FAMOUS HYMNS.

interesting Facts About the Authorshi of Church Music-Many Hymns Great ly Changed From the Original. favorite hymn. Yet few know its author and under what circumstances it was compose. Take the Christmas hymns, for example, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," when original-ly published by Charles Wesley in 1739, began, "Hark, How All the Welkin Rings. "Christians, Awake!" was composed by John Byrom, in 1745, as a carol for his little daughter Dolly, "for her and for no one else." In the original the manuscript is headed "Christmas Day for Dolly." It was first published in 1746, in Harrop's Manchester Mercury, and was set to mu-sic by the organist of the Manches-ter parish church, Mr. John Wainwright, "While Shepherds Watched," another carol, was written by Na hum Tate 200 years ago. Abide With Me. The popular "Abide With Me," was written by the Rev. H. E. Lyte, in 1847, at Brixham. He had beome so ill that he was ordered to Nice. On the Sunday evening prior to his leaving he walked by the seashore alone for half an hour after he had spoken to his congregation for the last time. When the sun had set he went back to his study, an an hour later the hymn was finished Dr. Monk composed its beautiful setting in an inspired ten minutes. Canon Ellerton's popular 'Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name." was composed so recently as 1886. has since then been translated into early every language and dialect. The story of how Newman wrote "Lead, Kindly Light," in a boat, while becalmed in the Straits of Bonifacio, is well known.

"Rock of Ages"-probably the most popular hymn in the English language-was written by Toplady when caught in a thunderstorm near Blagdon in the Mendips. As the London went down in the Bay Biscay in 1866 the doomed passengers sang this hymn. It was once translated into Hindustani by an enthusiastic native convert, and his rendering, literally translated, read

Let me absent myself under one of your hymns of Isaac Watts. It is said that he wrote "Not all the Blood of Beasts," after a visit to Smithfield Market, while the charming hymn There is a Land of Pure Delight" was suggested by the view of South ampton water as seen from the Isle of Wight. He is believed to have written 500 hymns; many are mediocre; a few will last as long as the English language. One of Wesley's First

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was suggested to Charles Wesley by a seabird flying to him for protection during a storm. It was one of the carliest that he wrote. A good story is told of Keble and Dr. Neale, both writers of hymns: Dr. Neale was invited by Mr. Keble and the Bishop of Salebury to assist them with their new hymnal, and for this purpose he paid a visit to Hinslay parsonage. On one occasion Mr. Keble having to another room to find some papers was detained a short time. On his return Dr. Neale said, "Why, Keble, I thought you told me that the Christian Year' was entirely original?" "Yes," he answered, "it certainly is." "Then how comes this?" and Dr. Neale placed before him the Latin of one of Keble's hymns. Keble confessed himself utterly confounded He protested that he had never seen the original. After a few minutes of quiet enjoyment Neale relieved him by owning that he had just turned it into Latin during his absence.

Mymn for Brides. The now popular wedding hymn 'O Perfect Love" was written in 1883 by Mrs. Dorothy Gurney, for her sister's marriage, to be sang to the tune "O Strength and Stay." Sir Joseph Barnby set it to music for the wedding of Princess Louise of Wales. Canon Ellerton's "O Father, All-Creating," was composed at the request of the late Duke of Westminster for the marriage of his daughter to the Marquis of Ormonde in 1876. "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" was written by Heber in twenty minutes in 1819, and the only correction he made was to substitute "heathen" in the second verse for "savage. A most interesting chapter is that on children's hymns. Charles Wesley wrote the best known of all, ways contain poisons. Baby's Own 1740. It has been said that he Tablets are what is needed to put the wrote it for his own children, but

"There's a Friend for Little Children" was written by Mr. Midlane at Newport, Isle of Wight, near the house where Thomas Binney composed his verses beginning "Eternal and fretful and we got no rest with Light! One of the most curious stories in this admirable volume relates to the hymn beginning "O Happy Day That Fixed My Choice." This was once sung at the confirmation of one of the royal children by the late Queen's desire. The next day defences are all right. Of course, but leading London paper announced that the hymn had been specially written for the occasion by Tennyson, with a scathing criticism that if the Poet Laurente could do no better it was time objection was raised to his receiving national pay.
