LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. Suggestions Offered For a Distinctive Canadian Uniform.

Kingston, May 14 .- (To the Edi tor): I visited the armouries last ev ening and witnessed a parade of three branches of the Canadian militia service, namely, the 44th Regiment, Army Service Corps, and Army Medical Corps. Each branch looked neat in its particular uniform, the Army Service Corps being especially attractive But it occurred to me that our mil tia could be clothed to better effect in distinctive Canadian uniform was adopted for all branches, for instance, a serviceable uniform something like the new grey drab with which some of This, with a Stetson hat, the same would make both a neat, serviceable and sensible uniform. The Big Fellows Satisfied. The Toronto Board of Trade del gates applauded the proposed business tax which had been successful in which small dealers were not complaining. A discrimination in tax by grading between wholesalers and retailers was impracticable; one test was that of jobbers. Justice would be much greater under the new bill; so many would not shirk righteous taxes. A host of dealers now paid a ridiculously small tax, occupying small premises with small stocks, daily replenished. Then some retailers made more than wholesalers.
