Young Life. Showing an increase in everything which builds up and strengthens a company, a constantly decreasing ratio of expense to income, the annual report of the Imperial Life Assurance company of Canada must be gratifying to the company's policyholders and representatives. In connection with the year's statement, which we publish to day, the remark of the first vice-president, A. E. Ames, will be of interest: "The new business transacted in 1902, of $4,127,642, not only surpassed that of any previous year, but was exceeded in 1901, the last year for which we have official eighteen engaged in the business." Referring to the permanency of company's business, the president. Sir Oliver Mowat, said: "An analysis has fying to be able to say that there is no other company's business which exhibits a lower ratio of termination than does that of the Imperial Life. The Imperial was the first company in Canada to place its entire policy reserve upon the 31 per cent. interest basis required by the Dominion govserve $129,000 greater than that required by that government. The claims average rate of interest earned by the company on its invested assets was even better than the 5.39 per cent. rate earned in 1901. Deceased retained all his faculties to the last, and was able to be about the house as usual the day before he died. The cause of his death was evidently heart failure. Mr. Wagar was born in the township of South Fredericksburgh, where spent most of his days, coming Napance a few years ago to reside with his son. Deceased was liberal, and in his younger days took a deep interest in the affairs of his na tive township, and sat at its council board. Mrs. Wagar predeceased him eight years, and out of a large fammain but four, Dr. Wagar, Napance, Allan Wagar, South River Road, George, on the homestead, and Mrs. Arthur Snyder, Thousand Island Park, fell the family. Mr. and Mrs. Wagar had gone out to spend the evening with a neighbor. During their absence turn it was reduced to ashes, their five children perishing in the flames.
