Old Maids and Climate. The unenlightened frequently make the mistake of thinking that lack of opportunity is responsible for the existence of single women, but I lay most of it to climate. The New England mate is not conducive to matrimony or even lovemaking. And even after the crucial moment has passed and the single woman has drifted from girlhood to spinsterhood, a cold climate raw winds, chill rains and snow tend may be old maids in the south, but ! never heard of them being called by that name. I have known some single women, schoolteachers, anywhere from seventeen to fifty, and some of their grown boy pupils were eternally and perennially in love with them. A singie woman who has made up her min not to marry has a hard time to keep her resolution in the south, for she is always assailed to break it. The very slimate breathes love. Ah, there it is As I said, old maids are surely a mat ter of climate.-Harper's Bazar.

The Polar Bear. The animal par excellence which th bunter, the amateur arctic traveler and the young explorer hopes and dreams of killing is the polar bear. The reason for this is the magnificent trophy which the great white skin makes This feeling was no less strong centu ries ago than it is now, for we read that one of the early Icelandic sea rovers to Greenland quarreled with and killed his bosom companion because he had slain a large bear instead of leaving that honor to his chief. With the modern repeating rifle the bear stands so chance against the hunter, no matter under what conditions they may meet, and if he is hunted in the native way, with the assistance of dogs, there is hardly more excitement than in kill ing musk oxen, except for the wild. helter skelter dash over the ice to overtake the animal after the dogs strike the hot scent.-Leslie's Monthly

Landon's Highest Level. on is the middle of Pannier alley, ruuning between Newgate street and Paternoster row, Ben Jonson tells us that in his day this was a stand for tripe sellers and earlier still for bakers. The exact spot is indicated on the east wall by a stone monument consisting boy sitting upon a pannier, or baker's basket, holding in his hand a sunch of grapes. On the pedestal is the following inscription: When ye have sought the city round,

Were we to include Greater London then Hempstead heath would be the pot, for it is 424 feet above sea level or 84 feet above the cross of St. Paul.

List of the Greatest Ten Men the World Has Known, world has known? Dr. J. McKeen Cattell gives Napoleon, Shakespeare, Mohammed, Voltaire, Bacon, Aristotle, Gothe, Julius Casar, Luther and Plato. "The method I followed," says the author, "to discover the 1,000 men who are pre-eminent was this: I took six biographical dictionaries or encyclopedias - two English, two French, one German and one American-and found the 2,000 men in each who were allowed the longest articles. In this way some 6,000 men were found. I then selected the men who appeared in the lists of at least three of the dictionasand who were allowed the greatest average space. Thus was obtained not only the thousand men esteemed the most eminent, but also the order in which they stand. According to this list, the ten most eminent are given above. It is curious that these ten preeminent men are so widely separate in race and age-two Greeks, two Frenchmen, two Germans, two Englishmen, one Roman and one Arab and two in century before Christ, one in the sixth, one in the fifteenth, two in the sixteenth and three in the eighteenth century. The ten names last on the list are Otho, Sertorius, Macpherson, Claudian, Domitian, Bugeaud, Charles I. of Naples, Fauriel, Enjantin and Barbery, names hardly ever heard."

Hindeos the angel of death used this cue to drag them to heaven. Women are great patrons of the barber, for the Brahmanical law is very explicit on this score and provides that widows must keep their heads shaved. This rule is most rigidly enforced, and the unfortunate widow has to make herself as ugly as possible, and gracefully submits to an operation which deprives her of her greatest ornament, for Brahman women have splendid heads of hair and their coiffure sets it off to exceptional advantage. It is put up in a coil. The rich partially cover this huge knot with a thin platter of beaten gold, while the poor intwine in it the gorgeous flowers of the marigold.

Frogs That Sing. In some cases the glottis of the frog presents a considerable analogy to the upper larynx of birds. Cuvier compares their mechanism to a kettledrum, Dr. Abbott to a steam whistle. Various species of the hylodes, or tree frog, found most abundantly in South America, make the best approach to song. Some of their sounds are flutelike, others metallic, others again a clear, loud trilled rattle, sometimes piercingly

That under certain circumstances the effects are pleasing we can gather from such a keen observer as Darwin. Coal Bin Measurements.

A solid cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs ninety-three pounds. When broken for use, it weighs about fiftyfour pounds. Bituminous coal, when broken up for use, weighs about fifty ounds. The consequent rule for the approximate measurement of coal in a bin or box is to multiply the length in feet by the height in feet and again by the breadth in feet and this result by fifty-four for anthracite coal or by fifty for bituminous coal. The result will equal the number of pounds, and to find the number of tons divide by 2.000 .- Popular Mechanics. First American Peerage.

It is recorded in a history of the United States that an Indian-chief named Mante, after baptism, was made a peer, receiving the rank of baron and assuming the title of Lord of Roanoke, so far back as the year 1587. Somewhat later, in 1609, the title of Lord Delaware was granted by James L to the new governor Virginia. Later still, in 1633, Charles I., among his coronation honors, conferred the title of Viscount Canada upon Sir William Alexander. The Peacock on a Rainy Day.
