Little Coal Goes A Long Way

towards heating a house if fed into a Furnace made to heat one which does not send the fuel up the chimney in smoke.

'Sunshine' Furnaces

will extract more heat from a unit of coal than any other good Furnace.

Every square inch from the bottom of fire-pot to top of dome is a direct radiating surface.

The dome is made of heavy steel-plate, which makes it more effective heater than the cast-iron dome put in common Furnaces.

The "Sunshine" has every improved feature and still is so simple that any person can operate it.

Told in the Twilight.

This life of ours is a wild aeolian harp of many a joyous strain. But under them all there runs a loud, perpetual note of woe in pain.

May a scribbler like me have any worry or trouble about the house corners' festival be permitted to suggest that as the returning ones are principally men, the refreshment menu runs more to sandwiches than cake?

Such a committee is hardly needed. You know there are a few things that men can do better than we can, and one of them is manipulating flags and bunting.
