to the fact that cakes and other toothsome articles sent to the convicts used to contain money and sometimes weapons. To compensate for the lack of delicacies from friends outside the prison walls, the convicts see a more liberal diet on Christmas day.

Guy DeWences, whose name appeared among the killed by the G.T.R. accident, was a brother of Rev. A. D. DePender, a student at St. James' cathedral, Toronto, and brother of Norman DeWences, who was graduated at the King's General Hospital. Mr. DePender had left Toronto, after spending a few days at Christmas time with his brother. He was born at Barritt's Rapids, near Ottawa, and left for the west sixteen years ago. He was engaged in ranching in Washington territory, and was married.

CLEVER ACTORS

PRESENT THE FINE ENGLISH COMEDY "CASTLE."

G. H. Brennan's New Company Score a Decided Hit in Their Revival of This Popular Play—Words of Praise For Their Good Work.

On Saturday Kingston theatre-goers had the privilege and pleasure of witnessing, both in the afternoon and evening, a new reproduction of that always popular English comedy, "Castle." There has perhaps not been a season in many years when this play has not been revived in old London, where its charming blend of simple pathos and humor has endeared it to the people seemingly for all time. So it is not strange that George H. Brennan organized a new company especially for this play, which appeared for the first time in Ogdensburg on Christmas night and in Brockville on Friday evening. Its third appearance was on the stage at the Grand opera house, this city.

Mr. Brennan has succeeded in getting together an exceptionally strong and clever company, and their work on Saturday left nothing to be desired. They were well received here, and on all sides the new production received warm compliments. And it justly deserved them.

The story of the play is a simple but natural one. Eccles, a lazy, good-for-nothing drunkard, who is continually preaching the rights of the poor laboring man, is the father of two handsome daughters, Esther and Polly. Hon. George D'Alroy, a rich young nobleman, and the son of the Marquis de St. Maur, falls in love with Esther. She is equally infatuated with him, but pleads with him to give her up because of the inequality of their stations in life. He throws overboard his rich fiancee, and marries a young gas-fitter, Samuel Gerridge by name, is Polly's lover, and the two furnish considerable amusement; while the drunken Eccles keeps the audience in roars of laughter. That is the first act.

The second introduces George's mother, who warns him not to disgrace his historic name by just such a marriage. George's regiment has been ordered to India, and his captain, Haytree, comes to warn him to be at his post in time. The scene that ensues when the mother discovers her son's marriage and the husband's parting from his bride, furnish scope for good work, which Mr. Brennan's company capably fulfilled. The third act shows the young wife in widow's garb, weeping over the cradle of her baby boy for the father who is supposed to have been killed. But he returns, and to her sister falls the difficult task of breaking the news. This she does in a most original and clever manner. George's mother forgives them at last, and Polly and her lover receive the dissolute father's blessing.

Robert V. Ferguson is the comedian, taking the character of Eccles. He is well known to Kingstonians, who admire his clever work as Spaschik, in "The Country Girl," which appeared here last season. He is well fitted for the role, and was the recipient of hearty praise. William A. Evans, as Gerridge, made a typical English lad of the middle classes. The accent, the abruptness and the manner throughout were thoroughly English. William Haggline did equal justice to the character of Capt. Haytree, and at once won the favor of the audience.

Mary Scott, as Esther Eccles, the unhappy wife, made a decided hit. She is a Californian actress who has starred in several plays. Her efforts on Saturday, in a rather difficult role, were highly successful. Sadie Handy, as her sister Polly, is pretty and vivacious, full of fun and well adapted to the character she impersonated. She, her lover and her tipsy parent supplied any amount of good comedy.

One of the leading members of the company is the Comtesse de Castell, coaching the high-born Sadies Handy, as her sister Polly, is pretty and vivacious, full of fun and well adapted to the character she impersonated. She, her lover and her tipsy parent supplied any amount of good comedy.
